Mediation On Berlin Spurned by Russians

Reply, Still Secret, Said to Ask Return To Agreement of Aug. 30 in Moscow

Paris, Oct. 13 (AP).—Russia rejected tonight efforts of the six neutrals to mediate the Berlin crisis, it was authoritatively reported. The Security Council was called to meet Friday to take up the issue once more.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky handed the Kremlin's answer on the Berlin question to Juan Bramuglia of Argentina, Council president.

The Russian reply still was a secret officially. But an authoritative Western source said its main points were:

1. Throw the Berlin case out of the Security Council.
2. Go back to the Moscow agreement of August 30 and renew negotiations.

The informal agreement in principle of August 30 with Marshal Stalin and Foreign Minister Molotov provided for Soviet zone currency for all Berlin under four-power supervision, and lifting the blockade. Later negotiations on details broke down in Berlin.

Going back to the August 30 agreement might mean a Russian retreat from the additional demands made by Soviet Marshal Vassily Sokolovsky in Berlin that the Russians control air traffic to Berlin. Western spokesmen did not comment on whether this was their interpretation.

An authoritative source declared the Russian answer put the Western powers back where they were. He added: "I imagine some of the 'little six' who have been attempting to mediate the situation will be disappointed."

The Russians' answer also signified they would probably continue their boycott of discussions on Berlin before the Security Council.

Bramuglia, who called the Security Council session for 3 p. m. (9 a. m. EST) Friday, was pessimistic. Asked if he would present any resolutions or other aspects of the case, he replied:

"No. It is up to the Council itself and every member will express his opinion after he has studied all the details with all calm and serenity."

He said the six neutrals would not meet again on mediation efforts.

A final conference of the neutrals—Argentina, China, Canada, Belgium, Syria and Colombia—lasted an hour and a half after the Russian reply was received. Earlier Bramuglia had talked for an hour with Vishinsky. Then he talked for over an hour with Dr. Philip C. Jessup, United States

The Hague, Oct. 13 (AP).—Government sources said tonight the cabinet had accepted the resignation of Dr. Hubertus J. Van Mook as Acting Governor General of Indonesia.

Self-Styled 'Plumber' Binds And Gags Girl, Steals $4000

FACED HOLDUP MAN—Joyce Dennis, wrapped in a Navy blanket, was near hysteria after holdup man bound and gagged her.

A man clad in khaki work clothes and armed with a knife cowed a cashier at the Navy Department Building, 18th st. and Constitution ave. nw., yesterday and escaped with about $4000.

The daring holdup took place at about 11:30 a. m. in the shuttered office of the Employe Relief Fund.

Using a ruse, the man caught the cashier, Miss Joyce Dennis, 22, alone in the office and pressing his knife against her forced her to open the safe. He bound and gagged Miss Dennis before leaving.

Shortly before the holdup, Miss Dennis, a cashier in the Employe Relief Fund office for the past three months, had collected the $4000 from a branch of the American Security Trust Co., in the fifth wing of the first floor of the Navy Department Building.

She then carried the money back to her office in Zero wing on the second floor.

The cash was obtained in preparation for cashing checks today which is payday for the Navy Department workers. Except on paydays the Employe Relief Fund, which operates as a credit union, has its office open only on Tuesday and Thursdays from noon to 1 p. m.

So yesterday Miss Dennis, after

Cleric Quits As Protest To U. S. Policy

The Rev. Eric T. Braund, minister of the Greenbelt (Md.) Community Church, submitted his resignation yesterday in protest against Government refusal to sell town land for church sites.

Braund

The 38-year-old minister charged the Public Housing Administration, which operates the Federally owned, model community, with "discouraging religion" and with depriving Greenbelt's 8000 inhabitants of a "normal church life."

The minister, leader of the 575-member Community Church since 1946, announced his resignation would be effective May 1 unless PHA clears the way for erection of a long-planned, permanent church building.

"As it is now," he declared, "we have no place in the town to hold a funeral or church wedding, and we hold Sunday services in a gymnasium-auditorium where dances and athletic events frequently are held the night before."

The Community Church he leads is an interdenominational fellowship founded in 1938 under auspices of the Washington Federation of Churches. Its membership, during the past two years, he said, has raised $46,000, of which $21,000 has already been collected, for a church building.

"The architectural plans are complete, and we are ready to start building if we only had a site," he said. 'It is a feeling of frustration to have gone so far and to be able to go no farther."

His protest resignation followed a PHA statement last week reaf-

Court Explains Montgomery Charter Ruling

By Roger B. Farquhar
Post Reporter

Maryland's Court of Appeals yesterday spelled out in detail why it had upheld a disputed portion of the proposed Montgomery County charter, sending the charter to a vote.

Amplifying its verbal decision of October 6, the court said, in answer to the contention that budget action by a charter council could not be taken in June because the State constitution requires legislative action to be done in May:

"We hold that the budget and the appropriation and the tax levy are none of them legislation as the word is used in the State constitution."

Chief Judge Ogle Marbury wrote the court's opinion, which overruled a Montgomery County court decision. The lower court had upheld contentions by Bethesda Attorney Hubert A. Schneider that the budget provision in the "home rule" charter conflicts with the State constitution.

In a 12-page written opinion, the Appelate Court outlined its reasons for reversing the county court decision, which found the budget provision unconstitutional and ordered it deleted from the "home rule" plan, which will be voted on at the polls November 2.

The State's highest court held that charter, as amended by the lower court, "is emasculated and is not the charter submitted by the charter board. We have been referred to no case which authorizes the courts to strike out, before submission, part of a proposed enactment which the people are to vote upon.

"The charter, as drafted, should be voted upon at the November election," the high court ruled.

In the opinion, the court emphasized it had passed only on

Comic Strips, Radio, Movies Called Propaganda for Crime

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—A United States Circuit Court judge told the International Association of Chiefs of Police today that comic strips, radio and motion pictures were "insidious propaganda machines for crime."

Judge Alfred P. Murrah of Oklahoma City told the association's fifty-fifth annual conference:

"Today, while masquerading under the banner of law and order and the slogan of 'crime doesn't pay,' the comic strip, radio and moving picture have made crime pay stupendous dividends to those who dramatize, exploit and sensationalize crime and criminals.

"We all know that the by-product of the so-called comic strip, the crime radio programs and the gangster movies is murder, rape, suicide and sexual atrocities.

"While these insidious propaganda machines for crime prey upon the impressionable minds of our youth, law enforcement officers are out piecing together the shreds of evidence to solve some heinous crime incubated in the mind of the author of the comic strip, a crime program or a gangster movie."

10-Yr. Militia Is Suggested For Boys 18

Harvard President Says U. S. Faces Divided World For a Long Time

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 13 (U.P.).—President James B. Conant of Harvard suggested tonight that the Nation's military needs be filled by enrolling every boy of 18 in a national militia for 10 years.

There would be no exemptions except for physical disability, Conant said, and the military training would be obtained in three or four summer camps of two or three months each and evening drill throughout the year.

Conant's suggestion was made in his new work, "Education in a Divided World," in which he recommended changes in public education to provide "a greater degree of equality of opportunity for the youth of each succeeding generation."

Contention Reiterated

He reiterated his contention that in planning for the future, the United States must assume an "armed truce until at least the middle fifties and a divided world for a long time to come."

In this period, he said, America will need to train its best men, both for peace and war. Conant said the present draft law was only a stop-gap and that the 10-year militia plan was preferable since it would not wreck a college educational year.

Education itself, the Harvard president said, must include a "discussion of Soviet philosophy and an expose of its methods."

This, he described, as the No. 1 educational need at the present time: "We study cancer in order to learn how to defeat it. We must study the Soviet philosophy in our universities and elsewhere for the same reason."

Conant Takes Issue

Conant took issue with the President's Commission on Higher Education in its belief that enrollment in graduate and professional schools should be increased 170 per cent.

If there are more doctors, lawyers, engineers, and scientists than the country's economy can support, the result will be "frustrated individuals with long education and considerable intelligence," Conant said, adding:

"From such people come the leaders of antidemocratic movements whether they originate from the right or the left."

He said that the amount of education a man or woman gets should depend on the work he plans to enter and that four-year colleges should be supplemented by local

Elizabeth Given 2-Hour Test, Held In Top Condition

London, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Princess Elizabeth underwent a two-hour examination by two of Britain's leading physicians today. They reported she was in excellent condition for the birth of her baby, expected in mid-November.

Sources close to Buckingham Palace said there was no foundation for reports that delivery would be by caesarian section.

Elizabeth was examined by Sir John Weir, physician-in-ordinary to King George, and Dr. William Gilliatt, president of the Royal College of Obstretricians and Gynecologists.

U. N. Undaunted, Untiring In Uncovering Right Word

(From Press Dispatches)

What the United Nations needs is a good copyreader.

A copyreader is a newspaperman who reads the stories before they get in the paper, corrects errors of fact and grammar, cuts out words that do not add anything and provides the proper word to get the exact shade of meaning.

Yesterday, the Social Committee of the United Nations spent more than two hours debating a single word. The committee finally chose the word "birth" because some of the delegates objected to such words as: class, caste, status and estate.

The discussion was over the proper word to use in a draft declaration on human rights which lists racial and other discriminations to be avoided.

The article, as finally approved in committee, reads: "Everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this declaration, without distinction of any kind, such as race, color, sex, language, religion, political or other opinion, property or other status, birth, or national or social origin."

Actually, tthe wording of the article is so broad, that it could be edited to say: "Everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth in this declaration."

Russia suggested "class." India proposed "caste."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said she thought both words were "outgrown."

Mexico's Raul Noriega suggested Mrs. Roosevelt "stop being afraid of words" and added that America's Thomas Jefferson had used "class" and got away with it.

Uruguay then proposed "status" and Russia countered with "estate."

China's P. C. Chang objected that "estate" was used by Francis Bacon 'in the sixteenth century" and he warned he might propose a couple of Chinese words if the debate dragged on.

During the debate, Mrs. Roosevelt urged Russian and other Communist speakers in the U. N. to be more courteous.

"Remember," she said, "no one who lives in the world is perfect."

The committee then voted to insert the word "birth" as urged earlier by the drafting group.

Opponent Only Recent Convert From Isolation, Says Truman; Dewey Plugs for GOP Congress

Governor Finds Democrats Given Edge in Oklahoma

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Aboard Dewey Campaign Train, Oct. 13.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey heard pleasant music as he campaigned in Oklahoma today, but found the local political picture disturbing.

In Tulsa, an impatient brass band welcomed him with "Hail to the Chief," which ordinarily is reserved for the President of the United States.

Governor Dewey, in a dozen or more talks, plugged hard for the election of Representative Ross Rizley, Republican candidate for the United States Senate. However, it looked like a vain effort. Oklahoma political reporters were agreed that former Gov. Robert Kerr, the Democratic candidate, probably would win.

Edge Given Truman

This would endanger the Republicans' narrow majority of four in the Senate, since the Oklahoma seat now is held by Ed Moore, wealthy GOP oil man. He is retiring this year.

Governor Dewey was told that President Truman seemed to have the edge in Oklahoma but that he himself might get its electoral votes in the event of a Nation-wide landslide.

The Sooner State has gone Republican twice, in 1920 and 1928.

The Republican standard-bearer interrupted his barnstorming today to visit with the parents of his wife, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Hutt, in Sapulpa, Okla.

It was from Sapulpa that the former Frances Eileen Hutt set forth in the early 1920's to seek her fortune as a singer. She and Tom Dewey, also a singer, met and fell in love at the Chicago Musical College. They moved on to New York and were married in 1928.

As the "Dewey Victory Special" rolled into Sapulpa today, the townsfolk swarmed around it. Some of them carried signs which read, "Welcome Frances, Welcome Tom."

Lunched With Hutts

Governor Dewey spied his wife's parents in the crowd and called them up to the rear platform. Mr. Hutt, a retired brakeman of the Frisco line, turned out to be a white-haired, unassuming man in the late 60s or early 70s. Mrs. Hutt, younger looking, was wearing an orchid for the occasion.

The Deweys had luncheon at the Hutt home, a five-room clapboard house with an American flag flying in the front yard.

The meal consisted of ham, black-eyed peas, candied sweet potatoes, muffins, apple tapioca, and coffee.

From Sapulpa, Governor Dewey continued on to Oklahoma City. The crowd along the streets was startlingly small. Only a few thousand turned out in the same section where 80,000 recently hailed President Truman.

Dewey Answers Charge

Oklahoma City is in a part of the State that is strongly Democratic. Tulsa, predominantly Republican, gave the GOP nominee a reception that was as warm as Oklahoma City's was chilly.

When Mr. Truman spoke in Oklahoma City two weeks ago, he charged that the Republican Party was the "unwitting ally" of the Communists.

Governor Dewey, in a retort this evening, said that people react in two ways to the Communist

Democrats Pile Up Lead In Alaska Vote

Juneau, Alaska, Oct. 13 (AP).—Election returns gave Democrats increasing leads today following the heaviest voting in Alaska's history.

Democrats took wide leads in the early returns for Territorial offices. They also held an increasing lead for legislative seats, indicating they might regain control of the lower house. The Republicans returned to control of the house in 1946.

They were piling up a 3-to-1 lead for Congressional Delegate E. L. Bartlett, a Democrat who sits in Congress without a vote. Bartlett's support was recognized generally as crossing party lines.

Alaskans do not vote for President.

Bartlett had a total of 10,364 to 3040 for R. H. Stock of Anchorage, his Republican opponent.

Final returns are not expected for two weeks or more as they dribble in from isolated and distant precincts by available means of communication.

Massenburg Neutral in Va. Democrat Split

Richmond, Va., Oct. 13 (AP).—State Democratic Chairman G. Alvin Massenburg declared his position on the Presidential issue today—he isn't taking sides.

"The differences of opinion as to Presidential candidates are honest differences," said Massenburg in a long-awaited statement of the policy that would be followed by State Democratic headquarters which he directs.

"There are many good Democrats who are supporting Truman; there are many good Democrats who are supporting Thurmond.

"I urge all Democrats of Virginia, whether they favor Truman or Thurmond, to unite whoeheartedly with this headquarters to insure the election of Robertson, Bland, Gary, Abbitt, Stanley, Burton, Harrison, Smith and Fugate."

Massenburg, faced with a somewhat ticklish issue that finds Senator Robertson and all but two of the nine Democratic congressional candidates named publicly indorsing the national party ticket, apparently intends to refrain from making either faction angry.

His statement of policy came less than a week after the candidacy of J. Strom Thurmond, States

Visitor Leaves City and $711 Behind in Taxi

After carrying one passenger yesterday, William E. Dixon, Diamond cab driver, glanced into the rear seat of his hack and spied a black leather billfold. There was $711 inside.

Dixon, who lives at 1408 22d st. se., turned over his find to the hack inspector's office. Police identified the owner of the cash as Gen. Clifford Gaylord of St. Louis, Mo., an official of the Illinois Central Railroad.

Police tried to get in contact with Gaylord here, but learned he had left for St. Louis in a private plane.

President Threatens To Inject Foreign Policy Into Campaign

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 13.—President Truman tonight tore into Gov. Thomas E. Dewey as a "recent convert" from isolationism to America's bipartisan foreign course and challenged his "foresight" in the world affairs.

In a speech that tossed normal caution to the wind he raked the Republican leadership from Hoover to Dewey and hurled this bristling challenge:

"The Republican Party either corrupts its liberals or it expels them."

He poured invective on Governor Dewey's prewar foreign record. He served blunt notice he will plunge foreign policy into the campaign if necessary "to correct distortions and keep the record straight."

Ball Called Example

Then he put the finger on Minnesota's Joseph H. Ball as an example of what happens to Republican "liberals."

"The same thing happened to Joe Ball that happened to most Republicans with a streak of liberalism when they get down to Washington," he said.

"Those liberals who have not been driven out of the Republican Party have been changed, like your own Senator Ball, from fighters on the people's side into champions of reaction."

Here in Minnesota, where Minneapolis' Democratic Mayor Hubert Humphrey is leading Ball in the polls and Truman himself is given a fighting edge to win, the President rolled into one ball all he had said in 20,000 miles of campaigning, stuck in a stick of dynamite, and flung it at his adversaries.

Thousands lined St. Paul streets, cheering the President as he motored to the Lowry Hotel for a brief rest, and then on to the City Auditorium.

The theater section of the auditorium was packed to its 3600 limit. Other thousands heard Mr. Truman on television in adjoining halls or listened to loudspeakers outside.

A single, stage-length American flag decorated the hall, and Mr. Truman spoke from a small reading stand in front of it.

The crowd laughed and applauded as he lashed Senator Ball. He said Ball has "what I call a dose of Potomac fever."

They yelled their approval as he went after Dewey and gave one of their best hands to this line:

"I did not seek unity by concealing the issues between me and the special privilege groups that control the Republican Party."

They howled at his sharply ironical thrusts at Dewey's "platform."

Dewey's Record Attacked

All morning he had coasted across the peaceful, lake-dotted Wisconsin countryside, making mild and friendly little talks at unscheduled stops in Adams, Altoona and Spooner.

Then, as he crossed the line from Superior in Wisconsin to Duluth in Minnesota, he warmed up for tonight's unrestrained pitch in St. Paul.

His intention was to maul, and he did it.

He hauled off not only at what he called Dewey's "mealey-mouthed" talk of unity; he called the GOP nominee a "second guesser" in foreign affairs and swung with all he had at his prewar record.

He said Dewey was actually opposed to the League of Nations after World War I, "although he misled the people into believing that he stood for unity."

He said the country was "uni-

Children Can Eat New Candy In Place of Their Dinners

Chicago, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—The Government and the candy makers introduced today a new candy which children can eat instead of their dinner.

The kids shouldn't make a practice of eating the candy instead of meat and potatoes, chemists said, but when they do they would be sure of proper nourishment.

The candy, exhibited at the National Chemical Exposition, was developed by the United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the National Confectioners' Association. A USDA chemist said the candy is fortified with refined proteins from agricultural products and furnishes a "balanced diet."

He said that parents, instead of stopping children from eating candy before meals, some day may be telling them "don't eat so much meat and potatoes, eat your candy, too."

He said the candy is being made successfully on an experimental scale in the Agriculture Department's laboratory at New Orleans.

The Agriculture Department also exhibited some results of its experiments to find uses for farm waste products.

These included a shirt, made from the cheapest cotton, but treated with a chemical which makes it look like linen. The shirt will withstand the hardest laundering, a spokesman said.

Woman, Boy Identify Man As Killer of D.C. Druggist

Arrest Follows Police Seizure of 'Admitted Lookout'; Weapon Recovered

Two youthful laborers were arrested by police last night as the holdup slayers of Nathaniel Johnson, 53-year-old druggist.

Johnson was shot to death Tuesday night during an attempted holdup in his drug store at 600 3d st. sw.

Charged with the murder were Lawrence Goodall, 24, of 412 Oakdale pl. nw., and Edward Jackson jr., 25, of 364 Dixon ct. sw.

Police said Goodall was the gunman who fired the lethal shot into the druggist's back and that Jackson participated as his "lookout."

They said Goodall was arrested shortly after 9 p. m. when he returned to his home and was rushed immediately to police headquarters for questioning. Jackson had been arrested 17 hours earlier.

At headquarters, detectives hustled Goodall into a line-up after which they said he had been identified as the killer by two eyewitnesses to the shooting, Mrs. Edna Fuse of 630 3d st. sw. and Bernard White, 13, of 302 E st. sw.

Police said they had also recovered the murder weapon, a .45-caliber automatic, in an alley about two blocks from the scene of the slaying.

Police stated that Jackson was taken into custody at his home at 4 a. m.—only six hours after Johnson had been dropped with a bullet—but was not booked on the murder charge until 8:45 p. m.

At that time, detective officials said he had made a statement admitting he acted as lookout during the holdup. They said also that Jackson had identified the trigger man and that he was being sought.

Shortly after midnight, Goodall's arrest was announced by police, who added they were still questioning him.

Police, who took credit for breaking the holdup killing in less than 24 hours, said Jackson's early arrest resulted from the fact that witnesses had seen him running from the scene.

Jackson's arrest was announced in a joint statement by Capt. Robert V. Murray, assistant chief of detectives, and Lieut. Jeremiah

Coed Cuts $5000 Bid to $2, Then Eats Grasshopper

Macon, Ga., Oct. 13 (AP).—Today's psychology class at Mercer University was discussing things people would do under certain circumstances.

Dean Richard Burt explained that a man might eat a grasshopper for $5000.

Two students dashed out and trapped a grasshopper on the campus. The other students raised $7.

Ann gulped down the grasshopper and said it tasted 'kind of crisp." She kept $2, gave the $5 to the Community Chest.

The grasshopper didn't make Ann sick, but some of the other members of the class weren't feeling too good.

Handsome, Affable Sokolovsky at Ease Turns Cold Steel With Business at Hand

Marshal Vassily Danilovitch Sokolovsky, who is quarterbacking the Kremlin squeeze play in Berlin, is the kind of a guy you would like to know—until you get too close to him.

* * * * * *

Americans who have met the Soviet chief in Germany say that even at 51, the marshal is strikingly handsome, affable and easy with a smile. He has the open, frank sort of a face that Americans like. And his 200 pounds distributed over some 6 feet of solid physique give the marshal that clean, healthy appearance that Americans also like.

But when the marshal shows up for business—as he did at the meetings of the Allied Control Council by which the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia were to govern occupied Germany — Sokolovsky leaves his charm behind.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
MARSHAL SOKOLOVSKY
Kremlin's "quarterback"

Smile No Longer Friendly

On business, the marshal is no longer a personable onetime peasant. He is, on business, Sokolovsky the actor, whose every scene and every word is written and directed by Joe Stalin & Co. His smile is no longer friendly, his blue eyes no longer mischievous.

Those who have seen the marshal at council meetings describe him as a master of facial histrionics. He delivers his lines without manual gesture. Even though he speaks in Russian, his auditors can quickly s[illegible] from the marshal's facial expression exactly what he's driving at.

Little is known of the marshal's other-than-military life. He is married; he quotes the Bible frequently; and he is said to be addicted to reading the works of Jane Austen.

Marshal Sokolovsky arrived in Berlin in the spring of 1946, to succeed his wartime commander, Marshal Zukov, who was recalled to Russia and, as far as can be learned, was assigned to a minor post. There are two theories for this shabby treatment of Russia's greatest military genius of the war: first, Zukov was becoming too popular with the Russian man in the street; second, Zukov was getting too friendly with the Western allied representatives.

Straw Man Politically

Yet, at first, Sokolovsky appeared to be such a nice guy that —according to some observers— the representatives of the three Western powers liked the big Red marshal better than they liked one another. Ensuing events, however, demonstrated that though Sokolovsky may be a pleasant fellow personally, he is but a straw man politically.

According to the sketchy information available, Vassily Sokolovsky was born in 1897 in the village of Kosliki, district of Grodno. He was studying to become a teacher when the revolution broke out in 1917. Vassily quit the seminary, joined the young Bolshevik movement, got into the Red army, and rapidly rose through the ranks.

By the time Russia found itself in World War II, Sokolovsky had risen to deputy chief of staff in the Red army.

Stalin himself selected Sokolovsky for top military jobs during the war. Under Zukov, Sokolovsky directed the defense of Moscow, served at Stalingrad in the winter of 1942, and led the recapture of Vyasma and Smolensk in 1943. Two years later, Sokolovsky marched into southern Poland, and he was second in command to Zukov when the Russians crossed the Oder River and moved into Berlin.

Sokolovsky earned a chest-smothering batch of medals for his military prowess. He was an able tactician, one of the Soviet's best generals. His antidote for Nazi blitzkrieg was a slow, continuous, meat grinder process. It appears that Sokolovsky is now trying out his meat grinder technique in the blockade of Berlin.

Council Quits Soviet Zone in Row With Red

From Press Dispatches

Berlin, Oct. 13.—Communist action today forced the city council (magistrat) to move out of the Soviet sector. The Russians also proposed withdrawal from the city of the military missions of 15 nations.

After an ousted Communist councilman refused to give up his seat in the council, the 11 non-Communists on the 14-member body voted to hold further meetings in the British sector.

The council, highest German authority in Berlin, thus followed the lead of the police and the city assembly, which previously abandoned headquarters in the Russian sector.

The Soviet proposal on military missions came from Marshal V. D. Sokolovsky, the Soviet commander in Germany, it was revealed by the Soviet press.

The missions, accredited to the four-power Allied Control Council, look after the interests of their countries in Berlin.

Sokolovsky, the Soviet press said, contended that because the Allied Control Council "no longer exists" the missions should be abandoned.

The Control Council has not met since March 20, when the Russians took a walk.

Nations with missions here include Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Canada, China, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Greece, India, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, Norway, Poland, South Africa and Yugoslavia.

The Berlin council row was precipitated when the council sought to discuss an appeal to the United Nations for the release of some 80 city employes arrested by the Russians September 6.

The Soviet commandant in Berlin, Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, had promised them free passage to the French sector.

When Communist Waldemar Schmidt, former head of Berlin's department of labor, ousted from the council by the city assembly last week, took a seat, he was asked to leave. Schmidt refused, on the ground the city assembly's actions while in the British sector were "illegal."

Editor Says Iron Curtain Pierced by American Ideas

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 13 (AP).—Erwin D. Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor, said today that American ideas are penetrating Russia's "iron curtain" on a large scale.

"There are between three and four million shortwave receiving sets in the Soviet Union," the Boston editor said, "and most of them are tuned in regularly to the Voice of American broadcasts. Many of them have a good many listeners to each set."

Canham, in a speech prepared for the 133d annual meeting of the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut, said it was difficult to tell whether the broadcasts are changing any Russian minds.

"But the fact is that the Russians are hearing our side of the case on a large scale," he said. "That alone is important. It means that the effort to build up an impenetrable barrier to ideas has proved as impossible this time as it has been on most other occasions when dictatorial governments have sought to seal off their people."

Canham said he was reliably informed that Russians knew "the American version of the Kasenkina case as soon as they knew the Russian version, and were thoroughly realistic in their appraisal of the two cases."

"In short they knew perfectly well what Mrs. Kasenkina had done and why she did it, because such efforts to escape are familiar to their own experience," he said.

Mrs. Oksena S. Kasenkina, teacher for children of members of the Russian consul's staff in New York City, was critically injured several weeks ago in jumping from a window in the consulate where she claimed she was being held c[illegible]ptive.)

Palestine Still Tense, U. N. Says

Haifa, Israel, Oct. 13 (AP).—United Nations headquarters in Haifa said tonight the situation is tense on the southern and northern fronts of Palestine, but no major clashes were reported. It was Atonement Day, a sacred Jewish holiday.

Hoffman, Bevin Discuss Halt Of German Plant Dismantling

London, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Paul G. Hoffman, Marshall Plan administrator, met twice today with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin to discuss German reparations.

W. Averell Harriman, roving Marshall Plan ambassador in Europe; United States Ambassador Lewis Douglas, and Thomas K. Finletter, head of Britain's Marshall Plan organization, were in on the talks.

Hoffman, it was understood, wants to halt the dismantling of some 150 German factories in order to help Germany's industrial recovery program. British authorities have begun dismantling nearly two thirds of these factories, but it was understood that Bevin is prepared to postpone the handling of some 70 plants until Hoffman can assess their value in connection with the German recovery program.

Britain has taken the position that the dismantling program must continue for reasons of security and the fact that Britain does not wish to break faith with the 19 nations represented in the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency. Many of the IAR nations are relying on dismantled German plants to bolster their own recovery programs.

Hoffman left by plane for the United States tonight.

Hoffman's second meeting with Bevin today lasted about an hour.

"I found Mr. Bevin to be the very great man I always thought he was by reading about him," Hoffman said. He added that he expects to return to Europe next week for further conferences.

Hoffman Stand Taken On Section of ECA Act

For weeks ECA Administrator Hoffman has been having a strenuous argument with the British over the dismantling of German plants which had been listed as available for reparations.

He has taken his stand under a section of the Economic Cooperation Act, which says:

"The administrator will request the Secretary of State to obtain the agreement of those countries concerned that such capital equipment as is scheduled for removal as reparations from the three western zones of Germany be retained in Germany, if such retention will most effectively serve the purposes of European recovery."

During the ECA debate last spring some Republican leaders in Congress, among them Chairman H. Styles Bridges of the Senate Appropriations Committee, wanted all dismantling stopped and the entire reparations program reviewed, in view of the money the United States was spending for Germany's economic recovery.

The Administration took the stand, however, that the United States signed the reparations agreement in 1946 which provided for the removal of factory equipment from Germany, and that 18 Allied countries were counting on this equipment to help them in their own reconstruction and recovery.

Hoffman has said publicly only that he wanted a temporary stoppage of dismantling until a committee of American industrialists could report to him whether certain plants scheduled for removal would be more useful inside or outside Germany. Several weeks ago he requested such a stoppage, through Secretary Marshall, basing his request on the ECA Act.

The French and British governments refused in emphatic terms. The French replied that the Nazis had stripped them of vitally needed machinery which could not be replaced from any source other than Germany. The British argued that once the dismantling process were stopped, even for a short time, it would be difficult if not impossible to start it again.

On October 2, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin wrote a strongly worded letter again refusing to stop all dismantling but urging the Americans to make up their minds on which plants, if any, ought to be retained in Germany. Bevin saw no reason why Hoffman should not investigate the situation without stopping the dismantling process entirely.

One result of Bevin's letter was Hoffman's hurried flight to Europe with Secretary Marshall on Monday. Hoffman saw Foreign Minister Robert Schuman in Paris Tuesday without, apparently, persuading the French government to postpone all dismantling.

Acting Secretary of State Lovett told his press conference yesterday, prior to Hoffman's meetings with Bevin, that the United States had reached no agreement with the British and French on halting the dismantling of western German plants. Last night the ECA had received no word from Hoffman about his meetings with Bevin, although the administrator was expected to make public a statement on the subject soon after reaching Washington.

France Cold to Hoffman German Factory Plan

Paris, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—France today reaffirmed its position against the reduction of German reparations payments suggested by the United States.

"France, in close solidarity with Great Britain, remains concerned with seeing that dismantling and the transfer to war victim nations of factories on the list of reparations be carried out rapidly according to the principles established by the Allies," a Foreign Ministry communique said.

It followed a conference yesterday between Foreign Minister Robert Schuman and United States Economic Cooperation Administrator Paul G. Hoffman, who is known to be pressing for a stoppage of dismantling of German factories which could aid European recovery.

ECA officials said Schuman and Hoffman merely exchanged views and did not reach any agreement.

French Strike Crisis Seen Intensified

Paris, Oct. 13 (NYHT).—A non-Communist trade union leader said tonight the pro-Communist General Confederation of Labor (CGT) was planning to "redouble" its strike agitation next week to try to force the resignation of the French government.

Andre LaFond, secretary of Force Ouvriere, the movement which broke from the CGT because of its Communist leadership, said the CGT had been given "Russian" directives to bring about the formation of a new government that would include the French Communist Party.

The general strike picture remained about the same. Dockers, whom the CGT controls, launched their previously announced 24-hour warning strike against the government's offer of a 15 per cent wage increase. French ports were tied up with one notable exception.

That was Cherbourg. There the waterfront stoppage graciously was observed yesterday instead of today in order to accommodate the passengers on the Cunard liners Queen Elizabeth and Mauretania, which arrived from New York today.

There was further improvement in railway traffic.

Italy's Red Labor Group Calls 2-Hr. Rail Stoppage

Rome, Oct. 13 (AP).—The Communist-ruled General Confederation of Labor called today for a two-hour stoppage of rail service throughout Italy Thursday to support a strike of 1,040,000 government workers for higher pay.

The demands for raises would amount to 183 billion lire (three billion dollars) annually. The government has declared it would have to print bales of money to meet such an increase.

Palmiro Togliatti, Italy's No. 1 Communist, declared in a speech in the Chamber of Deputies last night that "a fourteenth of July can come at any moment."

July 14 was the date of the general strike that started immediately after the assassination attempt on Togliatti. The government called the strike revolutionary.

Headquarters of New Alliance To Be Somewhere in France

London, Oct. 13 (AP).—An authoritative British source said today defense headquarters for the five-nation Western European Alliance will be set up "somewhere in France."

The informant said the decision to set up a joint land, sea and air base in France was taken before Gen. Charles de Gaulle had declared on October 1 that "it is wrong to center in London the defense of Europe."

Exact site for the defense center for Britain, France, the Netherlands, Belgium and Luxembourg was not disclosed.

The headquarters will be the scene of integrated defense planning by Western defense chiefs under Field Marshal Lord Montgomery as permanent military chairman. Top posts in the command include French Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny as commander in chief of the land forces, Vice. Admiral Robert Jaujard of France as head of the naval forces, and Air Chief Marshal Sir James Robb of Britain as commander of the air arm.

Talks on European defense took place yesterday at the British war office with Lord Montgomery presiding. Gen. de Lattre de Tassigny, Air Chief Marshal Robb and Vice Admiral Jaujard were present.

Sforza Hopes Alliance Will Be Extended

Rome, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Foreign Minister Count Carlo Sforza said today that he hoped the five-power western European military union would be extended and added that Italian neutrality in event of war would be impossible.

"In my personal opinion there will not be a war, but neither will there be peace," Sforza told the Chamber of Deputies' commission on foreign affairs.

Russia Spurns Berlin Mediation Efforts

deputy handling the Berlin case in the Council.

There has been no official announcement on what the neutrals had proposed to the Kremlin. Unofficial reports have said it was a face-saving measure involving the lifting of the Soviet blockade of Berlin and calling of a four-power Foreign Ministers Council.

The Western powers have remained firm that the blockade must be lifted before any talks on Germany or Berlin take place.

The Security Council will meet at 3 p. m. tomorrow to discuss alleged violations of the Palestine truce.

Sir Hartley Shawcross of Britain called on Russia to raise the iron curtan and end with "one little word—stop" what he charged was Moscow-directed sabotage of recovery and political stability by fifth-column Communists.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Jacob A. Malik replied there is no iron curtain, and that Communists in all nations are patriots fighting for the freedom of their countries.

Shawcross and Malik clashed in the 58-nation political committee of the U. N. Assembly. The committee was debating Russia's demand for the big powers to reduce their armed forces by one third and ban atomic bombs.

With no east-west agreement in sight, the committee approved setting up a subcommittee to study resolutions on armaments and try and draw up an acceptable proposal. The vote was 47 to 0 with the six countries of the Soviet bloc abstaining. Named to the subcommittee were the United States, Russia, France, China, Britain, Poland, El Salvador, Lebanon, Australia, Belgium and Brazil.

Shawcross attacked the Russian arms-cutting proposal as a "paper scheme."

He said activities and sobotage of Communist parties are impeding recovery work in France, Italy, Greece, Iran, China, Indonesia and Malaya. He added:

"One word from Russia, one little word—stop—would enable these troubled countries to put their own houses in order, and to build themselves up in democratic peace and security. One little word —and it doesn't come."

Vishinsky declared yesterday Russia would put her cards on the table if the Assembly would approve the Soviet proposal for a one-third cut in arms by the five major powers this year.

Shawcross demanded that Russia tell the world the full story of her armed forces. With some sarcasm, he declared:

"If ever there was a classic example of putting the cart before the horse it is this suggestion—agree to cut down your forces first and I'll tell you afterwards how your agreement has left me with overwhelming military superiority."

In closing, Shawcross said Britain wants peace but "not the peace of salvery. Not the still peace of death."

Malik said Shawcross poured out a "sea of lies and libel," and it was a "lie and slander" that Moscow is directing events in Malaya and Indonesia.

Alexandre Parodi, French delegate, introduced a resolution proposing that the Security Council establish a system to promote progressive and balanced reduction of armed forces and conventional armaments.

Representative Lyndon B. Johnson (D., Tex.) denounced former Texas Gov. Coke Stevenson yesterday as a political "turncoat" and warned Republicans against accepting him into their ranks.

Stevenson, who lost the Democratic nomination for Senator from Texas by 78 votes in a runoff primary to Johnson, Tuesday night indorsed the candidacy of the Republican nominee, Jack Porter, a Houston oil man.

Johnson struck back with a statement issued from his office here.

"It is no surprise that Coke Stevenson has proved a turncoat and repudiated the pledge he took when he entered the Democratic primary," he said. "The pledge of course, is binding on the conscience only. It does not bind men without conscience."

Johnson noted that Stevenson had previously sought to have the Federal courts bar Johnson's name from the November ballot.

"Mr. Stevenson has bolted our party because the Federal courts ruled against him," Johnson said.

"He has repudiated the party that has honored him time and again for more than 30 years and whose favors he so lately sought."

Johnson predicted that Texas Democrats would "meet the challenge and understand the ingratitude."

Senator Connally and Representative Poage, the only Texas legislators available here for comment on Stevenson's move, said they will stick with their party's nominees.

Connally said in a statement:

"It has always been my belief that Democrats who participate in a primary are pledged to support its nominees. . . . Party integrity depends on such a course."

Special Session On Dixiecrat Plea Refused by Lane

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 13 (AP).—Governor Lane tonight turned down the request of the States Rights Democrats for a special session of the Legislature to amend election laws which ban the new party from the Maryland ballot.

"I am not willing that the orderly conduct of the forthcoming election be jeopardized and I will not call a special session of the General Assembly to consider the matter," Lane said in a statement.

The Court of Appeals has ruled the names of Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, presidential candidate, and his running mate, Fielding Wright of Mississippi, cannot appear on the ballot.

Although the party was organized in August, it had to file a nominating petition in April in order to qualify under Maryland law, the court held.

"The States Rights Democratic Party has had ample time prior to this late date to suggest legislative consideration of the situation in which it finds itself," Lane said.

Warren Says Truman Utters 'Ugly' Slurs to Divide People

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 13 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren tonight charged President Truman had uttered "ugly" criminal accusations and had deliberately fostered class and sectional bitterness for "political advantage."

Only the Kansas City Pendergast machine of Mr. Truman's native State, Warren said, "seems to be satisfied, contented, and happy in his association."

The Republican vice presidential candidate's speech was couched in the most forthright terms yet employed in his month-old transcontinental campaign tour.

Prepared for delivery at Spokane's National Guard armory on his return to his native Pacific Coast, it leveled charges against Mr. Truman and Administration candidates "as facts" that "deny challenge."

The Democratic Party, he said, is in "turmoil." The 12 States of the traditionally Democratic South are in "open revolt." At a time of crisis, the American people are "without adequate leadership."

The party, he continued, has presented "a veritable parade" of Cabinet officers through firings or members "walking out in a huff."

Mr. Truman, he continued, has publicly accused the Republican party as being "saboteurs of the West."

"Saboteur is an ugly word. It is a foreign word. It is an accusatory word.

"It wraps up in one word an attack upon both the actions and the motives of the person accused. In my State—and I presume in yours—it is a penitentiary offense to be a saboteur.

"Perhaps, if it was the only intemperate term or epithet applied in the campaign, it should be overlooked as an indiscretion.

"But when it is heard in conjunction with all of the other accusatory and bitter language that has emanated from the same quarters, it can only be interpreted as an effort to divide the people class against class, section against section, for the purpose of gaining political advantage—for a purpose that is not only not in keeping with the dignity of high office but is harmful to our country.

Civil Rights Talks Urged on Martin, Taft in Virginia

Richmond, Va., Oct. 13 (AP).—States Rights Democrats headquarters today asked visiting Republican speakers to open up on the civil rights issue.

State Senator Frank S. Richeson, State campaign director for the States Rights group, sent telegrams to Senator Edward Martin (Pa), who speaks in Petersburg on Friday, and to Senator Robert A. Taft (Ohio), who speaks Saturday in Winchester, saying:

"Will you please take time in your speech to fully explain the civil rights plank of your party. Also explain why Governor Dewey opposed in the Federal Courts equalization of freight rates between Northern and Southern States of the country, which discrimination shackles industrial development of the South."

GOP Tax Cut Aid to Rich, Says Austin

F. Byrne Austin, the Democratic candidate for Congress from the Maryland Sixth District, carried his campaign into Montgomery County last night, speaking at three rallies within three hours.

At all three, he assailed the Republican Party for "playing the farmer against labor" and for "hoodwinking" the public with tax reductions which he charged benefited "only the rich."

He spoke first before the executive board of the Montgomery County Women's Democratic Club, meeting in the Bethesda County Building. Then he swung to the parish hall of Grace Episcopal Church in Woodside Park to address a rally of registered Democrats from the county's Fourteenth Election District.

His final appearance was at the Kensington Armory before the first of a planned series of rallies to be held in his and President Truman's behalf by the Montgomery County Chapter of Americans for Democratic Action.

Other speakers at the ADA rally included Wendell Berge, former Assistant Attorney General in charge of the Justice Department's Antitrust Division; J. Bond Smith of the Montgomery County Democratic State Central Committee; and Will Allen, ADA executive secretary who unsuccessfully opposed Austin in the Democratic primary.

Allen predicted Garrett and Alleghany Counties, two Republican strongholds in the Sixth District, would go Democratic in November and assailed the Republican candidate, Representative J. Glenn Beall, for "inactivity" in Congress.

Ga. Dixiecrats Pick Talmadge Camp Leaders

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 13 (AP).—States' Rights Democrats whooped their way into Georgia's political arena today, predicting victory in "our fight for a principle."

More than 300 delegates, sprinkled heavily with supporters of Democratic Governor - Nominate Herman Talmadge, joined in the new party's founding convention.

They cheered as they staged Georgia's first big split in years from the Democratic Party. Speakers shouted that the national party had abandoned its basic principles in the "muck and mire" of big city machines that have "destroyed the party's soul."

The convention chose headliners in Georgia's potent Talmadge political camp to lead the fight in Georgia for South Carolina's Gov. J. Strom Thurmond for President.

Charles J. Bloch of Macon, a member of the State Democratic executive committee; Mrs. Julius Y. Talmadge of Athens, a cousin of the gubernatorial nominee, and former Agriculture Commissioner J. J. Brown of Thomson were among 12 presidential electors named.

Ed L. Willingham of Augusta, a Talmadge partisan in State politics, was named State party chairman.

"The Talmadge organization is behind us 100 per cent," he claimed to reporters.

Talmadge had no comment. He has been reluctant to join any move that might resemble "bolting" the Democratic Party.

Meantime, in Atlanta, the States Rights Party, regular Democrats, Republicans, Progressives and Prohibitionists qualified presidential electors for the State's general election ballot.

Electors of all parties submitted non-Communist affidavits to comply with Georgia's new election law.

Thurmond Says House May Choose President

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13 (AP).—J. Strom Thurmond, States' Rights Democratic Party candidate for President, said here tonight the House of Representatives may select this Nation's next President.

The South Carolina Governor said in a campaign address at a party rally, that the States' Rights group "will not let our great party be kidnaped by the pinks and the subversivies."

"We shall recapture the leadership of the Democratic Party," Thurmond said, "and restore it to the ideals and principles for which it has stood more than a century.

"It is possible that we may do so by preventing any candidate from gaining a majority of the electoral college vote, so that we can take the election to the House of Representatives. There the smaller States will be able to elect a President who will respect their rights."

Thurmond said the paramount issue of the campaign is: "Whether we Americans can put our own house of democracy in order so that we may lead the world out of its despair."

High Court to Hear Wallace Ballot Plea

By The Associated Press

The Supreme Court yesterday agreed to rule whether Henry Wallace's Progressive Party shall be given a place on the Illinois election ballot. The court ordered a special hearing on the case for Monday.

The deecision was made by the whole court at a suddenly called closed conference late yesterday.

The petition was filed by John J. Abt, general counsel of the Progressive Party. It held that the Illinois State Electtorial Board unconstitutionally refused to give the new party a place on the ballot for the November election.

The appeal was brought directly to the high court after a special three-judge court in Chicago refused to declare the Illinois law unconstitutional.

The ecourt said the State will be given a chance to argue that Federal courts do not have jurisdiction.

Written briefs must be filed by both Illinois and the party by Saturday.

threat. There were those, he said, who fly into a panic and want to adopt police-state methods in fighting the poison of the police state.

"Then," he said, striking at Mr. Truman, "there are others who, for political or other reasons, prefer to assume a role of smug self-satisfaction and complacency. They would dismiss the whole problem by calling it a red herring."

The crowd laughed at this.

Governor Dewey said it was not necessary to fall into the error of either of these groups.

"Your next administration," he said, "will deal with this problem of communism and we shall do it forthrightly and firmly.

"We will keep informed and we will keep the American people informed—who the Communists are, where they are, and what they're up to. If they—or if anyone else—break our law against treason, they'll get traitors' treatment. If they engage in sabotage or break any other laws, we'll jail them. If our laws aren't adequate, we'll get ones that are adequate.

"But in this country we'll have no-thought police. We will not jail anybody for what he thinks or believes. So long as we keep the Communists among us out in the open, in the light of day, the United States of America has nothing to fear from them within its own borders."

While Governor Dewey was speaking, Mrs. Hutt, his mother-in-law, sneezed.

Mrs. Dewey leaned over and murmured a "God bless you."

New Radio Schedule to Cost $60,000

Chicago, Oct. 13 (AP). — The Progressive Party today announced new radio engagements for its presidential candidate, Henry Wallace, that will cost between $60,000 and $70,000, raising the radio cost of his campaign to about $200,000.

Wallace will be on some network almost every night from now until the election. In addition he was busy today recording other speeches for broadcast on local stations all over the country.

On Monday nights Wallace will be on N. B. C.; Wednesday on C. B. S., Thursdays and Sundays on A. B. C., and Fridays on Mutual.

Wallace's next personal appearance will be at a rally in Milwaukee tomorrow night. He will return here for three rallies Friday, fly to Dalton, Ga., Saturday, speak in Flint and Detroit, Mich., Sunday and then work his way East with speeches at Pittsburgh, Reading, Philadelphia and Wilkes-Barre.

100 Candidates Are Running for Governor In 32 States; Talmadge Alone Is Unopposed

By D. Harold Oliver
Associated Press Reporter

An even 100 candidates are running for the 32 governorships at stake in the November 2 elections.

At least four of the contests are attracting more than State-wide interest.

Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Michigan, all now have Republican Governors. But the Democrats say they have a good chance in the first three and mark Michigan as a "possible." Republicans say they will hold all four, but concede some are close races.

Republicans and Democrats now divide the Nation's governorships, 24 and 24. In all, 33 States are choosing Governors this year, but Maine already has held its State election. Frederick G. Payne, a Republican, won on September 13. The 33 offices to be filled are now held by 19 Republicans and 14 Democrats. Five Republican and 10 Democratic Governors hold over this year.

Talmadge Alone Unopposed

The size of the presidential majorities in the various States may determine most gubernatorial winners. But this is not necessarily so in States where local issues and personalities predominate.

Only in Georgia have the Republicans refrained from putting up a candidate. There, Herman Talmadge, Democrat "white supremacy" advocate, is all alone on the Governor ballot.

Of the 100 candidates all told, minor parties are running 37. Henry Wallace's Progressives have entries in 12 States—Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, New Hampshire, North Carolina, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Texas, Washington, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

The Progressives have two women on the ballot, Mrs. Irma C. Otto in New Hampshire, and Miss Mary Price in North Carolina.

Six Democrats and 13 Republicans are candidates for reelection.

Ohio Race Close

In Ohio, former Democratic Gov. Frank J. Lausche is reportedly running a close race against Republican Gov. Thomas J. Herbert, who is seeking a second two-year term.

Next door in Indiana an even closer contest is said to be under way. Henry F. Schricker, Democratic Governor in 1940-44, is challenging Hobart Creighton of Warsaw, big poultry producer who flies his own plane on his Republican campaign tours. Schricker was elected Governor in 1940 even though the State went for Republican Wendell Willkie.

Illinois is providing another attraction with Gov. Dwight H. Green, GOP national convention keynoter, seeking a third term against Adlai E. Stevenson, Chicago lawyer and diplomat.

Stevenson served in several Federal departments under the New Deal and is known among Democrats as a "liberal," although the Progressive Party is opposed to him. At one time he was an alternate delegate to the United Nations General Assembly.

Willia.as Opposes Sigler

In Michigan the Democrats have put up G. Mennen Williams, 37-year-old war veteran and grandson of the founder of a fortune in soaps and toiletries. He has the support of the CIO and part of the AFL. His largest strength lies in Detroit.

Williams will be up against Gov. Kim Sigler, Republican, a colorful campaigner. Sigler is 54.

Next in importance from a national standpoint will be the Connecticut and Washington races. In Connecticut, former OPA chief Chester Bowles is seeking to unseat Republican Gov. James C. Shannon. Former Gov. Arthur B. Langlie (R.) is opposing Democratic Gov. Mon C. Wallgren in Washington. Wallgren is a close friend of President Truman.

Graziani Boasts of His Fascist Role

Rome, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Boasting of his role in the Fascist regime, former Marshal Rudolfo Graziani demanded today that the court trying him on war crimes charges prepare another trial for the "betrayal" of Italian officials and "the bad conduct of the war."

Graziani charged Marshal Pietro Badoglio, postwar Premier, with bungling the war against the Western Allies and wrecking Graziani's prewar plan for attacking France.

He also accused "traitors and saboteurs" of weakning the Fascist army.

Testifying in his own defense for the third straight day, Graziani completely ignored the charges against him—collaborating with the Nazis, showing complete subservience to the Fascists and responsibility for the deaths of thousands of natives in Ethiopia and Libya.

He indicated that if things had been left to him, Italy would have won.

Truman Charges Dewey Is Recent Convert From Isolationism in Blast at Entire GOP

fied in favor of the wrong policies" by the first Republican Administration after World War I, adding: "and so the world started down the road to World War II."

Even by 1940, he said, the Nation lacked bipartisan foreign policy unity, and Republican leaders, with half the world in flames, "were mainly isolationists."

As for Governor Dewey, he quoted him as saying at that time that Mr. Roosevelt's call for 50,000 airplanes a year was "fantastic."

Even during the 1944 campaign, he accused Dewey of charging "again and again" that the Administration's arbitrary desire was to keep men in the Army.

"He had so little foresight about postwar problems that he felt we could completely demobilize our military strength the minute that hostilities ended," said Mr. Truman.

"Now, as a matter of hindsight, he says 'me, too' about building up our air forces."

He said true bipartisan leadership was achieved by Republicans and Democrats "who were willing to fight for principles before those principles became obvious to everyone," adding:

"It was not achieved by the people who copied the answers down hastily after the teacher had written them on the blackboard."

American, he warned, should weigh the risk before "entrusting their destiny to recent converts who now come along and say, 'me, too, but I can do it better.'"

Then he slammed out at the New York Governor's domestic case, ridiculing his claim to "efficiency."

"Maybe the Wall Street Republicans are efficient," he said. "We remember that there never was such a gang of efficiency engineers in Washington as there was under Herbert Hoover . . .

Mellon Appointment Recalled

"We remember how he selected one of the richest men in America to be his Secretary of the Treasury. But efficiency wasn't enough 20 years ago, and efficiency isn't enough today."

He said Government must pioneer in the great frontier of human rights and social justice—"Hitler learned that efficiency without justice is a vain thing."

Calling on "true" liberals and progressives to stand up and be counted, he said liberalism faces a "crisis" today, saying the voters in the election must choose between two ways of living.

On the one side, he said, is "the Wall Street way of life and politics" and on the other is the purpose of the Democratic Party "to work for the good of mankind."

Ten Thousand Meet Train

Ten thousand turned out to meet this train at Superior, Wis. From the rear platform, Mr. Truman hurled a stone or two at GOP farm policies, climbed into his car and rode across the Minnesota line into Duluth.

Police estimated 18,000 lined the curbs in Superior to see him pass and put the massed Duluth street crowds at 50,000.

About 5000 crowded into the Duluth armory to hear him charge the railroad and power lobbies with blocking action on the St. Lawrence Seaway. It was a popular note in this section, that needs an inland outlet to the sea.

In Duluth he was introduced by Representative John Blatnik, Minnesota's lone Democrat in Congress, who is running with Wallace third party support.

Blatnik only recently came out for Truman. He presented Truman to the crowd as "a man whom each of us will help to continue as our President." Truman propmtly plugged for both Humphrey and Blatnik.

Minneapolis' 37-year-old mayor, accompanied by Blatnik, earlier boarded the President's train at Spooner, Wis., and rode with him to St. Paul.

Humphrey Gets Breaks

Mayor Humphrey not only has Senator Ball on the run in the Senate race, he is profiting handsomely from two windfalls:

1. The Wallace party eleventh hour decision not to enter a third candidate and thus split his vote, and

2. The continued failure of Harold Stassen to raise a finger for Ball, whom he originally named to the Senate.

Humphrey claims his biggest gains in the rural sectors have been registered since Stassen blamed the Agriculture Department for holding up food prices. He has made more than 500 speeches since July. And is hoarse from the effort. He stumps with two sound trucks and works only in open air rallies. "Humphrey was here" his campaign slogan, was cribbed from the lead of a Washington Post feature story, describing his activities at the Philadelphia Democratic Convention.

As Truman Sees the GOP

(By a Post Reporter)

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 13.—President Truman said tonight he has discovered where the Republicans stand on major issues. He listed them thus:

"They approve of the American farmer—but they are willing to help him go broke.

"They stand four-square for the American home—but not for housing.

"They are strong for labor—but they are stronger for restricting its rights.

"They favor a minimum wage—the smaller the minimum the better.

"They indorse educational opportunity for all—but they won't spend money for teachers or schools.

"They think modern medical care and hospitals are fine—for people who can afford them.

"They approve of social security benefits—so much so that they took them away from almost a million people.

"They believe in international trade—so much so that they crippled our reciprocal trade program, and killed our international wheat agreement.

"They favor the admission of displaced persons—but only within shameful racial and religious limitations.

"They consider electric power a great blessing—but only when the private power companies get their rake-off.

"They say that TVA is wonderful—but we ought never to try it again.

"They condemn 'cruelly high prices'—but fight to the death every effort to bring them down.

"They think the American standard of living is a fine thing—as long as it doesn't spread to all the people.

"And they admire the Government of the United States so much that they would like to buy it.

"That is the Wall Street Republican way of life."

Lower-Cost Housing Urged On Builders

Seattle, Oct. 13 (AP).—The housing industry must produce lower-cost housing or construction will drop off, Raymond M. Foley, Washington, D. C., Administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, said today.

Addressing the annual conference of the National Association of Housing Officials, he said:

"There are very definite limits to the market for new houses at the high prices and high rents which today are too generally prevailing. These limits are being approached."

He said he did not contend that provisions of the Housing Act of 1948, passed by the Eightieth Congress, could cut today's $10,000-$11,000 house to $6000.

"But there can be consistent progress toward an adequate house at $6000 or less, if industry, labor and Government go to work on a program of lower-cost housing."

President Truman reiterated his criticism of the Eightieth Congress for what he called its failure to provide adequate housing legislation in a message to the association today.

Annexation Survey For Falls Church

Members of the Falls Church City Council informally agreed last night to make a preliminary survey of adjoining Fairfax County land prior to any possible action to annex it.

This general agreement came after Dr. Harland Batholomew, city planning expert of St. Louis, Mo., warned the council: "If you're going to annex, you'd better do it now."

Although the council took no formal action, it was agreed that a preliminary survey of the feasibility of annexation should include a study of population, school population, assessed valuation and the extent of utilities in the area to be annexed.

Bartholomew told the council the preliminary survey should cost a maximum of $2000 to $3000, and could be completed within two months. The full, and expensive annexation action, if decided upon, could then be taken, he said.

If Falls Church does not annex now, Bartholomew warned, three things could happen:

1. There might be a change in the State annexation law which would restrict land acquisition.

2. Development of an outlying area might be "hodge-podge" development, without a central plan or administration.

3. New business districts might be established out of the city which would take the business from the city's own commercial district.

Although no estimate of the extent of the proposed annexation has yet been made, city officials said it would take in at least 6 square miles of Fairfax land adjoining Falls Church.

The acquisition probably would double the city's present 5338 population. Some sources estimate population in the proposed area as high as 12000 to 15000.

During last night's conference with Batholomew, Councilmen J. H. McCarthy indicated that several outlying Fairfax developments already had indicated they would like to join the city.

Major problem facing the city in any annexation action, City Attorney LaRue Van Meter said, is that the city cannot raise an area's pre-annexation tax rate for five years unless it returns 12½ per cent of the area's value in capital improvement.

The land under consideration now pay Fairfax County only 54 cents tax per $100 assessed valuation. Falls Church residents, however, pay a tax $1.50.

Mishap Hits Dewey Train In Illinois

LEE TINDLE,

Mount Vernon, Ill., Oct. 13 (AP).—Flying tomatoes and rotten eggs and a train mishap attended Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's swing through southern Illinois last night.

The Republican presidential candidate's suit was splattered when nearly a half dozen ripe tomatoes were hurled at the rear platform of his campaign train during a stop here.

None of the missiles struck the Dewey party, but one scored a direct hit on a listener standing near the platform and splattered onto the train.

Dewey's security patrol said the tomatoes were thrown from a nearby roof by youngsters who fled. Dewey made no reference to the incident in his talk.

Ancient Eggs Pelt Train

A few minutes later, Dewey's train was pelted with rotten eggs as it pulled into nearby Beaucoup.

"They were rotten, I know, because I could smell them," said R. L. Biles, porter on the seventh car away from Dewey's.

Dewey was not informed of the egg tossing at the time.

However, as the train stopped at Beaucoup, a crowd of about 1000 persons surged toward the rear platform to greet the candidate. Suddenly the train backed up slowly and the crowd scurried off the tracks.

"That's the first lunatic I've had for an engineer," Dewey commented.

"He probably should be shot at sunrise," Dewey added, "but we'll let him off this time since nobody was hurt."

Lee Tindle, 54, the engineer who backed up, said later that Dewey should not have called him a lunatic" because he (Dewey) didn't know what it was all about."

"I think just as much of Dewey as I did before and that's not very much," said Tindle, an engineer for the Louisville & Nashville Railroad for 30 years.

[The United Press quoted Tindle as saying friends had advised him we "ought to sue Governor Dewey for everything he's got."

["But I'm not going to do that," Tindle said, the UP reported. "It would be foolish."—Editor's note.]

Flaherty, head of the homicide squad.

Credit Given Two Privates

They gave credit for Jackson's arrest to two privates from the Fourth Precinct who have been working in plain clothes, Norman Gray and Alfred Corfield.

Familiar with the neighborhood and armed with Jackson's description, the two police privates arrested Jackson at his home at 4 a. m., only six hours after the druggist had been fatally shot. They said he surrendered meekly.

Jackson was questioned during the afternoon by homicide squad detectives and the murder charge was entered in the book at 8:45 p. m.

The break in the murder came after police had paraded more than 50 men into headquarters for questioning in connection with the case. All but six of them quickly satisfied detectives they were not involved.

The six were placed in a special line-up before Mrs. Muse, who was in the store when Johnson was shot, but were released when she failed to identify any of them.

Mrs. Muse was making a purchase in the store at about 10 p. m. Tuesday when a loitering gunman who wore glasses stepped before the cash register and announced: "Doc Johnson, this is a holdup."

Johnson, a graduate of Howard University's School of Pharmacy, died almost instantly with a shot through his back when he turned and tried to run into a back room.

Police officers poured into the neighborhood within a few minutes of the shooting and the Detective Bureau's special squad was assigned to the case. Also, all available men of the homicide and robbery squads were ordered into the investigation.

While police questioned suspects yesterday, Mrs. Muse was taken to police headquarters, where she was shown photographs of criminals from the police gallery. She could not identify any of the pictures.

The murder victim, Johnson, lived at 150 Rhode Island ave. nw, and had operated the drug store at the 3d st. sw. location for about 30 years. He had a daughter who is a public school teacher in the District and a son who is a District fireman.

Court Explains Charter Ruling

the legal question raised by Schneider and did not attempt to review the constitutionality of the charter as a whole.

Reached for comment last night, Schneider commented: "I am satisfied with the court's opinion. It determines conclusively the question that originally prompted my suit.

"The court has agreed with the position of the charter board that the one-month limitation on the enactment of legislation does not apply to all legislation and it has thereby considerably lessened the importance of this limitation as a defect in charter government," he declared.

"The fact that the court has said I was wrong does not deter me The important thing is that the voters can now proceed free from any doubt as to the meaning and importance of the one-month limitation.

"I have never understood why the charter people resisted every effort I made to get a final legal determination of this question.

"In the last analysis, they, and through them, the people, have benefited from my suit."

Allen H. Gardner, attorney and former charter committee president, hailed the appellate court ruling as "much more significant than a mere answer to Schneider."

4-Day Tourney Starts Today For Contract Bridge Title

Under the auspices of the Washington Bridge League a four-day tournament for the contract championship of the District of Columbia starts today at 2 p. m. in the Roosevelt Hotel.

First title in the competition is women's pairs, a two-run game which will be concluded Friday afternoon. Contenders of the Columbian Trophy for this event are Mrs. J. E. Folline, Richmond, Virginia's feminine ace, and Mrs. Leon Landauer of Norfolk, who recently became a life master.

Mrs. Folline will defend again tonight in the mixed pair championship which she won last year with Herbert Gerst of Norfolk. The visiting ladies will be the guests of the Washington League's Women's Auxiliary.

Other titles at stake in the tournament are men's pairs on Friday afternoon, the ranking open championship for the Woodward cup to be played on Saturday, board-a-match, and metropolitan pairs in play concurrently on Sunday afternoon and evening.

A. M. Sobel of the American Contract Bridge League will direct the tournament assisted by Paul E. Golden of the Washington Bridge League. C. C. Johnson of this city is tournament chairman.

Envoy Sees U. S., Britain Saving 'Sanity of World'

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—The British Ambassador to the United States said tonight his country and the United States "are making a supreme endeavor to save the sanity of the world."

Sir Oliver Franks, in his first public address since assuming his duties here last June, also declared "the good state of Anglo-American relations is the sheet anchor which prevents not only us but many others from drifting into turbulent seas."

The Ambassador spoke in an address prepared for a dinner of the Pilgrims of the United States, an organization devoted to Anglo-American amity.

British Seek Economic Tie

London, Oct. 13 (NYHT).—Establishment of some sort of British commonwealth economic consultation committee appeared likely today to be one of the principal developments of the current Commonwealth Prime Minister's Conference.

No specific proposal has been made, but it was clear an increasing range of economic questions requires continuous examination. In the main, such questions involve the conflicting claims upon Britain from the commonwealth and from the European Recovery Program.

The conference, now in its third day, adjourned until Monday. Prime Minister Pandit Jakharlal Nehru of India and Foreign Minister Herbert V. Evatt, who is representing Australia, are flying to Paris to spend a few days on United Nations business.

Merchant Marine Subsidy Rise Urged

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

New York, Oct. 13.—American shipping leaders today called for a boost in Government subsidies to help cure the Nation's merchant marine ills.

Speakers at a national maritime "clinic"—the twenty-second annual convention of the Propeller Club of the United States and American Merchant Marine Conference—declared that growing inroads of lower cost foreign operators and dearth of United States shipbuilding endangers our national defense.

The pleas for greater Government aid came from both the subsidized shipping lines and those not now subsidized. They were backed—in principle—by Navy Department representatives.

Urges Removal of Ceiling

Commodore Robert C. Lee, vice president of Moore-McCormack Lines, urged removal of the present 50 per cent shipbuilding subsidy ceiling. He said the aim of the present law is to put American shipping companies on a par with foreign competitors by having the Government pay the difference between United States and foreign shipbuilding costs.

The present ceiling—blocking full parity payments—is barring the construction of vitally needed new passenger liners, Lee said. Urging flexibility, he said subsidies up to 60 per cent may be required.

George W. Morgan, president, Association of American Ship Owners, urged aid for unsubsidized ship operators. He proposed construction subsidies, faster amortization and tax-free reserve funds for the present unsubsidized lines.

Rear Admiral Charles D. Wheelock deputy chief of Navy Bureau of Ships, stressed the Navy's need for more passenger ships to serve as troop transports in wartime. Backing adequate subsidies for American companies, he declared:

"You can no more expect capital to flow in unprofitable channels than you can expect water to run up hill."

Both Wheelock and Lee warned against reliance on the merchant fleets of Western Europe in case of war, as urged by many State Department officials. "No prudent man," said Wheelock, will put much dependence "on help from a much dependence "on help from a world of nations such as we live with today."

Carrying Only Third

Lee urged that American ship operators be permitted to negotiate with foreign shipping companies for a 50-50 division of trade moving between their countries and ours. At present, he said, we carry only one-third of the American trade between Britain and Scandinavia.

If the Government allowed such agreements, Lee predicted, ship subsidies soon could be abandoned.

Millard G. Gamble, Standard Oil Marine official, lent a brighter note to the generally gloomy picture, reporting that the tanker situation is far better than a year ago. A surplus rathed than a shortage of tankers exists today, he said.

Modernization of the Nation's cargo-handling facilities was urged by H. G. Zimmermann of Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies Lines, who declared many of our port terminals are still geared to the "horse and buggy."

'I Didn't Realize I Was Married . . .'

LYNN CARVER, 23, a shapely film actress, got an annulment in Hollywood yesterday of her marriage to Actor John Burt, 26, whom she wed 24 hours after jilting him at the altar six weeks ago. Miss Carver told the court she had been drinking the night of August 31 and had no recollection of the ceremony. "I didn't realize I was married until he jerked me out of bed, saying 'I'm your husband—you are my wife,'" she testified. Miss Carver reported she fell during festivities following the ceremon and broke her nose two-year institutions that could supply most needs.

In addition, persons of meager means who have ability should be sent to college on Federal scholarships, he said.

The program Conant proposed to raise the educational opportunities in the United States in the next 25 years contained eight points. They were:

1. Continued local control of schools, with elementary and secondary schools the direct responsibility of the people of the community.

2. Increased aid to local schools from State taxes.

3. Federal aid to education in the States, with the funds disbursed by the State without Federal intervention.

4. Courses in "democratic living," featuring "education for citizenship, education for the good life, education for jobs."

Discovery of Talents

5. Vocational guidance and discovery of talents should be a major job of elementary schools.

6. The addition of two-year colleges to the local school systems to provide vocational training for those who cannot afford board and room at regular colleges.

7. Federal scholarships "aiming at quality rather than numbers" for boys and girls headed for the professions.

8. Adult discussion groups, radio programs and evening classes to augment universities in their search for the truth about communism and in reaching "an understanding of American democratic society in its historic goals."

19 Selected for Induction

District Selective Service officials yesterday announced that 19 draft registrants have been selected so far for induction in November, and also reported that men registering late have "dropped off" considerably.

Lieut. Col. Walter S. Welsh, manpower division chief, said that the 19 men had been accepted from a total of 46 who have taken predraft physical and mental examinations so far.

He predicted, however, that the acceptance rate would eventually drop to "from 20 to 30 per cent" of men examined, since most men now being tested, all 25 and 26-year-olds, were rejected during the war for various reasons.

Colonel Welsh said that 29 tardy registrants signed up Monday and 27 Tuesday. Men who have just turned 18, he added, have been registering in increasing numbers.

The District has a quota of 55 men to be drafted next month, and 76 in December.

Koester Is Fined $10 in Drunk Case

Navy Chief Radioman Archibald I. Koester, 30, of Falls Church, Va., was found guilty yesterday in Municipal Court of drunk and disorderly conduct.

Judge Nadine Gallagher fined him $10.

Koester was arrested here August 28 by Police Pvts. Frederick L. Gibson and Charles Kadel. The Navy man charged that during the arrest he was beaten without provocation. Koester denied that he was either drunk or disorderly. According to his witnesses, he made no outcries until after he was struck.

The policemen, however, said they used only such force as was necessary to maintain the arrest after Koester began choking and biting them. Koester was treated for a cut scalp at Emergency Hospital.

Koester has made a complaint of the police action to Major Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of police. In turn, Koester has been indicted on a charge of assault on an officer.

After the trial, Koester said:

"I think I got a raw deal. If I had the funds, I would take the case to the highest court of the land. But so far it has cost me $150 and I don't think I can go on. If things remain as they are, a lot more people may be beaten."

Girl Bound, $4000 Stolen

returning with the cash, was alone in the office. The three cashiers' windows were closed.

At about 11:30 a. m. there was a knock on the locked door of the office. A white man, swarthy of complexion and attired in khaki work clothes, stood there.

"I'm the plumber to fix the radiator," he informed the cashier.

Miss Dennis was not suspicious, for several days earlier she had remarked to other workers that the radiator should be repaired.

However, when she allowed him to enter, he closed the door behind him and pulled out a long-bladed knife, probably a butcher knife.

"Where's the money?" he demanded.

Miss Dennis told him there was no money in the office but he told her he knew there was, that he had followed her from the bank branch.

Yielding to the threat of the knife, the cashier opened the safe and the bogus plumber reached inside and grabbed the canvas money bag that contained the $4000.

He continued his holdup methodically, first stuffing the money bag into the work kit he carried and then dragging out a length of rope with which he tied the girl's arms, legs and hands. He secured her to a bookkeeper's stool, thrust a gag into her mouth and then left the office, the door locking automatically behind him.

Miss Dennis struggled with her bonds while numerous Navy personnel passed by the office in the corridor outside unaware of what had happened.

After about 30 minutes, the girl slipped the gag from her mouth and worked one of her hands partially free. She then inched her way to the desk where the telephone rested.

She managed to call a close friend, Miss Fritzie St. Clair, 28, who operates a bookkeeping machine in the fiscal and management office.

"I can't talk," Miss Dennis screamed hysterically. "I can't hold the phone. My hands are tied. Hurry!"

Miss St. Clair summoned Robert Wicker, head of her office, and joined by several other men they hurried to the Employ Relief Fund office.

They found Miss Dennis still bound to the chair and in hysterical condition. She was taken to the nurse's office in the building and put to bed.

Metropolitan Police were not notified until about 1 p. m. No explanation was offered why nearly an hour elapsed before local police were called in.

Miss Dennis told police the holdup man had straight black hair that grew very low down on his forehead. She said he was about 5 feet 10, 165 pounds and wore white gloves.

Miss Dennis, who came to Washington from her home, Covington, Tenn., has been employed at the Navy Department since May, 1947. Miss St. Clair, a native of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Dennis both live at 1630 Park rd. nw., but in different apartments.

Filling Station Robbed Near Upper Marlboro

Prince Georges County police yesterday spread an alarm for three holdup men who late Tuesday night robbed a filling station on the Marlboro Pike, 1 miles west of Upper Marlboro.

The trio, two of them dressed in what appeared to be Army uniforms and the third in civilian clothes, entered the filling station, operated by I. H. Harris, at about 11 p. m.

They played a pinball machine briefly, then pulled out a .25 caliber automatic and took from James Mertz of Upper Marlboro, the attendant, $70 from a cash box, and Mertz's wallet containing about $6.

5 Congressmen Ask For Date With Franco

Madrid, Oct. 13 (AP).—Five congressional representatives, now in Paris, will arrive in Madrid Thursday. They sent word ahead they wish to see Generalissimo Francisco Franco.

The five, representing various congressional committees, are Representatives Lucas (D., Tex.), Wilson (D., Tex.), Gossett (D., Tex.), Burleson (D., Tex.) and Battle (D., Ala.).

100 million vehicle miles "is in sight."

That goal was set three years ago by the conference, he said. The rate in 1946 was above 12. It was 8.6 for the year 1947.

"The most recent estimate indicates that the rate has now dropped below 7," he said.

Lee C. Richardson of Lansing, Mich., Michigan Motor Vehicle Commissioner, said the steady reduction "promises an all-time low death rate for 1948."

Commerce Dept. Simplifies Exports Of Iron, Steel

The Commerce Department yesterday simplified procedure for obtaining export licenses on scarce iron and steel in an effort to cut down its paper work.

Government controls over these items are not affected and export licenses still will be required.

Henceforth exporters will not have to submit documentary evidence of orders for iron and steel, such as photographic copies. They will be required only to furnish sworn statements that they have such orders.

Commerce officials said the new procedure would not lower the bars on exports to Russia and her satellites.

4 Burglaries Net 10 Years

Jack Travis Reagan, 30, convicted of burglarizing four Chevy Chase (Md.) homes and stealing an estimated $6000 in loot, yesterday was sentenced to 10 years in the Maryland Penitentiary.

Reagan, who served four years of a 15-year term in Florida for burglary and was paroled, entered a plea of guilty in Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville.

Police said Reagan had detainers filed against him by Arizona and New York for other crimes.

Reagan, who roomed at 627 C st. ne., was arrested last July 14 by Det. Sergt. John P. Leahey and Det. Corpl. Edward Barber when he was observed wearing a sports coat which answered the description of a stolen one.

Police said approximately $5500 worth of the $6000 in valuables stolen from the four Chevy Chase homes by Reagan had been recovered.

In another case, Avada Snow, 33, of 114 F st. sw., was sentenced to five years in the Maryland House of Correction for stealing an automobile from Indian Spring Country Club last June 6.

Also, Mary Elizabeth Chapman, 27, 1320 B st. se. was ordered confined six months in the State Reformatory for Women on a conviction of false pretenses. Police said the woman obtained a $50 loan from a Silver Spring finance company and used a name other than her own.

British Home FleetChief Coming to Washington

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 13 (AP).—Admiral Sir Roderick R. McGrigor, commander in chief of the British home fleet, will arrive in the United States November 15 aboard the battleship Duke of York, on a courtesy visit.

McGrigor will transfer his flag from the Duke of York to the British destroyer St. James and proceed on the destroyer to Washington, where he will remain until November 19.

High School Cadets

Of how much real value is the cadet training program in Washington high schools, which has recently come under scrutiny? The Army itself has brought the issue into the open by citing the decline in corps enrollment and deficiencies in instruction and drill time. The Board of Education has responded with a six-point proposal designed to revive interest in the program. It also has called upon the Army to furnish additional instructors.

Certain advantages may be cited for the program as it is now constituted. It affords an outlet for student enthusiasm and an opportunity for competition. To some extent it teaches discipline and develops leadership. It also teaches posture and good grooming. But these are qualities that could be learned in any Boy Scout troop. The actual military side of the training seems to consist principally of drill and learning the manual of arms—and these are of dubious value as genuine military preparation.

The correctives adopted by the School Board have considerable merit. First, drill may be conducted during the school day rather than after hours. The present extracurricular character of the training is in itself a severe deterrent to interest. We think the schools might go further and look upon the cadet program as an alternative to compulsory physical education, with participation in athletics encouraged as an outside activity. Second, the cost of uniforms (which cadets themselves must supply) will be reduced by using surplus Army clothing—a sensible procedure that has worked successfully in Negro high schools. The restoration of Army instructors which the School Board has asked is ultimately the point of most importance, for if the cadet program has any justification, it is on the basis of military training.

Presumably the amount of indoctrination in military science and tactics that could be given high school cadets is limited. Nevertheless, if the program is to attract more students, it must, in our opinion, give them training that they feel will be of positive value. In this respect the Army has a responsibility no less than that of the School Board. If latent interest in the training program is to be whetted, then the program must be spruced up beyond the phase of merely playing soldier.

Cornucopia

That there has never been anything to equal this year's corn crop in the United States is amply borne out by Department of Agriculture statistics. The year's total corn production is now estimated at 3568 million bushels, some 1168 million bushels above last year's poor showing and more than 300 million bushels above the previous record output in 1946. The value of this crop alone is figured at six and one third billion dollars. Nor is the bounty confined to corn. Wheat production is only slightly below last year's all-time high, and the total of all crops is calculated at 8 per cent above any previous total.

It is a comfortable feeling, this knowledge that the country has plenty of food. What it means to consumers is that high food prices, at least with respect to those in which grain figures, should soon start to descend—though the descent probably will not be rapid in such long-term items as meat. For farmers the picture is not quite so encouraging, but it is far from gloomy. Farm production costs have increased at the same time that market prices are beginning to decline. Hence the farmer can look forward to something less of a profit this year than in 1947, though feed cost can be expected to fall and his income still will dwarf pre-1946 figures.

A good deal has been made politically of the influence of price supports on present food prices, and this newspaper has cited the inconsistency that led Congress to postpone the new farm law relating support levels to supply. A word ought to be said about the real contribution to the national economy made by farmers in this year of magnificent production. Since prices of most farm commodities have been far above support levels, farmers knew that an increase in output would lower prices—and yet they produced unstintingly. One hesitates to think of what would have happened to prices if farmers had lain down on the job!

Very probably price supports on grain will come into play during the next few months. With lessened European demand, actually we may be faced with something of a wheat surplus, since corn and wheat are in a sense complementary. Perhaps this prospect will induce the new Congress to give more favorable consideration to the stabilizing opportunities offered in the International Wheat Agreement. Meanwhile, the Administration itself could help mitigate the effects of a surplus, first by arranging for wheat storage in Europe against future demand, and, second, by taking more substantial measures to cut back production on marginal farms which, under a sound conservation and land-use policy, ought not to be in the wheat business anyhow.

President Eisenhower

Some months back, when the slogan "Eisenhower for President" was insistently heard in the land, not a few of General Ike's most ardent admirers had misgivings about putting him in the White House. His qualifications for exercising the Chief Executive's civil functions were not entirely obvious. Little was known to the public of his views on the innumerable issues of national and international importance a President of the United States must deal with. Furthermore, though General Eisenhower's own devotion to the principles and practices of democracy could not be mistaken, many doubted the wisdom of electing to the Presidency any man of lifelong military background.

These doubts were effectively dissipated by the general's testament of faith in which he removed himself from the presidential race. But he was already chosen to succeed Nicholas Murray Butler as head of Columbia University. Similar and even stronger doubts were abroad as to his qualifications for leadership in the educational world. If anything, he might be said to possess even less background for occupancy of the mansion on Morningside Heights than for occupancy of the White House. These doubts, too, will surely be washed away by the inaugural address he delivered Tuesday.

President Eisenhower spoke at once to the question of whether a general is not out of place as an educator. His explanation that both have the same fundamental life purpose, "the protection and perpetuation of basic human freedoms," seems to us only a half truth. The end may be the same, but the means to it are hardly comparable in the Army and in the college. But this is a relatively minor point on which we have no disposition to quarrel, in view of the capacity for clear and courageous thinking, General Eisenhower showed in the balance of the speech. It was, in effect, a personal dedication to liberty on and off the campus and a pledge to keep Columbia in the forefront of the fight to make education in America the servant and the shield of a better democracy.

Unquestionably the most vital and vigorous part of the inaugural address was that in which General Eisenhower took up the question of academic freedom as it applies to antidemocratic systems of belief:

> There will be no administrative suppression or distortion of any subject that merits a place on this university's curricula. The facts of communism, for instance, shall be taught here—its ideological development, its political methods, its economic effects, its probable course in the future. The truth about communism is, today, an indispensable requirement if the true values of our democratic system are to be properly assessed. Ignorance of communism, fascism, or any other police-state philosophy is far more dangerous than ignorance of the most virulent disease . . . The truth is what we need—the full truth . . . Enlightenment is not only a defender of our institutions, it is an aggressive force for the defeat of false ideologies.

Here is a forthright challenge, and a courageous one, to those forces who would subvert academic freedom to seek and speak the truth. Educators all over the country have been openly or covertly under attack or suspicion because they dare to put communism under the microscope instead of shutting their eyes to it. To a man they will welcome General Eisenhower's clear statement and the prestige with which he said it. Wavering college presidents and school boards who have thought of stripping their own curricula of all attention to ideas and institutions opposed to our own can draw renewed strength from this redoubtable champion.

In his first official statement as a leader in the field of democratic education, General Eisenhower has done a magnificent service to the cause of liberty and enlightenment. There will be no iron curtain around our campuses if every other college president takes an equally firm stand. Again, as at the time his appointment was announced, we congratulate Columbia and its new president.

Dewey Both Ways

The job security which Governor Dewey promises Federal workers would be more reassuring were it not for some apparently contradictory assertions made by Mr. Dewey earlier in his campaign. In a message to the National Association of Letter Carriers the Republican nominee has declared: "A new Administration in my judgment will advance the dignity and opportunity for careers for Federal civil service employes and will most certainly recognize and accept their fine service to the Government regardless of political affiliation." However, it has not been so long since Mr. Dewey was talking about giving Washington the most thorough house-cleaning it has even seen.

Mr. Dewey has made no direct reference to the Democratic charges that he has said privately that civil service employes are "mediocre" and that if he had his way he would abolish the civil service. Nevertheless, he is now on record with a statement to the contrary. Whatever Mr. Dewey thinks personally, it is clear that he will attempt no wholesale change in the civil service.

Presumably in his earlier comments about a "house-cleaning," Mr. Dewey was referring to the alleged presence of Communists and fellow travelers in the Government. It is obvious from his citation of FBI loyalty investigation figures that Mr. Dewey cannot believe—as some of his followers apparently do—that Washington is a hotbed of Reds and Red sympathizers. Yet by implication Mr. Dewey has attempted to discredit the Truman loyalty program. This is a program which, whatever its faults, cannot be accused of coddling Communists—though it does seek to provide individuals with a maximum of protection against ill-founded charges and slander. It seeks to base its action objectively on deeds rather than mere beliefs, and to avoid the sort of impugning of independent and heterodox thought which is invited by an indiscriminate attack on "Reds."

What other procedure would Mr. Dewey use for determining loyalty of Government employes? He owes it to the Federal workers whose service he has praised to spell out his program in more detail. Mr. Dewey's promise of a "house-cleaning" undoubtedly has left many persons confused, and without some specific indication of just how he will go about this task he cannot expect his broad guarantees to mean very much.

No Chance To Disarm

No major speech was needed to convince open-minded men who have watched the trend of world events over the last three years of the danger of disarmament at present. Warren R. Austin, the United States delegate to the United Nations, undoubtedly made his speech of Tuesday to offset the insincere Russian appeal to ignorance on this subject. Still heavily armed, the Russians cry disarmament to divert attention from the aggressive policy they have been following. They are playing the game that was so pointedly outlined by the Russian historian, E. V. Tarle, "as the concealment of predatory ends behind noble principles." "From time immemorial," Mr. Tarle wrote in his Diplomatic History, "the idea of disarmament has been one of the most favored forms of diplomatic dissimulation of the true motives and plans of these governments which have been seized by such a sudden love of peace.'"

Disarmament, of course, holds a high place in the hopes of mankind. Its place is always subordinate, however, to freedom, security and peace. Arms can be discarded only when there is some other means of maintaining order in the world. At present every effort to supplant reliance upon arms with understanding, nonaggression, and the peaceful settlement of disputes has been resisted by the Kremlin. Moscow has turned down the only feasible means of diverting atomic energy from military to peaceful industrial use. Moscow has refused to permit the United Nations to acquire an international police force, and it has frustrated efforts to bring about the settlement of international differences through the Security Council. While Mr. Vishinsky cries for disarmament in Paris, Moscow abuses its military power in Berlin in an effort to break down the postwar agreement on Germany. In a world where force still predominates, and where Russia retains the greatest postwar military machine and is using that machine to spread dictatorship, communism and chaos over Europe, her vitriolic spokesmen in Paris would like to reduce all military forces by one third. It is equivalent to asking the Western powers, most of which were disarmed or have greatly reduced their armaments since World War II, to make themselves helpless in the face of a militant and aggressive Russian imperialism.

Mr. Austin has pointedly informed the Kremlin that the United States has no intention of falling into this Soviet trap. Let Russia, which is still spending 17 per cent of her income for military purposes, compared to 5.9 per cent for the United States, disarm herself as the other nations have done. Let her abandon subjugation of her neighbors and the use of coercion against her former allies. There are few things that the American people would like better than disarmament. But among those few are freedom, security and peace. And almost every act of the Soviet Union since the end of the war shapes up into a warning that these paramount aims would be lost if the Western powers should disarm at this time.

Good Police Work

Police did some fast work in rounding up suspects in Tuesday night's brutal slaying of a Negro druggist. Washington was subjected to a minor crime wave Tuesday and Wednesday, with the murder of Nathaniel Johnson, followed by the audacious robbery of a Navy installation and the binding and gagging of a woman cashier by a holdup man. The killing of Johnson was as ugly a crime as the city has seen in some time. He was a respected member of the Negro community who apparently gave the killer no provocation for the shooting. It thus was a premeditated murder, different in degree, at least, from some of the recent sex crimes involving persons of low mentality. For various reasons, Negro crimes against Negroes have not always received the attention they deserved in Washington. It is encouraging to note the speed with which police acted in this case. It is a relief to the city to know that police are losing no bets in the drive to continue their unusually good record of bringing killers to justice.

STARLINGS

The scarlet light of sunset
Is suddenly black with birds.
They come with a rush and a tumult
As wild as the wind, their word
Are querulous over the meadows,
Quarreling whether to take their pell-mell
Way on a non-stop flight
On to the far Lake's rushes;
But although the new grain calls,
They swoop and swing, then level
Their flight, for the night falls
Swift and dark on the marshes,
And birds, like men who roam,
Find in their breasts at evening
The swift desire for home.

Dewey's Housing

In spite of his usual smooth language and pleasant modulation of the voice Mr. Dewey has presented a typically Republican and typically ineffective housing plan.

Mr. Dewey began by saying that it was the Democrats who had failed to build houses. Of course that isn't true, because practically all Federally financed housing projects ever attempted were voted under Democratic administrations. It is true that much WPA money which had better have been spent for housing was spent in other ways but Mr. Dewey's Republican Party opposed even the limited application of WPA and PWA funds to public housing.

Mr. Dewey cannot be so dense as not to know that the housing bill passed in the Eightieth Congress did absolutely nothing to insure the building of houses or apartments. Speaking in the grandiose vein which has become his trademark, Mr. Dewey implied that if elected he would eliminate every slum from every city.

Getting a bit closer to the problem, but not too close, Mr. Dewey said something about the wisdom of getting labor, industry and the Government together to iron out building codes and to tackle other factors contributing to the housing slowdown. Now Senator McCarthy and Congressman Wolcott said the same thing in their committee report on housing but they failed completely to incorporate anything of the sort in their bill. Mr. Dewey himself makes no proposal which will directly lead to more home building.

Franco's Friendship

Your cartoon by Herblock on Franco holding out a basket for Marshall Plan aid (October 4), which was reprinted in the October 10 issue of the New York Herald Tribune, has impressed me greatly. I have just returned from a visit to Spain, as chairman of the commission on religious freedom of the Baptist World Alliance, and discovered there conditions which caused me grave concern. For one thing, Protestants are still being persecuted. How we can justify the absolute dictatorship of Spain with our support of the basic principles of the U. N. is beyond me.

Another aspect of this whole situation which troubles me is contained in the caption of your cartoon, "If Anyone Says Anything, Just Say 'Anti-Communist.'" It is a sad commentary on American democracy when an American citizen is accused of communism when he tries to uphold American principles of liberty and religious freedom.

I fear that any kind of recognition of Franco will make the way for true supporters of world-wide democracy increasingly difficult. There should be a few "fruits of repentance" on the part of Hitler's good friend before we bless all his works and take him into the family of peace-loving nations.

Neutralizing Germany

The present ideas of reindustrializing Germany are all wrong. Give the Germans a few boards of wood, a few nails, a hammer and a pair of pliers, and they will have a tank in no time at all—and it will shoot, too.

But on the other hand, the policy of our State Department and our Congress is to relieve the taxpayers. Give the Germans cattle; seeds to grow their food with; give them machinery to use only in the production of food, and necessary export articles, to maintain a livelihood, but let's not make the same mistake we made after World War I.

The German mind is infested with superiority ideas, about their race, dating back many years, almost to the twelfth century, and beyond. Neither the United States Military Government, nor the French, British or Russians can inject democracy into the Germans, like a doctor gives a patient a hypodermic needle. The children in Germany have been brought up from the tender age of 5, to believe in their superiority.

The over-all impression the average American is getting from the policy of the American Military Government in Germany is that we are trying to rebuild Germany and rearm it in a quiet manner, to become a bulwark against the Russians. If another war should come, how does our Government know that Germany will not side with Russia and fight us with the same machinery we have given it to rebuild itself?

The only way to keep Germany permanently unable to fight another war, or drag the rest of the world into another world-wide conflict, would be to surround Germany with natural borders. In the west the Rhine River, anything west of the Rhine to be given to France, Belgium and the Netherlands; in the north the Kiel Canal, territory north of that to go to Denmark; in the east the Oder River, land east of this river to go to Poland, and south the Danube River, with the territory south of this to be turned over to Austria under United Nation's trusteeship.

"GI Mortgages"

Mr. Chat Paterson, national chairman of American Veterans Committee, Washington, who differed with your editorial of October 4, apparently does not understand the loan business.

I would like to know the companies and banks that Mr. Paterson referred to in his letter of October 10, that are willing to make GI loans, since we have over 50 applications for such loans and have been building houses for GIs since the war. We are unable now to place GI loans on these houses, which have been approved by the Veterans' Administration. At this writing the GI loan market is a dead issue. We agree that 4 per cent interest is a reasonable interest rate. Unfortunately, the lawmakers do not lend the money.

We all hope there may be a loosening up of these loans. We have quit building because we are unable to obtain financing for GI houses. In the meantime, the GI goes without a house. I have been in the real estate and brokerage business for 15 years and I have never seen anything dry up as quickly as the GI loan market.

What can you expect when Federal Reserve, by administrative fiat, requests the banks to reduce their real estate mortgages from 80 per cent to 60 per cent. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation stops purchasing GI and FHA loans. Then Congress authorizes RFC to buy 50 per cent of a lending agency's outstanding loans at par; then requires the lending agency to guarantee that the homes be built under FHA construction standards.

How inconsistent! Doesn't the RFC trust the Veterans' Administration? Or doesn't Congress trust either the agencies or the banks? Or doesn't the White House trust anyone? Ah! what a world we are living in!

Hippocratic Oath Revised

Serious students of medical economics are encouraged by the enlarged areas of agreement between physician members of the World Medical Association. Its second general assembly in Geneva, September 8 to 11, was pursuant to world-wide aims. They were intended to elevate medical ethics, standards of health and education, and to defend the status of physicians against encroachment by the state. To these altruistic ends the Hippocratic Oath was modernized to outlaw the inhuman acts perpetrated by Nazi physicians. In part it now pledges ". . . I will not permit consideration of race, religion, nationality, party politics or social standing to intervene between my duty and my patient."

Of paramount interest to every socially conscious doctor are those resolutions adopted in regard to expansion of social insurance. Briefly summarized they reaffirm the primacy of professional freedom for all qualified doctors and the unqualified right of the patient freely to choose and freely to veto. Quite significantly, recommendation "k" offers opponents of compulsory health insurance opportunity affirmatively to state their case. It reads: "Compulsory health insurance should cover only those persons who are unable to make their own arrangements for medical care."

In effect this means only the indigent and underprivileged properly are the concern of a system of compulsory health insurance. Both of our major political parties substantially agree with this thesis. Both hold that the medical care of the indigent and the underprivileged should be tax-subsidized. They disagree whether the principle of compulsion should be extended to solvent economic groups. The Democrats say "yes" and the Republicans say "no."

The electorate has a right to demand that responsible political leadership define the social and economic areas where "compulsion" is to applied. Does compulsion apply to mandatory participation by the underprivileged beneficiary or to the method of financing?

Objective answers to the question thus posed brings challenging conclusions. Compulsion applicable only to the indigent and underprivileged would be class legislation. But compulsion applied to the method of financing social insurance is proper exercise of the taxing power of the state.

If compulsion be applied to the method of financing social insurance, then its benefits may not be limited to either preferred groups of privilege or underprivilege. Social security derived from the taxing power of the state must be equally available to all without any discrimination whatsoever.

This means responsible political leadership now must take the Hippocratic Oath of a new world order of social justice and social security: I will not permit consideration of race, religion, nationality, party politics or social standing to intervene between my duty and my constituents.

Protest Votes

WHILE it may be difficult to prove statistically, there are indications that, more than in any recent presidential election, voters will this year be casting their ballots against rather than for a candidate of their choice. It is yet another sign of the attitude of so many citizens—perhaps the average voter—which is compounded of indifference and a kind of let's-see-how-it-turns-out fatalism.

In the South those who vote for the Dixiecrat ticket will be for the most part voting against President Truman and his civil rights program. They know that Governors Thurmond and Wright have no chance to become President and Vice President, respectively.

The Dixiecrat vote will be negative in a broader sense. It is a vote to restore a past that can never be put back again in a world in which change of every kind is occurring so swiftly.

Another of the minority party candidates also will be the beneficiary of a protest vote that should come close to the largest total he has ever received. The protest vote for Norman Thomas, it is scarcely necessary to add, is of an entirely different nature.

The greatly increased Thomas vote will come from those who believe that the two old parties have nothing to offer and yet who cannot accept Henry Wallace because of the Communist domination of his third party. In considerable part it also will be a tribute to the integrity and steadfastness of Thomas, the man, from voters who are in no sense of the word Socialists. Running for President since 1928, Thomas has made himself a symbol of social change within the framework of the democratic freedoms.

REPORTS to Thomas campaign headquarters in New York indicate a greater interest than at any time since 1932, when the Socialist candidate polled 884,781 votes. One indication is the number of independent voters for Thomas and Smith groups being formed throughout the country.

Thomas is on the ballot in 32 States, and efforts are being made to add Louisiana and Georgia to this list. In several populous States—California, Ohio and Massachusetts—so many signatures to petitions are required that the Socialists do not have the funds to organize to meet the requirements.

As in the past, the Thomas campaign will be run on a shoestring. Compared to the many millions spent by the Republicans and the fewer millions spent by the Democrats, the Socialists will have, at most, $150,000. The average contribution is under $25 and $300 is likely to be the top.

The campaign is really run, of course, on the energy, the drive, the tireless conviction of Thomas, who at the age of 64 is in his sixth presidential campaign. The fact that he hasn't a ghost of a chance to win a single State does not deter him.

Speaking on village greens, at crossroads, in university auditoriums, Thomas is carrying the campaign to almost every section of the country. His daily schedule exceeds even that of President Truman, and Thomas travels in lower berths (or even upper berths), on buses and at times in his own sound truck with none of the luxuries or conveniences of a special train with a secretarial staff.

REPEATEDLY, Thomas has challenged Wallace to debate the issues. At Wallace's disastrous press conference at the third party's Philadelphia convention, Thomas demanded to know whether Wallace would join in the defense of Trotskyist radicals who, in Thomas' view, are being punished for their political beliefs.

Wallace has tried to ignore the challenge. In Wisconsin the Socialists planned to have Thomas come into the State a day before Wallace and publicly call on him to answer certain questions. This, the Socialist's campaign managers believe, is why Wallace canceled his Wisconsin tour.

The Socialist tactic has been to enter congressional candidates in districts represented now by reactionaries. That contrasts with the strategy of the Wallaceites who, until the recent shift, seemed to be deliberately trying to kill off liberal candidates by running a third-party competition.

Four years ago Socialist voting strength had declined to 80,518. The fact the war was on had a lot to do with this, although the total of 99,557 in 1940 was only slightly larger. The estimate for this year, which like all political estimates is probably too optimistic, is "better than 600,000." Many will argue the futility of any kind of protest vote. But if, as seems likely, a vote approaching that of 1932 is rolled up, it will be a significant sign of the times that cannot be ignored.

School Buses

Recently complaint was made about certain Maryland counties furnishing school bus transportation to nonpublic school children.

These schools are not operated for profit. The fact is that the education of these children in nonpublic schools relieves the taxpayers of considerable taxes. The furnishing of bus transportation is only a small item of the total cost if the children were educated in the public schools.

The counties are making a good bargain by furnishing bus transportation to nonpublic school children.

Today and Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

For A New Armistice

IS IT NOT about time to ask ourselves whether our position in the Berlin dispute cannot be based on something stronger, sounder, and better than the formulae now in use? We are saying that we won't negotiate under duress but that the moment the Russians lift the blockade we are willing to negotiate on all German questions in a Council of Foreign Ministers.

LIPPMANN

The trouble with this formula is that even if the Russians accepted it, we should still, as respects Berlin, be negotiating under duress. For Berlin will still be deep inside the Soviet zone of military occupation, and therefore the Russians will still control the land approaches to Berlin. Therefore, though they now lifted the blockade, they would retain the power to impose it again. The fact that they had this power would hang, like the sword of Damocles, over the negotiations in the Council of Foreign Ministers, and in a very real sense we would be negotiating under duress: the duress of knowing that if the negotiations failed, we should be back with the blockade, the air lift, and the choice between appeasement and an ultimatum.

IT IS evident, therefore, that the formula for which we are now contending is not a solution of the problem of Berlin. It fails to take into account the real situation, which is that as long as Berlin is surrounded by the Red army our position in Berlin must remain highly vulnerable.

Our right to be in Berlin may be absolute. But our ability to stay in Berlin will be contingent on how the Russians calculate the risks of exploiting their strategic superiority. And no verdict of the Security Council, no diplomatic formula agreed to now, can do away with the fact that Berlin is a military pocket well behind the front line of the Red army.

DOES IT not follow that the real alternative to our surrendering Berlin to the Russians is to ask that all the occupying powers leave Berlin and the territory around it? Granting that the withdrawal of all the armies from Germany cannot take place until the terms of a peace treaty have been negotiated:—it does not follow that a withdrawal of the armies from the center of Germany to the periphery might not be arranged for the period during which a German peace treaty is being negotiated.

There is much to be said, it seems to me, for proposing that the armies, which now cover the whole of Germany, be withdrawn and concentrated on the edges of Germany: the Russions, for example, to the Oder River, the British and French to the Rhine, the Americans to the area around the Port of Bremen. This would put an end to military government. It would put and end to the dangerous and proven futility of attempting to govern Germany by agreement among the occupying forces. It would liquidate completely and honorably the dangerous anomaly of Berlin. It would separate the armies, make it unnecessary for the generals to meet and quarrel, and it would isolate and insulate the troops.

AN ARRANGEMENT of this sort would be tantamount to a new armistice which recognized that the existing armistice has proved to be unworkable, that it has brought the victors to the verge of war. The new armistice would prepare the ground for the only settlement which is in fact possible: for an agreement on how the military occupation of Germany can eventually be ended.

The new armistice would recognize that no agreement to cooperate in governing Germany is possible, that no agreement to partition Germany into a Soviet satellite state and a western satellite state is tolerable—in short that the Potsdam conception of Germany is obsolete; that the London agreements conception is discarded.

IF THIS new policy were adopted, it would no longer be necessary for us to stand in the awkward position of consenting reluctantly, and really under the duress of the Berlin blockade, to a meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers. We would be in the much better position of wanting a meeting of the Council because we had serious, positive proposals to make to it—proposals which dealt with the realities of the Berlin situation and with the realities of an eventual German settlement.

IT IS NOT seemly, and it is not necessary, for us to let ourselves be maneuvered into our present diplomatic position where we are afraid to enter a general negotiation, but are nevertheless being driven into it because of the Berlin blockade. The reason we are in this diplomatic fix is that we have not yet adopted firmly and resolutely a policy which we are prepared to advocate in the general negotiations. The way out of that fix is to come forward with a policy which is a concrete and positive answer to the problem of Berlin, which is manifestly designed to bring about a peaceable solution of that problem.

Then we could enter a council with a good conscience and with self-respect and with dignity. We could wait with confidence to see whether the Russians will reject the proposal, and whether they will accept the odium of wishing to perpetuate the military occupation and the political partition of Germany.

Negroes Lose Dining Car Damage Suit

Judge Alexander Holtzoff yesterday threw out of District Court a $30,000 damage suit of two Negroes who charged they were denied dining-car service aboard a Southern Railroad System train.

The losers in the suit were Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Chesterfield Alleyne of Philadelphia, Pa. Alleyne described himself as a bishop of the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church.

According to the railroad, since 1946 it has segregated Negroes in dining cars by allowing them one table behind a screen. But they have NOT been denied service. This was the situation, it was said, when on August 10, 1946, the Alleynes took a trip from Knoxville, Tenn., to Philadelphia. It was on this trip that the cause of the suit arose.

In dismissing the suit, Judge Holtzoff said that he was acting in agreement with a decision of the District Court in Baltimore of September 26. That court there said that it was legal to segregate races aboard trains so long as they received equal food and service.

Sesqui Fete Plans Laid

A progress report on plans for a sesquicentennial observance here in 1950 was made to the District Commissioners yesterday by the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission.

The celebration, which will have as its theme "the finest lesson in American history and American tradition ever put before the American people and the world," will begin on April 15, 1950, when the President will address a joint session of Congress and invite national participation.

It will end on November 22, 1950, with the reenactment of President Adams' ride in a coach from the White House to the Capitol, to address a joint session of Congress. Roles of Adams and other figures will be played by District residents.

The commission plans to add one permanent structure to the Washington scene — an amphitheater seating 10,000, which will be built to accommodate a symphonic drama planned for the sesquicentennial. It also will be used for other musical and dramatic presentations in connection with the observance.

Exhibits in art, aviation, industry and sciences, which are to be prepared for the observance, will be carried on as permanent additions to local galleries and museums.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 13 (AP).—Edward C. Barron of Detroit today was reelected president of the American Osteopathic Hospital Association at its annual meeting.

Federal Police May Patrol Shirley Road

Federal speed cops, instead of Arlington County police, may soon be dealing out the tickets on near-by Shirley highway.

Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Federal Works Administrator, announced yesterday that regulations are being drafted that will be enforced by Federal police along the highway from the Pentagon.

Speaking before the New York convention of U. S. police chiefs, he said that "Federal Works built the Shirley highway and access roads in Arlington County to serve the Pentagon. These are Federal property, on Federally-owned land."

"Because the State of Virginia lacks jurisdiction on this highway," he added, "we are now in the process of setting up regulations—so, one of these days, I may not only have building police but speed cops."

He explained that the building guards have the same power as sheriffs and constables on Federal property. Federal police along Shirley hwy. presumably would have the same authority.

Public law 447, passed by the Eightieth Congress on March 17, authorizes the United States Park Police to make arrests within Federal reservations in the environs of the District of Columbia. The "environs" were defined in Arlington and Fairfax counties and Alexandria and Montgomery, Prince Georges and Anne Arundel Counties.

Another public law, No. 566, passed on June 1, authorizes the FWA administrator to appoint special policemen for duty on Federal property.

Navy Personnel, Clothing to Get Alaskan Tests

The Navy said yesterday that exercises to be held next February in Alaskan waters are minor in size and aimed at testing clothing, equipment and personnel under cold weather conditions.

No more than 12 fighting ships and less than 12,000 men, including some 2000 Marines, will take part, an official said.

In response to questions, he said there is no significance to the fact the exercises will be held closer to Russian territory than any previous fleet exercises.

In the Pacific the Navy has only the Alaskan area in which to practice cold weather operations and experiments, he said.

Labor Act Praised by Truck Group

The Taft-Hartley Act yesterday gained the support of the American Trucking Association in one of the concluding actions of the ATA's convention here.

The association's board of directors unanimously approved a resolution which asserted the Taft-Hartley Act has had a "salutary effect on industrial relations, has generated increased national production, and has worked to the distinct benefit of employers, workers, and the public."

Horton Chosen President

Elected president of the ATA yesterday was Herman Dewitt Horton, of Charlotte, N. C., chairman of the board of Associated Transport, Inc., New York. He succeeds Ed J. Buhner, Louisville, Ky., who was elected chairman of the board of ATA directors.

Ted V. Rogers, of Scranton, Pa., the association's president the first 14 of its 15 years of existence, was appointed honorary board chairman for life.

Other new officers are Henry English, Dallas, Texas, first vice president; C. J. Williams, Milwaukee, second vice president; D. L. Sutherland, New Britain, Conn., third vice president; Fred B. Hufnagel, jr., Philadelphia, fourth vice president.

Charles P. Clark, St. Louis, was chosen treasurer, and Chester G. Moore, Chicago, secretary.

Would Repeal Excises

The board of directors urged immediate repeal of Federal excise taxes on motor vehicles, accessories, tires and tubes, fuel and oil. It recommended creation in each State of a highway study committee to conduct a long-range highway program, and opposed toll roads in principle while calling for public ownership of toll bridges.

The convention, attended by more than 2000 members, ended last night with banquets at the Mayflower and Statler Hotels.

Transamerica Move Opposed

The Federal Reserve Board declared yesterday that the District Court here lacks jurisdiction to intervene in the investigation of the multimillion-dollar Transamerica Corp.

Transamerica, which has been charged with monopolistic practices by the board on Monday obtained a show-cause order from Judge T. Alan Goldsborough here. The order demanded that the Federal Reserve Board show cause why it should not be required to specify the facts behind the Transamerica charges before the agency starts hearings in the case.

Besides suggesting that the court lacks jurisdiction, the Federal Reserve Board declared in its answer to the show-cause order that Congress has given it power to conduct such cases. It is also stated that Transamerica seeks to interject the courts into an administrative matter before the agency has made a ruling. The board says it has complied fully with the procedure that Congress has deemed proper for hearings.

U. S., Russia Compared

Bello Horizonte, Brazil, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, past president of the U. N. Assembly and former Ambassador to Washington, said today that Russia "wants to provoke another war without having the means of assuring its own victory, while the United States wants to maintain peace but does not know which road to follow." He spoke at the law school of the university here.

Patterson Will Suit Halts Payments to Needy

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

Challenge of the Patterson will has halted weekly and monthly payments to 17 minor beneficiaries—some of whom depend on the payments for their daily subsistence.

The law firm representing the will's executors yesterday confirmed a report that the payments to the people described in the will as "friends" of the late Eleanor M. Patterson, were halted soon after her death on July 24, because of the legal action.

One of these beneficiaries is a 65-year-old former electrician of the Washington Times-Herald, which Mrs. Patterson owned and published, who is now blind and partially crippled; another is an ill, 74-year-old widow of a former employe, who says she is now facing eviction because the payments stopped.

Several others are similarly in serious financial straits.

Must Await Probate

A member of the law firm, Kirkland, Fleming, Green, Martin & Ellis, said yesterday, "We are doing everything we can in this situation; we know a lot of these people are in pretty bad shape—that's why we are pushing so hard for a prompt settlement of the will contest.

"The only way they can be paid through the will is when the will is admitted to probate. In that respect, they are just like any other beneficiary."

He said the only other alternative is that "the parties involved might be able to work out some kind of an agreement whereby somebody could maintain the payments to the needy people involved until the litigation is over—then be reimbursed. We're doing everything we can on that," he added.

An official at Riggs National Bank, which was named temporary collector for the Patterson estate, said the bank is similarly bound by the litigation in making any payments, and referred questions to the law firm.

Challenged by Daughter

The will is being challenged by Countess Felicia Gizycka, daughter of Mrs. Patterson by her first marriage. A decision is expected in District Court today on what issues will be presented for trial in the will contest. The actual trial is not likely to begin before January.

In her will, Mrs. Patterson stipulated continuance for life of payments she had been making to persons whose names appeared on her books. Seventeen of these people have been identified as friends, distant relatives, former employes or relatives of former employes.

Seventy-six-year-old Mrs. Marion Koffenberger, widow of a Times-Herald stereotyper who died 12 years ago, said she had been receiving checks from Mrs. Patterson for "14 or 15 years."

Mrs. Koffenberger said her husband was employed for about 40 years as a stereotype operator. "I went to see Mrs. Patterson when my husband was sick—and we hadn't eaten for three days. Her secretary asked what we needed to get along on, and I said $10 a week. They increased it to $12.50 a few years ago."

Confined to House

Confined to the house by illness, Mrs. Koffenberger lives with a daughter and grandchildren at 203 2d st. se. She said she contributed the full $50 a month—her only income for her room and board until the checks stopped coming early in August, "and now we're more than a month behind in our rent, wondering if we're going to be put out on the street."

Another beneficiary is Joseph P. Locke, 65, who lives with his wife at the home of a sister-in-law at 2551 17th st. nw. A Times-Herald electrician for 37 years, his wife said he left there six and one half years ago after he became blind, and he has arthritis and diabetes."

Payments Were Only Income

Mrs. Locke, who is 60, said they had been receiving $25 a week from Mrs. Patterson—"the only income we had." She said, "Even with that we weren't able to have a doctor for over a year." They applied for Social Security payments, but as yet have received no reply, she said. "We're just trusting in the Lord," she added.

A widow of a former employe, Mrs. Henrietta Hall, 73, is ill and confined to her room at 224 H st. nw. She has a son employed at the Times-Herald as a porter. Other Washington residents and former employes in the group of 17 hopefully awaiting resumption of their so-called "annuity" payments are Paul E. Switzer of 1719 Lincoln rd. ne., ill for several years and now receiving hospital treatment, and Harry Nelson of 934 New York ave., Apt. 1, also ill and confined to his home.

Clark Appoints Johnston, Dewitt To Parole Board

James A. Johnston, onetime warden at Alcatraz, and J. H. Dewitt of the Army Parole and Clemency Board yesterday were named members of the Federal Parole Board.

They were appointed by Attorney General Tom C. Clark under a recently enacted law expanding the board from three to five members.

Johnston, who resides in San Francisco had been warden at Alcatraz for 15 years until his recent retirement. Previously he held similar posts at State prisons in San Francisco and Folsom, Calif. He is a lawyer and a onetime vice president of the American Trust Co., a West Coast bank.

Dewitt, a native of St. Paul, Minn., has been serving as chairman of the special Army Clemency and Parole Board.

MacArthur Lifts Bars to Pet Dogs And Cats in Japan

Tokyo, Oct. 13 (NYHT.).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced today that military and civilian members of the occupation forces, commercial traders, missionaries and other persons accredited to the supreme commander for the allied powers "may now with proper approval arrange for the shipment of household pets to Japan."

"Only dogs and cats will be considered household pets," the announcement said.

Pets eligible for entry into Japan, it is understood, must already be so deep in their owners' affections that barring them from the country would work a hardship on the occupational personnel and consequently lower morale.

Army exchanges have been instructed to stock prepared pet foods.

Court Smells 'Skulduggery' In WAA Sale of Iron Plant

The United States Court of Appeals commented yesterday that the sale of an Illinois pig iron plant by the Government was "surrounded by a pervasive and most offensive odor of skulduggery."

The transaction was the sale last year by the War Assets Administration of two blast furnaces, a coke plant and a byproducts plant at Granite City to the Missouri-Illinois Furnace, Inc., for $3,255,000.

The court held that the sale was legal but criticized methods used in connection with the deal.

In reviewing the case, the court said that on September 6, 1947, the WAA set the fair value of the property at $2,500,000 and invited bids. The Fulton Iron Co. bid $2,750,000, Tucker Motor Corp. bid $2,751,000 with Missouri-Illinois topping the bids.

Appraisal Increased

Four days after the bidding was closed, WAA, "without notice and without cause shown," arbitrarily raised the fair value to $3,250,000, "almost the exact amount of the bid of Missouri-Illinois," the court said. The increased appraisal eliminated the other bidders, it was said.

But before the sale could become final, it had to be examined by the Justice Department for possible antitrust violations. The Justice Department stated that since the joint and equal ownership of the Missouri-Illinois stock was between Koppers Co., Inc., and Hanna Coal & Ore Corp., the bid was in violation of antitrust laws.

The court went on to say:

"An 'out,' however was pointed out, that if one or the other co-owners of Missouri-Illinois were to divest itself of its interest to the other one, the bid of the dummy corporation would be acceptable. Such an obvious hint was not to be ignored. Appellee (WAA) obligingly held the matter in abeyance until they were notified that Hanna had agreed to sell all of its stock ownership in Missouri-Illinois to their old partner, Koppers."

Fulton Iron Suit Dismissed

After further negotiations Fulton Iron filed suit, which the court dismissed, stating that the company failed to show a capacity to sue. The WAA has wide discretion under the law as to both price, conditions of operation and other considerations, the court held.

"The transactions involved in this case are surrounded by a pervasive and most offensive odor of skulduggery. It is perfectly manifest to anyone who takes the trouble to examine the record that the adjusting of fair value by the WAA could only result in insuring that the Koppers interest secured the property," commented the court, stating that it was a "strange coincidence" that the adjusted fair value came so close to the Missouri-Illinois bid.

The opinion was written by Judge Bennett Champ Clark.

THIS WE KNOW . . .

The Harris tweeds we have purchased from the Islands of Harris and Lewis are hand-woven. All the processes are by hand — or foot — for the fabric is fulled by the bare feet of the Scottish lassies on the floors of their homes.

No synthetic chemical dyes achieve the soft tans, browns, greens and heather shades. These come from the seaweeds, the vetch plants and other natural sources.

So much for the cloth! Then we asked a foremost American tailor to give us some men's suits worthy of these wonderful fabrics. This they have done.

Most important of all, we were able to dent the inflationary spiral and offer you these genuine Harris Tweed Suits at the same price as last year's.

Too Many 'Neurotics' Seen Teaching

American delegates to the recent London World Congress on Mental Health came back with this impression:

"Not only in the United States but everywhere in the world there are too few men—and too many neurotic women—teaching in the elementary schools."

So reported Dr. Mabel Ross, Public Health Service delegate, yesterday. She and the two other American delegates—Miss Mary E. Switzer and Dr. Robert H. Felix of the Federal Security Agency—discussed the congress at an assembly of FSA officials.

Miss Switzer called the congress "one of the hopeful signs looking to international peace."

"Closely knit international groups, such as those in medicine, social work and mental hygiene, have proved that nations can cooperate along professional lines even when they cannot do so politically," she said.

Dr. Felix said continental psychiatrists seemed extremely preoccupied with questions of feelings of "national guilt, of historic origin, and its influence—in group behavior and thinking—upon international relations."

He cited a French paper on German youth, which he said reasoned that "the only way to handle the German people is to keep a foot on their neck."

"It's argument stemmed from the effect of the German father's authoritarian role upon the son who must bend unquestioningly or rebel.

"It was bitter to hear a scientific man let hatreds influence his reasoning, and I was even more gloomy when I heard Polish, Dutch and Belgian delegates call it masterful and highly scientific.

"The English, the Swiss, the Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders and Americans didn't take the paper as seriously."

Engineer Stops Train, Aids Flier in River

Fort Bassinger, Fla., Oct. 13 (AP).—Ralph G. Dawkins of Tampa, engineer of the Seaboard Air Line streamliner Silver Star, saw an airplane plunge into the Kissimmee River as the train sped north from Miami yesterday.

Dawkins stopped the train. The plane pilot, Benton F. Thomas, climbed from the submerged cockpit and made his way to a trestle, where the train crew helped him up and took him to Sebring. He suffered minor cuts.

Gallinger Is Center Of VD Campaign

Outside Bladder

Baby Faces Operation No. 2 Today

Chicago, Oct 13 (AP).—Two-year-old Pamela Lamphere Thursday will undergo the second of three operations to correct a rare bladder malformation.

Pamela was born with her bladder outside her body and the question of whether to resort to surgery caused a rift between her parents. They later became reconciled and the series of operations was begun.

Thursday's operation will be to transfer the right ureter, one of the ducts which carries urine from the kidney to the bladder, from the bladder to the large bowel. In the first operation on September 22 the left ureter was transferred in the same manner.

The second surgery will complete the major phase of the series. Dr. Karl A Meyer, county hospital medical director, said. The final operation will be to remove the child's non-functioning bladder from her body.

The Washington Rapid Treatment Center in Gallinger Hospital is a keystone in the campaign against venereal disease.

Intent of the three-month-old campaign, under the direction of Dr. S. Ross Taggart, director of the Health Department's Bureau of Venereal Diseases, is to "inform all the people in the Washington area of the signs and symptoms of VD, and to bring the infected to treatment."

Since the opening of the center in July, 1943, 8763 cases have been treated there.

Started During War

Begun as a wartime measure, it was one of five such centers set up at the time. Today there are about 60 such rapid treatment centers in the United States.

With intensive therapy methods, and use of penicillin, length of treatment in cases of syphilis have been cut to 5 to 15 days. Severe cases, requiring fever therapy, take a month or more.

The Washington RTC has 90 beds. The staff is headed by Dr. Franklin D. Hendricks.

Because the center is located in Gallinger, staff members of the center are often called upon to treat venereal disease in patients in other parts of the hospital.

Particularly vital is the cooperation with the obstetrical department and in pediatrics.

Research Conducted

In addition to its regular work the RTC is currently conducting research on a new type of penicillin, PAM (penicillin in oil with aluminum monostearate). The research suggests the possibility that syphilis may someday be successfully treated with one injection instead of two or three injections at five-day intervals.

With the rapid advancement in development of penicillin, fewer patients are hospitalized, and more are treated in doctors' offices or clinics.

Rescued Boy To Attend Rites

Norton, Kans., Oct. 13 (AP).—Eleven-year-old Michael Lintner greeted his playmates with a wave and a smile today as he arrived in an ambulance for the funeral of his mother, killed in a plane crash which nearly cost him his life.

A big grin spread over Mike's face as he spotted two of his favorite buddies, Gary Hollinger and Donald Heaton, in the group which met him and his father, Lieut. Col. A. L. Lintner.

"Mike", who has been in a hospital in Edmonton, Canada, was flown in a U. S. Air Force plane to Butte, Mont., where he was brought by train to Grand Island, Nebr. From there he was brought by ambulance to Norton, his mother's home town.

The mother was killed and the boy seriously hurt in a crash September 28 about 600 miles northwest of Edmonton. The boy hung head downward for 42 hours before he was rescued. The mother was flying the light plane from their Anchorage, Alaska, home to take the boy to a Washington, D. C., school.

Doctor Named To Gallinger Post

DR. PAUL B. CORNELY,

medical director of Freedmen's Hospital, has been appointed to the executive committee of Gallinger Hospital. The committee post was created October 5 in an agreement by officials of Georgetown, George Washington, and Howard University medical schools for joint use of Gallinger's medical training facilities

China Makes Payment

China has paid its $2,824,930 second annual installment in settlement of postwar lend-lease purchases from the United States, the State Department announced yesterday.

The agreement, made in June, 1946, covered purchases of about one million dollars of lend-lease material on order when the war ended.

Cancer Tests at 1000 a Month

An increase from $10 to $15 in the contribution fee asked for cancer-detectio ntests here has not stopped the deluge of applicants for such tests, members of the District Cancer Society were told yesterday.

Dr. Peter Commanduras, medical service director for the society, in the annual report, said the four local cancer-detection clinics and the additional one for indigents are now performing the tests at the rate of 1000 each month, with applications continuing to mount.

He spoke at the society's report and elections meeting at the District Medical Society Building, 1718 M st. nw., at which all officers and trustees were reelected for another year.

Dr. Commanduros pointed out that even with the $5 increase, the r eipts do not fully meet costs of operating the clinics at George Washington University (two clinics), Georgetown University, Doctors Hospital, and the clinic for indigents at Gallinger Hospital.

Frederick P. H. Siddons, president of the society, local branch of the American Cancer Society, submitted a proposed budget for this year's operations of the organization. Of the total budget of $165,000, he said $82,114 has been earmarked for service.

Such services, he said, are largely support of the cancer detection clinics, cancer research and treatment.

Officers reelected yesterday included Dr. Harry H. Kerr, president and chairman of the executive committee; Eliott Wadsworth, vice president; Dr. Calvin T. Klopp, secretary, and Frederick P. H. Siddons, treasurer.

School Protests Appeased for Time

Alexandria's Board of Education temporarily appeased a delegation of more than 60 parents from the Parkfairfax area last night with a twin-prong proposal for alleviating congestion in the Charles Barrett School.

After a discussion of almost two hours, the board voted to place one group of pupils temporarily in the parish hall of nearby St. Clement's Church. A second group will be transported at the school board's expense to the Jefferson School in downtown Alexandria.

Agrees to Employ Teacher

In approving the St. Clement's proposal, made possible through the cooperation of Episcopal Church officials, the board also agreed to employ an additional teacher for the parish hall classes.

During the discussion, centering entirely on current school needs, Supt. T. C. Williams disclosed that revised estimates of new school costs already have exceeded the total allocated for construction by nearly $200,000.

Williams said $2,800,000 of a five-million-dollar bond issue had been earmarked for schools but that the newest estimate showed development of plans now under consideration would cost at least $2,992,850.

To Seek Revised Plans

The school board also approved a motion to call for revised plans on a proposed school for the Parkfairfax area. In answer to questioning by some members of the delegation, Chairman J. S. Everly explained that the board had found the plans inadequate even though they were drawn up only a few months ago.

Present proposals call for two new elementary schools, a new Negro high school, and additions to five other existing buildings.

The delegation from the Parkfairfax area told the board the Charl Barrett school was built for 100 pupils and now has more than 200 enrolled.

Chinese Battle to Save Chinhsien

Peiping, Oct. 13 (AP).—Two government columns today were reported fighting to lift the siege of Chinhsien by attacking Communist lines south of that big Manchurian base.

Press accounts said these troops, apparently freshly landed, were moving up from the port of Hulutao, closely supported by government warplanes. Hulutao is 30 miles south of Chinhsien.

Other government forces out of Mukden have been reported fighting north of Chinhsien. The Communists are trying to sever all land lines between north China and Manchuria.

30.6 Millions Asked at U. M.

College Park, Md., Oct. 13 (AP).—Heads of the various departments of the University of Maryland outlined today budget requests totaling $30,678,368 for the two years starting next July 1.

Of this amount, $14,658,709 would come from the State's general funds. The rest would be derived from student fees, fees from patients at University Hospital, Baltimore, and income from the Federal Government and other sources.

The department heads appeared before the board of regents and State budget officials at an all-day meeting, and told how much they believe they need to run their divisions of the university.

Dr. H. C. Byrd, university president, explained that the requests were those outlined by the departments and that the board of regents has taken no action on them.

The general fund requests would appropriate $7,191,315 for fiscal 1950 and $7,467,394 for fiscal 1951.

'Good Neighbor' Policy Shift Hinted by Dulles

Paris, Oct. 13 (AP).—Latin American delegates to the U. N. today said John Foster Dulles had hinted that the Republicans, if elected, would change the United States good neighbor policy to one of "good friendship."

Dulles gave the Latin American delegates an informal dinner honoring Argentine Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia and others. Those present said Dulles declared the Republicans want to increase ties between the United States and other American nations. Dulles has been mentioned as next Secretary of State should the Republicans win.

Huge Profits Found in Steel Gray Market

A House committee said yesterday that gray marketeers exploiting the steel shortage are reaping "fantatstic profits" running into millions of dollars.

The group said 10 to 12 per cent of the Nation's total strip and sheet steel production is moving in the gray market.

(So-called "gray marketing" describes sales above standard price. Since the passing of OPA, with its price ceilings, such practices are not illegal.)

The committee, headed by Representative Macy (R., N. Y.), opposed any Federal controls to cope with the situation which it said has succeeded the wartime black market operations.

But in a report of its inquiry, the committee announced it has turned over to the Internal Revenue Bureau all its files showing gray market profits.

As a remedy, the committee recommended a voluntary program, sponsored by industry, "to encourage free and competitive enterprise as opposed to controls."

The committee said it uncovered deals in which operators bought steel for as low as $93 a ton and sold it to hard-pressed manufacturers for as much as $270 a ton.

"These operators take unscrupulous advantage of the steel shortage . . . and reap fantastic profits from the American people in dire need of stoves, bathtubs, automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines, farm machinery and other necessities," the committee's report said.

It told a story of "daisy chains" operating to make fortunes overnight, with trades in steel being made through a chain of as many as 10 to 15 persons "with no steel ever seen by any of them."

In one case, the report said, a manufacturer badly needing metal put up $1,100,000 as a commission for a person to find 10,000 tons of steel.

To combat such practices, here is what the committee proposed:

1. All steel producers contribute to the formation of an independent organization to conduct impartial investigations and report its findings to the steel industry.

2. The steel mills "should exercise better supervision over their accounts and . . . enforce their sales and distribution policies. . . . Acceptance of orders could specifically provide, in all cases, that diversion or unauthorized resale would constitute cause for discontinuance of sales of steel.

3. The mills should desist from trading steel to scrap dealers in return for scrap. "In every case of this nature investigated by the committee it was found that the finished products were going into the gray market at premium prices," the report said.

'39 Cigarette Consumption Is Doubled

Cigarette consumption in the United States this year is more than twice as large is in 1939, the Department of Agriculture reported yesterday.

Total cigarette output this year is expected to be around 385 billion—a new record, and 15 billion more than in 1947.

Smoking tobacco manufacture is expected to reach 109 million pounds—far below the peak of 205 million in 1940.

"With high employment and income levels during the last three years," the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported, "consumers have tended to smoke other tobacco products, mainly cigarettes and, to some extent, cigars."

Chewing tobacco consumption is continuing its slow decline. The only time use of chewing tobacco increased in recent years was during the war when workers in dangerous occupations were prohibited from smoking.

More than 100 million more cigars will be smoked this year than last, BAE estimated, although the number will be about 200 million less than in 1946.

Reds, Catholics Clash

Rome, Oct. 13 (AP).—Trieste dispatches said four persons were injured and several houses wrecked in clashes between Yugoslav Catholics and Communists Sunday night at the Istrian village of Pedena. The parish priest, Don Viovanni Gagba, disappeared in the melee, and has not been traced.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and of color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Dealers Keeping Short Stocks Because of Inflated Prices

By Ollie Atkins

HIGH prices are hurting the camera market and no immediate relief from the boosted price tags on everything photographic is in sight.

Following wartime shortages of everything in the field of photographic materials there has been a trend upward in costs of all items and a continued shortage even today in movie films, cut films, flash bulbs and many types of camera equipment.

One dealer has told me that cameras in particular are moving slowly because the public is holding off on purchases because of high prices. Many camera shop dealers are operating on a short stock basis for they are wary of getting too much on hand only to have the bottom fall out of the market.

Costs Cut Profits

Should an economic crash break this dizzy inflation, first among the victims would be practical photographic dealers and cameramen in the studios.

Already added costs of materials, labor and rent have slashed profits of the portrait and commercial photographer. Many studios have just gone out of business and even some of these cut-rate outfits who get business by home-to-home solicitation are worried.

I might add that in this same thought trend that one of the Nation's largest photographic manufacturers paid out record dividends to investors this summer.

Of course, our inflation is still bearable compared with wartime and postwar conditions in countries like France. I have seen "brokers" soliciting sales of cameras from GIs in Paris, where fantastic figures right around the $1000 mark was being handed out for the better-made German cameras. The cash changing hands was all in French francs and the main reason for buying cameras was not to make photographs but to put the inflated currency into real property.

Who's to Blame

In defense of the camera shop dealers, I must say they are much more worried about the sky-high prices than you are. I have heard them haranguing the salesmen and representatives of manufacturers. But, you can't lay the blame on any one person or even group of people.

A box camera sells today for $4.95. A folding camera with no more photographic features than the box sells for $20. A drum drier has doubled its price in the past year. A man ordered a dry print mounting machine and when it was delivered a couple of months later the price had soared up to $40.

The whole situation in all phases of photography is serious. Add to the natural inflation that extra economic barb—the special excise tax which tacks 20 per cent on photographic bills—and most photographers are ready to toss in the towel.

No Solution

We can offer no solution. We merely present the situation here. Congratulations must be given to the commercial photographers who have restrained price boosts to the extent that there is little difference in the cost of a portrait or commercial job now than in 1941. There is a lot of difference in the profits though. A bouquet is deserved for the dealers, too, who have done their best to restrain prices.

To conclude this discussion we would like to mention that Bell and Howell will shortly announce their new de luxe "Foton" 35 mm miniature camera. The price? A mere $700.

Homey Subject . . .

The inflationary spiral has hit the barber shops too, but we doubt that this Dad would take his son to the tonsorial artists anyway. He looks right at home snipping the long ends off Sonny Boy's hair. It all goes to prove that plenty of good picture subjects are right in yur own home if you'll just keep your photographic eyes alert.

Doctor Believes Cleanliness May Cut Down Polio

Auckland, New Zealand, Oct. 12 (AP).—A New Zealand physician thinks he has found a new line of attack on infantile paralysis.

He believes poliomyelitis virus may be carried in dust and that personal cleanliness may be the best safeguard.

Dr. A. W. Thompson, Auckland city's medical officer of health, presented his findings in a report to Parliament. He based them on studies made in the first nine months of a polio epidemic in the north island of New Zealand.

Dr. Thompson suggests the disease may be spread by dust-borne infection in the same way as the eggs of the threadworm.

Platinum Brain, And a Hi-De-Ho

By Richard L. Coe

"DREAMS THAT MONEY CAN BUY," surrealist movie, this week at Dupont Theater is

Artistic very people this stimulating will find disappointed although to sit in chairs they will be; better this thing sort of is seated floor on cold water garret of. Theater chairs ordinary misleading are. Condescension to customs of accepted movies in theater seeing weakness is.

Idea movie is no sense, all emotion, feeling deep, sincerity plus and Life. Love and X-E-S heavily bear in subconscious dreams all. Years three and dollars shoestring into plan Director Hans Richter of. Dreams strung are together by sense-making thread remindful ordinary Hollywood of tendency bourgeouisie avoided should future in be.

So often every story of poor former GI, housing-troubled, enters picture into attempt making logic role play in. Question how far can we get from reality is but dream-selling former GI trouble has unhappy clients all with. Make do not mistake horrible Howard Barnes of Tribune-Herald York New though did; when former GI sidewalk hits blob of blood as this not death is to ending to all is.

Artistic people awash in film very. From program note now quote I:

"Quote"

1st Dream, "Desire:" Inspired by Max Ernst's colleagues in his book, La Semaine de Bonte. A story of passion and desire featuring a lover who listens to the dream talk of his sleeping girl. A romantic study of sex in 1850 with music by Paul Bowles and a "stream of consciousness" monologue by Max Ernst.

2d Dream, "The Girl With the Pre-Fabricated Heart:" Fernand Leger suggested a film on American Folklore. The outcome in this heart-breaking love story between two dummies in a mechanized world. John Latouche interpreted it in terms of our popular songs.

3d Dream, "Ruth, Roses and Revolvers": From an original story by Man Ray. In it the artist ridicules the readiness with which most people accept what other people impress upon them. A movie theater offers an adequate setting.

4th Dream, "Discs and Nudes Descending a Staircase": Marcel Duchamp's flat color disks (sic) assume three dimensions, moving rhythmically across the screen. Their movements are timed with those of nudes descending a staircase—an animation of his famous painting. Music for prepared piano by John Cage.

5th Dream, "Ballet": Alexander Calder's mobiles—objects in motion—are made to appear as a sort of solar system, a ballet of the universe. Music by Paul Bowles.

7th Dream, "Narcissus": Hans Richter's own sequence tackles the old Narcissus problem in an unorthodox way. His Narcissus is Joe, the dream salesman, who suddenly discovers his true identity. This metamorphosis is expressed by a change of color; his face turns blue. Joe is played by Jack Bittner. Louis Applebaum wrote the musical score.

"Unquote"

Music sometimes box-office like Libby Holman and Josh White voices of sing "Her chromium nerves and her platinum brain were chastely encased in cellophane and to top off this daughter of science and art she was equipped with a prefabricated heart."

Cage John his prepared piano nails and screwdrivers between strings put. Effect same much obtained harpsichord by so all these things not so new are.

Crazy not am I dreaming just. Typesetters and proofroom from this absolved should be.

TO WELCOME "HAMLET," the Little Theater's being redecorated throughout . . . You'll note a new brocade damask wall covering, new upholstery for all seats and snazzy two-tone gray carpeting . . . The Little, by the way, has a few more of the cheaper "Hamlet" seats than its younger sister, the Playhouse, does, so when you're trying for seats it might be the wisdom of prudence to specify the Little.

THE MIDTOWN PLAYERS, of the YMCA, are holding auditions tonight for a series of plays . . . 8:30 is the time, the Southeastern University Auditorium at 1736 G st. nw. is the place . . . Director Charles K. Boyajian, who has appeared in numerous local productions, has hopes of establishing a repertoire bill on "Little Theater" lines and urges that all who are interested drop by for the auditions tonight

OLD WASHINGTONIANS were saddened yesterday by news from the Coast of the death at 46 of Mary Eaton . . . Mary was a lilting musical comedy star you may have seen in the Follies, "Kid Boots," "The Five O'Clock Girl" or "Lucky," to name but a few . . . A contemporary of the great Marilyn Miller, Mary's charm was overshadowed, but she had it right enough . . . She made her first stage appearance at Poli's, where that sprawling Government building now stands, in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," and stayed with the company several seasons . . . Her father, the late C. H. S. Eaton, was once a printer on The Washington Post

THIS BATHTUB SCENE starts Greer Garson off on a series of comic adventures which climax in her appearance as an acrobat in "Julia Misbehaves," opening this morning at the Palace. Co-starred with Greer is her favorite partner, Walter Pidgeon. Others in the film adapted from Margery Sharpe's novel, "The Nutmeg Tree," include Peter Lawford and Elizabeth Taylor.

Arlington Bond Issue on Sale Today

Arlington County will put $2,526,000 worth of county and school bonds up for sale today.

The bonds—$750,000 for an incinerator, $1,776,000 for elementary school construction—will go to the bidder offering the most favorable interest rate.

Bids will be received until 10 a. m. in the County Manager's office in the Arlington Court House, and opened at 10:30 a. m.

A contract to build the incinerator already has been awarded to the Nichols Engineering & Research Corp. of New York by the Arlington County Board.

The school bonds, approved by voters in May, 1947, will be used to replace the present Hume, Fairlington, Glencarlyn, and Hoffman-Boston elementary schools, and to build new schools in Dominion Hills and at Little Falls rd., off Glebe rd.

In a bond prospectus, the county stated it had a present net debt of $2,844,184. With the new bonds, the debt would rise to $5,370,184. There is no statutory debt limit on Virginia counties.

Equitable Life Elects Phillips, Clark as Heads

By S. Oliver Goodman

Charles E. Phillips was elected president of the Equitable Life Insurance Co., Washington, it was announced yesterday by the board of trustees. Phillips, formerly secretary-treasurer, succeeds the late Henry P. Blair.

The board also elected Gilbert C. Clark as executive vice president and secretary. He formerly was associate actuary of Equitable Life, which was founded in 1885 and now has assets in excess of 40 million dollars.

Phillips, a native of metropolitan Washington, has been associated with Equitable for the past 26 years. He has been secretary-treasurer since 1943. He is a graduate of George Washington University Law School, where he received the degree of LL. B. and LL. M. He was admitted to the bar in 1925.

Clark, also a native of Washington, joined Equitable in 1925 in its actuarial department. He is a graduate of Eastern High School and the Carnegie Institute of Technology. He is a member of the executive committee of the Life Office Management Association and chairman of its Industrial Insurance Office Methods Committee.

In another change Lauriston H. Hannah, vice president and manager of agencies, was elected to the company's executive committee.

Equitable Life, whose home offices are at 816 14th st. nw., operates two district offices in Washington and 29 district and detached offices in six States.

TRADE TO START: The Securities and Exchange Commission yesterday aproved an application of the Washington Stock Exchange for unlisted trading privileges in the $10 par common stock of Virginia Electric & Power Co. Local trading in the 2,955,291 shares of Vepco stock will start Monday, President Bernard J. Nees of the Washington exchange, said. The SEC took no action on the local market's request for unlisted trading privileges in Vepco's preferred stock.

RULES SIMPLIFIED: Officials of federally-chartered savings and loan associations are studying a detailed proposal to simplify lending regulations. O. K. LaRoque is chairman of a Home Loan Bank committee which developed the revisions. One of the revisions, LaRoque said, would "reduce greatly the need for associations to apply to the HLBB for specific authorizations." Other changes would remove provisions which are outmoded and would shorten regulations. Following a usual 30-day waiting period for views of the institutions affected, the board will act on final adoption of the revisions.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Oct. 13 (AP).—Big crops weighed down prices of all grains on the Board of Trade today. Corn showed the widest losses among major grains, but wheat and oats also worked lower. The main feature was the shyness of buyers, who wanted nothing if they could not get it at a lower price.

Overhanging trading was Monday's Agriculture Department crop report, forecasting the largest over-all grain production in the Nation's history. Although that was not news, it served once again to chill speculative purchases. Public interest in the market was small.

Wheat closed ⅝-1⅛ lower, December 2.24¾; corn was 1⅜ to 2 cents lower, December 1.39¾@1.39⅞; oats were ⅛-¼ lower, December 74¾; rye was unchanged to ¼ higher, December 1.68¾; and soybeans were 3 to 4½ lower, November 2.46.

Hyattsville Auto Meters Get New Rap

Hyattsville's controversial parking meters took another rap yesterday when the Prince Georges County commissioners refused to permit them in front of the County Service Building.

The commissioners took the stand that the pavement in front of the Service Building is public property paid for by the citizens of the county and that no community should be permitted to make a profit by charging citizens for parking their cars while going into the building to transact public business.

The commissioners yesterday directed Dorothy P. Carr and J. Edward Carr to cease operation of a nursing home at 7204 Hilton ave., Takoma Park, Md. The Carrs had been cited before the commissioners by Perce Wolfe, county building inspector, for alleged failure to obtain a license and for operating without obtaining a special ordinance as required by county law. They were given three weeks to get rid of the patients now at the home. A petition containing approximately 200 signatures of adjoining property owners opposing the home also was received.

Commissioner Harry W. McNamee presided at yesterday's meeting. President William A. Carson is in the hospital with a serious illness.

The commissioners accepted the resignation of William A. Duvall, jr., as desk clerk at Hyattsville. Duvall has been named a member of the Hyattsville police force. They set a hearing for 11 a. m., November 9, on a petition for improvement of Gude ave. from Ray rd. for 1150 feet, asked by citizens.

Taft to Sail From N. Y. Nov. 4 on Tour

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) plans to sail from New York November 4 for a tour of five or six western European countries.

His office said yesterday Taft will leave after the election with Mrs. Taft for a swing through Italy, Austria, Germany, Switzerland, France and perhaps England. They are scheduled to return to the United States December 15.

Prince Georges School Bid Exceeds Funds Appropriated

Low bid on the Fairmount Heights Senior-Junior High School was nearly $100,000 more than the appropriation allotted for the first unit of the school.

The bids were opened yesterday by the Prince Georges County Board of Education at Upper Marlboro, Md. Low bid was offered by W. M. Chappell of Washington, who bid $765,000 for constructing the 19-room unit. Chappell bid $23,580 for construction of a kitchen and $12,250 for a brick front on the school. The main bid provides for cinder block front.

Superintendent of Schools G. Gardner Shugart told a small group of Negro civic and school leaders that the cost would have to be pared. All agreed that classrooms are the most important, but urged that an effort be made to provide the kitchen. Paul Kea, the architect, will confer with the contractor in an effort to reduce the costs. A second unit is provided in the proposed program for county schools to be offered the general assembly in January.

Two other delegations appeared before the board yesterday to urge that their high schools be kept on the building program as urgent needs. They were Suitland and Bladensburg area residents. They were assured the funds obtained from the legislature will be apportioned among schools in urgent need.

Germans to Be Freed

Is Your Will Permanent —or Temporary?
Do not think of your Will as a permanent, final plan for your family's future financial protection. Consider it a tentative arrangement to be revised when changed conditions warrant.
Today, changes in your family or business—or changes in tax laws like the recent Revenue Act of 1948—can make your Will out-of-date overnight. To provide those you want to protect with maximum financial safeguards, you should review your Will regularly.
A trust officer of The Washington Loan and Trust Company will be glad to discuss with you and your attorney any phase of your estate problem. Why not take advantage of the experience of this Bank—the oldest trust company in the Nation's capital.

Hey KIDS! Write a RADIO SLOGAN
Win up to $100 and be on the RADIO!

It's The Washington Post
SAINT MYSTERY COMIC SLOGAN CONTEST
Open to all grade school, junior high, and high school kids in the Washington area.
HERE'S WHAT YOU DO: First, begin by turning to the comic pages of The Post and get acquainted with "The Saint." Next, decide what you want to say about this new mystery comic. Then say it—in a slogan, a jingle, what have you. With or without sound effects indicated—it doesn't matter.
Finally, write your slogan on a piece of paper, put on your name, address, age and school and send it to the "Saint Mystery Comic" Contest Editor, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C. You may enter as many slogan ideas as you wish. Be sure your name and address are on each one.
The contest lasts until October 31. Entries received after October 31 will not even be opened. So get going—now. Read the Saint Comic in The Washington Post. Put on your thinking cap. Try your idea out on your family. Then send it in. In case two or more persons send in the same slogan, the one reaching the judges first will be considered original, so it pays to get your ideas in right away.

Hey, kids! Win up to $100 and be on the radio yourself! Enter The Post's "Saint Mystery Comic" slogan contest

High Pickup Range Protested to FCC

By The Associated Press

The National Association of Broadcasters objected yesterday to having their remote pickup services kicked upstairs on the radio spectrum.

Spokesmen for the association, the American Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting System told the Communications Commission that remote pickup should be left where it is. If it is changed, they said, it should be done over a period of years.

Remote pickup, used in the broadcasting of fires, floods, storms and other emergencies and in sporting and other events, now is in the 152-162 megacycle range. The commission has proposed that it be moved to the 450-460 MC range to make way for other services in the lower range.

Operations Perfected

The argument of the radio men was that the broadcast companies have perfected operations in the 152-163 range whereas operations in the higher frequencies still are in the experimental phase.

The Mutual Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Co. are scheduled to express their views today.

Earlier the commission, which is hearing arguments on its proposed reallocations of certain short-wave frequencies, heard petition for frequency assignments from cement makers, towboat operators, film companies, the Western Union Telegraph Co. and others.

Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. urged that the Government set aside 12 short-wave radio frequencies for the exclusive use of motion picture companies.

The frequencies would be used for talking back and forth between directors, actors and other movie people during film production in out-of-the-way locations. They also would be used for technical purposes.

Russia Ready To Recognize

Moscow, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Russia is willing to establish diplomatic relations with the "Korean National Democratic Republic," the government of Soviet-occupied North Korea, it was announced today.

The disclosure came in an exchange of messages between Premier Joseph Stalin and Kim Ir Sen, President of the North Korean Council of Ministers.

(Russia announced last month that all Soviet occupation troops would be withdrawn from Korea by January 1, 1949, and said it was "hoped" that the United States would withdraw its forces from southern Korea.

Shofar Blast Marks End of Jewish Day of Atonement

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, ended last night at sundown in Jewish synagogues and temples.

The end of the 24-hour period of fasting and prayer was marked with a final blast on the shofar, or ram's horn. Yom Kippur, the most sacred day in the Jewish year, concluded the 10 days of penitence and prayer that were ushered in with Rosh Hashonah, the new year of 5709.

In a sermon at the Arlington Jewish Center, 2920 Lee blvd., Rabbi Ira Sud declared that every human being is entitled to a place under the sun and a share of the land. To enjoy dignity and self-respect as part of his liberty, he must have an address, the rabbi said.

"Millions of human beings are loking to the United Nations to help them regain a permanent and honorable address," he declared.

To the Adas Israel congregation, 600 I st. nw., Rabbi Solomon H. Metz said, "The Day of Atonement emphasizes the eternal truth that human tragedy does not stem from the rigors and relentlessness of fate but from the weakness of our faith.

"The sense of fear, anxiety and frustration thatt dogs modern man is due to his blind reliance upon material things and his neglect of the precepts of ethical monotheism, which seeks salvation in the love of God and the love of man," he concluded.

120,000 to Watch 4 Games in Area This Weekend

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

POVICH

THE PRO FOOTBALL business is having it rough. Their early-season gate receipts were blighted by the drawn-out pennant race hysteria in the American League, plus a playoff and the World Series. Crowds are off, and the high expenses of the football club owners roll un-merrily on. The weather hasn't helped, either.

It's pretty significant that the Redskins in their first two home games failed by 4000 customers each Sunday afternoon to draw the Marshall Dream House, designed for capacity crowds. For the past several seasons, the Redskins merely had to announce they were playing a football game and a sell-out was assured.

There's evidence that the customers don't have the ready cash to invest in those season tickets that retail for $19.80. Either that, or they're getting more choosy. The Redskins, with their sellouts, built up an exclusive clientele during the years. Fans without season tickets could rarely see the games. Playing to the same faces every week, the Redskins didn't make new fans, and when they began losing regular customers they were hurt.

THIS LOOKED like the year, though, when the National Football League might be able to crow loudly over the upstart All-America Conference which muscled into the big league football business a couple of years ago. The NFL went out and got the Lujacks and the Laynes and Evans' at high expense and clearly made a fancy pitch for patronage, but their crowds haven't increased and the AAC is still in business.

Particularly in New York did the NFL have a glowing chance to knock the props from under one of the AAC's stanchest franchises, the Yankees. Dan Topping's AAC club lost its first four games, kicked out Coach Ray Flaherty and were apparently floundering. The Giants of the NFL were going to win back New York fan patronage with what was supposed to be one of Coach Steve Owen's fanciest teams. What has happened hasn't been good for the NFL.

Owen's Giants have been even more of a flop than the Yankees. After beating the Bears in an exhibition game and raising hopes high, the Giants took a 41-10 shellacking from the Redskins and then suffered their worst defeat in history, a 45-0 whipping by the Eagles. The Giants were winning no games and winning no friends, and Tim Mara yesterday found it expedient to announce he wasn't firing his coach.

THE NATIONAL FOOTBALL LEAGUE was anticipating a chance to gloat in New York this Sunday. The Giants are scheduled against the champion Cardinals and that game was supposed to dwarf the Yankees-San Francisco Forty-niners game scheduled across the river at the same time. This was to be the NFL's coup de grace to the All-America Conference and the Yankees in New York.

Long before the Giants were exposed as a punchless, inept club without much fan appeal, the Yankees had been established as a weak club this season. New York fans were expected to storm the gates of the Polo Grounds for the Giants vs. the Cardinals. There is some doubt now that they will, and all of a sudden the game across the river has acquired some tremendous fan appeal.

The Yankees couldn't have picked a better opponent than the Forty-niners for gate purposes on Sunday if they were allowed to write the script. The Forty-niners are the hottest thing in professional football with seven victories in their first seven games and are a choice attraction with their Frankie Albert and Norm Standlee.

THE CARDINALS are bringing their Charlie Trippi into the Polo Grounds, of course, and he's a drawing card, but the Giants are virtually out of the Eastern Division race already. The Yankees are out of the race in their league, too, but in their last game they did beat Buffalo, and they have a couple of sure-fire gate magnets of their own in Spec Sanders and Buddy Young.

San Francisco's football team punctured the dreams of Baltimore last week with a sensational 56-14 win over the Colts and are on their way to a new AAC scoring record with an average of 39 points per game. Their man Albert set a passing record of his own with 13 completions in 15 throws against the Colts and at this point is clicking off completions at the rate of 63.9 per cent.

Albert has completed 94 of his 147 passes this year and, what is equally important, he has had only two of them intercepted. It will be the clash of Titans when the Forty-niners meet up with the unequally unbeaten Cleveland Browns in the AAC this year.

Pick-the-Winners Lineup 2d Week

THIS IS THE second week of The Washington Post's Pick-The-Winners football contest. It will be conducted weekly through November 20.

This week's list of games looks difficult. So put on your thinking caps. Remember, this is a contest of skill, designed to reward those who know their teams and are students of the game. Follow accounts of the teams, study the scores each week, then make your choices of the winners.

The winner of each weekly contest will receive two (2) tickets to the Army-Navy game in Philadelphia, November 27, and an all-expenses paid trip to the big game for two persons.

The person submitting the most accurate entry each week also will receive four (4) tickets to a major college or professional game in this area. This game will be selected by The Washington Post and announced well in advance of the game.

No person will be eligible to win the weekly contest twice.

Kansas Stiff Foe for GW Even With Evans Gone

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Maybe George Washington is biting off more than it can chew Friday night.

True the Colonials have spotted VPI and Virginia weight and experience, and licked 'em both this season.

But this Kansas Jayhawker team, which meets G. W. at the ballpark Friday, has been outclassing bigger teams for three seasons, and in faster company too.

In their last 25 games, the Jayhawkers', averaging 185 pounds per man, have lost only four times.

Kansas, along with Oklahoma and Missouri, has ruled the Big Seven Conference roost for six years. In 1046 and again last year, the Jayhawkers shared the conference championship.

Performance charts of the Nation's major football teams appear on Page 23.

Evans Only Major Loss

Despite the loss of All-America Halfback Ray Evans to the Pittsburgh Steelers, the Jayhawkers are practically as strong as they were last year.

Their only loss in '47 was, 20-14, to Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl. But they whipped the same Missouri team which last week snapped SMU's three-year unbeaten string. And they tied the same Oklahoma club which last week beat Texas in hot Dallas for the first time in nine years.

Kansas is playing under a new coach, J. V. (Siki) Sikes, end coach at Georgia for several years.

Sikes had to do a lot of juggling to cover up the loss of Evans, and he's been successful. Kansas has lost only one game so far, its opener, 14-13, to Texas Christian. But it has beaten Denver, 40-0; Colorado, 40-7, and Iowa State, 20-7.

Griffith Their Mainstay

Sikes, who's using the same T-formation as his predecessor, George Sauer, is billing a 180-pound left halfback, Frank Pattee, as Evans' successor. Pattee, a fullback last year, does everything well, and is such a deadly tackler that he even stays in on defense.

However, the man whom GW Coach Bo Rowland fears most is Fullback Forrest Griffith, the conference's leading scorer as a right halfback last year. Bo, coaching at Oklahoma City last season, saw the Jayhawkers play several games, and says Griffith is as good as Evans ever was.

Sikes' biggest gamble has helped make his club a winner. He experimented with Dick Gilman, his fourth-string fullback last year, at regular quarterback.

The 6-foot, 2-inch, Merriman, Kans., boy has developed well. He never runs, only hands off the ball, or passes. He has tossed eight touchdown passes already. Pattee, Griffith and Buddy French, the right-halfback, in addition to two light but fast ends, are very capable receivers.

Wade Waives Ban on Sophs; 3 Face Terps

Sophomore football players, whom Wallace Wade once regarded as neccessary evils, today occupy key roles on the "Old Man's" Duke football team.

He's got three—Tailback Bill Cox, Wingback Johnny Friedlund and Fullback Jack Mounie—who are more likely than not to make things interesting for Maryland Saturday when the unbeaten Terps hook up with the unbeaten Blue Devils at Griffith Stadium.

For a sophomore to get as much as a nod from Wade in years gone by was quite an accomplishment. Wade simply didn't believe second-year men could be trusted in important games.

Of course, he made a few exceptions. He allowed Ace Parker to play regularly and he saw greatness in Johnny Mack Brown as a sophomore when Wade was guiding Alabama to football prestige.

Usually, however, sophomores under Wade simply padded out his squad. Even the dazzling George McAfee was a bench-warmer de luxe his sophomore year at Duke.

But in Cox, Friedlund and Mounie Wade has relaxed his anti-sophomore rule, partly because of necessity and partly because the boys are just good football players.

Cox is the best of the trio, as Navy Coach George Sauer, who saw all three romp over his hapless Middies last Saturday, will attest.

The 19-year-old Mount Airy, N. C., speedster raced 61 yards for a touchdown against Navy. In addition, he completed 5 of 11 passes and played more than the regular tailback, Freddie Folger, who was supposed to have been injured.

Cox averaged 7.1 yards per clip for each of the 15 times he carried the ball against the Sailors. He and Sophomore Friedlund were responsible for 161 of the 214 yards the Blue Devils moved on the ground against Duke.

Mounie spelled Paul Stephanz at fullback. He carried the ball only five times, but averaged 3 yards a lick, which is just about what the fullback is expected to do under Wade's blasting single-wing system.

Maryland, thinking it had only Folger to shackle to stop Duke, is now faced with the task of halting Cox, Friedlund and Mounie.

But the Terps won't be on the defensive all afternoon and in Johnny Idzik the Terps think they have a sophomore who will cause Duke trouble, too.

Turner Joins Casey Stengel

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—Jim (Milkman) Turner, manager of the Portland Club in the Pacific Coast League for the past two seasons, was named today as a coach of the New York Yankees under their new manager, Casey Stengel.

Turner will replace John Corriden of the Yankee coaching staff. No announcement was made concerning the status of Charley Dressen, John Schulte and Frank Crosetti, the other Yankee coaches who served under Bucky Harris, recently dismissed as Yankee pilot.

Turner, a "veteran rookie" when he first broke into major league baseball in 1937, is 44 years old. He pitched for the Boston Braves when Stengel managed that club in 1938 and 1939 and for the Yankees from 1942 to 1945.

Picks 18 for 20

GAO Lawyer Wins 1st Football Contest

JAMES G. TIMLIN, an attorney in the General Accounting Office, will be forever grateful to a coworker who dashed to The Washington Post just before the deadline for last week's first football contest.

Timlin's entry, in which he picked 18 of 20 winners and a 19-6 score in favor of Army over Illinois, yesterday was judged tops.

The Washington Post
JAMES G. TIMLIN
. . . 'I was inspired' . . .

Thus Timlin, who lives with his wife, Jean, at 740 N. Monroe st., Arlington, Va., becomes this season's first contestant to win the coveted all-expense trip for two to the Army-Navy game at Philadelphia, November 27.

In addition, Timlin yesterday received four reserved tickets to the Maryland-Duke game at Griffith Stadium Saturday.

THE ENTHUSIASTIC 38-year-old lawyer promptly said his guests would be Mr. and Mrs. John Dills. It was Dills, fellow attorney, who brought over the entries from the GAO while on lunch hour.

Timlin, an avid sports fan, revealed that he disdains use of cold, legalistic logic when he studies the list of games in The Washington Post.

"I think I was just inspired," he chuckled as he explained his winning selections. It was truly great inspiration that enabled him to predict George Washington's stunning upset over Virginia and Missouri's victory over Southern Methodist.

Timlin, who attended St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia and has a brother living there, plans to take his wife to the Army-Navy game where both will be guests of The Washington Post.

CLOSE SECOND to Timlin was Allen W. Fritz, 28, 1431 Somerset pl. nw., who turned out to be the "best loser" any contest ever had.

Fritz, a laboratory mechanic at the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, White Oak, Md., also selected 18 winners but he predicted a 14-0 Army victory.

He refused to be disheartened and admitted that he was afraid his Army score was too far off. "I'd just like to say it's a swell idea for The Post to run this contest for football students. I'll be in every week."

Fritz's only two losses were the GW and Missouri upsets. Timlin, the winner, picked those games correctly but lost on Dartmouth's victory over Holy Cross and California's triumph over Wisconsin.

DON'T FORGET, football fans, the list of games in each weekly contest appear in The Washington Post sports section on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Submit your entries before 4 p. m. each Friday.

And, to keep abreast of the latest football developments, turn to the sports pages of The Washington Post every day. It will aid you in analyzing the chances of the teams in the big contest that each week rewards the winner with an all-expense trip for two to the Army-Navy game and four tickets to an outstanding professional or collegiate game in the area.

Zaharias Sets Another Mark

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 13 (U.P.).—Mildred Didrickson Zaharias set a new River Crest Country Club course record for the second consecutive day as she whipped Beverly Hanson in the Texas Women's Open golf tournament today, 5 and 4.

Their match ended on the 14th green, but "The Babe" and Miss Hanson of Fargo, N. Dak., played it out through 18. Mrs. Zaharias wound up with a 36, 32—68. That was two strokes under men's par, seven under women's par, and two under the River Crest women's record set by Mrs. Zaharias in the first round of this tournament yesterday.

Patty Berg of Minneapolis equalled the old course record of 70 in knocking out Mrs. J. I. Stevenson of Fort Worth, 7 and 5.

Hoyas, Tulsa Both Seeking First Victory

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Tulsa's Golden Hurricane hasn't been particularly violent thus far this football season, but Georgetown's coaches are posting storm warnings.

Both teams will be seeking their first triumph when they line up for the opening kickoff Saturday in Tulsa's Skelly Stadium. But neither is a run of the mill loser.

Jack Hagerty's Hoyas weren't as bad against Holy Cross as the 18-7 score indicates and the 13-6 game with Boston College ended with Georgetown only a foot and one play away from a possible tie.

Tulsa's luck has been running the same—all bad. In losing three games, the charges of Buddy Brothers have compiled more points than many winners. And they've been outscored principally on long runs.

Strong Baylor applied a 42-19 crusher in Tulsa's opener and since has lost to Florida, 28-14, and Texas Tech, 41-20.

Backfield Coach Mike Palm and End Coach George Murtagh, should have lost it. Florida won and both believe that Tulsa never should have lost it. Fleirda won on two long end runs, a long punt return and an intercepted pass. And the high-scoring Tulsa machine sputtered three times within striking distance.

Said Murtagh, "As long as Tulsa has Jim Finks to pass and Jimmy Ford to carry that ball, it will be plenty dangerous."

But the big reason Georgetown has a healthy respect for its Oklahoma opponent, is that the squad realize Tulsa will be out to avenge last ye. 's upset.

The Hoyas went into that game after a dismal 16-0 loss against St. Louis University and Tulsa was an overconfident heavy favorite. Georgetown caught the boys

Duke-Terp Clash May Set College Mark Here

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

More than 120,000 customers will sit in on four football games in the Washington area this weekend.

Griffith Stadium will get the bulk of the business with three tilts to be played in the Nat ball park, beginning with Friday night's George Washington-Kansas scrap.

Colonial officials anticipate a turnout of 20,000 for the night battle. The Southern Conference tussle between unbeaten Maryland and unbeaten Duke at the Stadium Saturday is expected to be witnessed by 30,000, which would constitute the largest crowd to see a college game in Washington in 15 years.

35,000 For 'Skins

On Sunday, the Redskins bring their show back to Griffith Stadium where 35,000 will look in on the 'Skin-Philadelphia Eagles contest.

Thrice-beaten Navy returns to Baltimore's Babe Ruth Stadium to tackle mighty Missouri, and indications are that 35,000 will be on hand to see if the Middies can trip the club which last Saturday upset S.M.U.

The advance sale for the George Washington-Kansas game Friday was negligible until last Saturday, but the Colonials' amazing victory over 28-point favored Virginia precipitated a brisk business at the box office.

26,000 Tops So Far

With no World Series broadcast to contend with and fair weather, Maryland people are confident that the Terp home-coming with Duke will be played before 30,000.

The George Washington-Alabama scrap in 1933 drew 26,000 customers, high-mark for college attendance to date. Over 30,000 tickets were sold for the Maryland-North Carolina game last November at Griffith Stadium, but a bitter day, the worst for football all season, held the crowd down to 23,000.

Bill Cobey, graduate manager of athletics at Maryland, yesterday reported the demand for tickets for the Duke game is heavier "than any I can recall for a Maryland home game."

Mel Allen, World Series Broadcaster, Very Ill

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—Sports Announcer Mel Allen, who broadcast the World Series with Jim Britt of Boston, is seriously ill here, the Mutual Broadcasting System reported today.

He is being treated for virus pneumonia, laryngitis and a high fever. Allen lives in Riverdale, N. Y.

Where to Obtain Terp, GW Tickets

Tickets for the George Washington-Kansas game at Griffith Stadium Friday night may be purchased at Lisner Auditorium (GW campus) and Griffith Stadium.

Tickets for the Duke-Maryland contest at Griffith Stadium Saturday are on sale at Griffith Stadium, Ritchie Coliseum (Maryland U.), Fairway Sports Shop (1400 G st. nw.) and Bethesda Sports Mart, 7012 Wisconsin ave., Chevy Chase.

Eagles Have No 'Name' Rookie This Year; Thompson, Van Buren & Co. Good Enough

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

In contrast to other teams in the National Football League, the Philadelphia Eagles will be without a single "big name" rookie when they line up against the Redskins at Griffith Stadium Sunday . . . The Eagles, as a matter of fact, will use exactly the same offensive backfield combination that has done the heavy work while the Quaker City lads were whipping Washington in three out of four meetings over the past two years . . . And why not? . . . That quartet consists of Quarterback Tommy Thompson, Halfbacks Steve Van Buren and Bosh Pritchard, and Fullback Joe Muha.

Thompson, the former Tulsa ace, now leads the N. F. L. in passing with 37 completions in 69 tries, good for 496 yards and 7 touchdowns . . . Van Buren is supposedly "off" so far this year, with only 123 yards in 49 trips along the ground, but the slack is being taken up by the former Virginia Military Institute stars, Pritchard and Muha . . . Pritchard alone has gained 158 yards in 33 times running.

The Eagles, despite their all-even record of a victory, a loss and a tie in three games, will be favored over Washington but the local faithful needn't give up hope . . . They've still got Slingin' Sammy Baugh and a lot of good guys to do the catching . . . Philadelphia banks mostly on Pete Pihos, a converted fullback, whose pass-snagging from the end position has accounted for four touchdowns and a total of 228 yards . . . Against the dependable place kicking of Dick Poillon, the Eagles pit Cliff Patton who has booted 12 straight extra points and a field goal so far this season.

Airmailed from the Redskin office yesterday was a movie film container, addressed to "Mr. Bert Bell, Commissioner, National Football League, Philadelphia, Pa." . . . Would that be films of Sunday's Redskin-Steeler game in Pittsburgh, with a gentle suggestion that the big boss take a look? . . . A Redskin spokesman said no protest, official or otherwise, was planned . . . But Redskin fans could find reason to protest over one of the three straight field goal attempts by Joe Glamp, the last beating the 'Skins, 10-7 . . . A member of the Redskins was called offside, but through the eye of the camera as it was focused along the 10-yard line the culprit can't be found.

Against the Eagles, in the last 11 years, the 'Skins have won 13 and dropped six . . . They whipped the Philadelphians 12 times in a row from 1937 to 1944 . . . Among the highlights of the series are Davey O'Brien's completion of 33 out of 60 passes in 1940, Joe Aguirre's five unsuccessful extra point attempts as Washington had to settle for a 31-31 tie in '44, Baugh's five touchdown passes last year as the Eagles won 45-42, and Pihos' block of a Baugh punt and dash for a touchdown in the second game, leading to a 38-14 Eagle triumph . . . They're still picking pieces of the ball off Pihos' chest . . . The Eagles and Redskins have twice swapped kickoff runbacks for touchdowns . . . in '42 Pritchard went 97 yards and Ray Hare went 95 . . . Last year it was Van Buren and Eddie Saenz, both returning 94 yards.

REPEATING — Harry Gilmer, still in Georgetown Hospital with inflammation of his injured leg, will NOT be in a Redskin uniform Sunday.

Cuyler Replaces Ousted Del Baker

Boston, Oct. 13 (AP).—Appointment of Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler to replace Del Baker as a Red Sox coach was reported today by the Boston American League Club. The Sox office said Manager Joe McCarthy made the announcement by telephone from his Buffalo, N. Y. home.

No reason was given for the announced resignation of Baker

At San Antonio, Tex., Baker said today that he had not resigned as coach of the Boston Red Sox, but was notified earlier today of his dismissal in a telephone conversation with Joe Cronin, general manager of the Boston American League Club.

Two Jockeys Injured in Early Races

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., Oct. 13.—A pair of colts with tongue-twisting names—E. P. Taylor's Illuminable and Grandview Stables' Razzmatazz—showed their legs were not tangled here today and won the two divisions of the Mount Vernon Purse.

Illuminable, a New York campaigner last summer, won the first of the sprints for 2-year-olds under the guidance of Jockey Henri Mora. The son of Sun Again drove into the finish line three parts of a length in advance of Mrs. Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Bahram with W. C. Ensor's Olecrannon third in the group of eight.

Razzmatazz, here after showing his wares in New Jersey, took the second half, Jockey Jimmy Stout coasting him into the wire five lengths ahead of C. E. Tuttle's Double Brandy, with Sandy Strand Stable's Streak of Dawn third among the eight starters.

Razzmatazz's Time Better

Razzmatazz had the much better time, being clocked in 1:12 1-5 for the three quarters, the best time of the meeting over the made-over strip. Illuminable turned in time of 1:13 2-5.

Also in Razzmatazz's favor was the payoff. The black colt returned a $10.20 mutuel, while the chestnut youngster was a $4.20 favorite.

Both juveniles went to the front at approximately the same point—the far turn. Illuminable had to displace Cockofthewalk and Olecrannon to take command while Razzmatazz assumed the lead when Streak of Dawn faltered.

The best midweek crowd of the meeting—12,959—saw the program conducted under ideal conditions—fast track, sunny skies and comfortable temperature.

Jockey Jimmy Penrod was painfully injured in the day's steeplechase when he fell with H. T. Talbott's Zadoc at the eleventh fence. The veteran was rushed to the Prince Georges Hospital, where it was reported he had concussions and abrasions, including a badly lacerated lower lip.

Jockey Pierson Also Hurt

Victory in the jumping event went to Mrs. C. E. Adams' Gift of Gold, ridden by her son, F. D. Adams. The $9.40 shot led G. H. Bostwick's Gunboats to the wire, with Mrs. F. S. Hammer, jr.'s, Merchantman third in the test of about two miles over 13 fences.

Jocke N. L. Pierson also was injured during the day. He rode Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Sagittarius in the fourth race and hurt his right hand while the horses were in the starting gate. X-rays will be taken to determine whether there is a break.

Jockey Mora was the winner of this test of a mile and a sixteenth, booting home S. A. Mason 2d's Miss Dow at a $17.20 payoff.

The day's monetary peak was reached in the daily double, which paid $541.20 for the usual deuce investment on the 12-7 combination. L. J. Lepper's Lady Hairan put the finishing touches on the big return by winning the second even at $14.40 after C. H. Hanford's Liberty Babe won the first at $22.40.

Missouri Seeks Revenge Against Navy Coach Sauer

His Kansas Teams Won In '46, '47

Kansas City, Oct. 13 (AP).—Missouri's Tigers will have at least a couple of stanch reasons for wanting to knock off Navy in their intersectional football game at Baltimore Saturday.

First, the Tigers would like to regain some of their prestige lost when they were whipped, 21-7, by Ohio State in their first appearance of the season east of the Mississippi River.

Second, the Missourians—from Coach Don Faurot down to the water boy—figure a victory over the Middies would be some sort of revenge for lickings handed them by a George Sauer-coached team. Kansas, under Sauer's coaching, beat Missouri in 1946 and last year.

Sauer is now head coach at Navy. It will be the first time Missouri has met Navy.

Faurot was concerned today over getting his squad "up" again after its remarkable performance in beating Southern Methodist last week. He also was confronted by the possibility of losing regular Tackle Dick Scholfield for the Navy game. Scholfield was injured in the S.M.U. game.

McCully Dons Hawkins' Britches in Navy Drill

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 13 (AP).—Navy's thrice-beaten football team held a full-dress scrimmage against the junior varsity tonight in preparation for Saturday's clash with mighty Missouri.

The test against Missouri plays put on by the Jayvees gave one-time Right Halfback Al McCully a chance to try on fullback britches.

McCully is moving into the fullback spot vacated by Bill Hawkins, Navy's leading ball carrier, who was hospitalized yesterday with a throat ailment that may keep him sidelined for four games.

Kansas Will Be Sauer's Guest at Missouri Game

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 13 (AP).—Navy Coach George Sauer, former Kansas coach, will meet old friends Saturday when the 60-man Kansas football squad sees the Navy-Missouri football game in Baltimore.

The Naval Academy said today that the Kansas players, who meet George Washington Friday night in Washington, will be guests of Navy at the Missouri game.

McCoy Pins Baxter In Turner Mat Feature

Bibber McCoy defeated Laverne Baxter in 17 minutes with a body press in the feature wrestling match at Turner's Arena last night.

Other results—Golden Superman won from Fred Corona; Dutch Schweigel and Francoia Miquette won the team match from Babe Sharkey and Hans Kemper, and Jesse James threw Mike Collins.

Wasco Bullets Top Maryland Mohawks

The Wesco Bullets scored a 7-0 victory over the Maryland Mohawks in a 160-pound Alexandria Night Football League game last night at Alexandria Municipal Stadium.

Two Horse Shows This Weekend

The SPCA Hunter Show, scheduled for Saturday at the Glenwood Race Course, Middleburg, Va., and the Marlboro Fair Horse Show listed for Sunday at the Marlboro Fair Grounds, Upper Marlboro, Md., are the only equine events beckoning local exhibitors this weekend.

The SPCA Hunter show will begin its fifth annual renewal at 9:30 a. m.

The Marlboro Fair show is scheduled to begin at 10 a. m.

R-M Primes For Catholic

Ashland, Va., Oct. 13.—The Randolph-Macon sick list may be the key to the Yellow Jackets' fortunes this Saturday against the visiting Catholic University team.

Three first stringers remain in a questionable status today, and Coach Taylor Sanford believes he'll need them all to put up a decent showing against the Cardinals.

The three, all of whom missed the Guilford game last week, are Capt. "Jeep" Phelps, quarterback; Ken Holloway, the Yellow Jackets' star halfback, and Marvin Garbett, guard. Sanford hopes to have all of them see at least some action on Saturday. However, one of his first line backfield reserves, Bill Peake, broke his nose in Monday's drills, and will definitely be out of the Cardinal game.

Scouts watching the Catholic U. against Western Maryland last week reported the sad news to Sanford that the Cardinals will be much tougher than they were last year when Randolph-Macon scored a neasy 33-0 victory.

That, and his sick list, plus the fact that the Yellow Jackets haven't been able to get rolling this year with only one win in three tries, adds up to a rough weekend for Coach Sanford.

off balance and, playing their finest game of the year, dropped them, 12-0.

The Hoyas undoubtedly will be severely handicapped by the loss of Babe Baranowski, out for the season after fracturing his collarbone in a scrimmage Monday. But the Babe was hurt before the Tulsa game last year and Georgetown won without him.

Billy Conn, sensational sophomore breakaway runner, should be dazzling against a defense vulnerable for ball-carriers who know how to run when they get past the line of scrimmage. Other Hoya backs who should go include Elmer Raba, Soph Dick Barba, Fullback Jack O'Connor, who will be back after missing the B.C. game, Connie O'Doherty, Johnny Hughes and Bill Mitchell.

Georgetown's inspirational play against Boston College was due to a large extent to the leadership of Center Vic Banonis, who was elected permanent captain before the game.

Banonis will be leading a Georgetown forward wall that found itself against B.C. and its main stalwart should be big Jim Ricca, 240-pound guard, who was the outstanding lineman against the Eagles.

Landon J. V. Wins

Behind a line which opened gaping holes in the St. James J. V. forward wall, the Landon Jayvees tore through for seven touchdowns and a 46-0 victory yesterday on their home field.

One Man's Opinion

Navy, Terps, GW Underdogs; Northwestern Over Michigan

By Steve Snider

New York, Oct. 13 (U.P.).—The game of the week is Northwestern at Michigan and a hunch says Michigan will win it.

Northwestern has beaten UCLA, Purdue and Minnesota. But the Big Ten's defending champion Wolverines are at full strength for the first time this season and nobody knows yet how good they really are.

They can be mighty rough, according to last week's 40-to-0 victory over a Purdue club that lost to Notre Dame by a single point. Northwestern, however, thumped Purdue by three touchdowns and the big showdown at Ann Arbor, Mich., this week must be decided in advance on a hunch and on the field by the breaks.

Elsewhere around the Nation:

EAST

Army over Harvard—The Cadets have the ground attack to shatter a weak defense.

Pennsylvania over Columbia—Sturdy line stops a slick offense.

Missouri over Navy—A real tight one.

Also: Villanova over Boston College, Kansas over George Washington, Boston U. over Temple, Dartmouth over Colgate, Wake Forest over Duquesne, Brown over Holy Cross, Muhlenburg over Lafayette, Penn State over West Virginia, Pittsburgh over Marquette, Rutgers over Princeton, Cornell over Syracuse.

MIDWEST

Minnesota over Illinois—But Minnesota will have to patch its pass defense.

Indiana over Ohio State—Taliaferro is the difference.

Wisconsin over Yale—It figures about even.

Also: Iowa over Purdue, Notre Dame over Nebraska, Michigan State over Arizona, Iowa State over Colorado, Oklahoma over Kansas State, Detroit over Miami.

SOUTHWEST

Southern Methodist over Rice—Walker and Gil Johnson on the rebound.

Arkansas over Texas—close, but Arkansas has the punch.

Texas Christian over Texas A. and M.—easy.

Also: Baylor over Texas Tech, New Mexico over Hardin-Simmons, Texas Mines over Brigham Young, Tulsa over Georgetown.

California over Oregon State—with power plus.

Southern California over Oregon—with power plus.

Washington over Washington State—by 6 points.

Also: UCLA over Stanford, Santa Clara over Loyola, Oklahoma A. and M. over San Francisco, Montana over Montana State, Wyoming over Colorado A. and M., Idaho State over Colorado State, and Utah over Denver.

SOUTH

Georgia Tech over Auburn—not so tough.

Vanderbilt over Kentucky—a bright one for Vandy.

Also: Alabama over Tennessee, Mississippi over Tulane, Duke over Maryland, North Carolina over North Carolina State, Mississippi State over Cincinnati, Florida over Rollins, William and Mary over Virginia Tech, VMI over Richmond, Davidson over Citadel, Virgina over Washington and Lee.

Shorey Beaten In Baltimore

Baltimore, Oct. 13 (AP). — Mel Shorey, Indian Spring Country Club professional and Washington's lone representative in the Baltimore Open match play, got as far as the second round today at the Green Spring Valley Hunt Club before losing out to Jimmy Flattery of Forest Park, 3 and 1.

The field was cut to eight—including defending champion Ralph Beach.

Beach, veteran Suburban Club professional, defeated Jimmy Duke of Bonnie View, 2 and 1, in the morning and came back in the afternoon to upset Otto Greiner, defending champion from the Woodholme Club, by a 3 and 1 margin in the afternoon.

Meet at Norfolk

Methodists To Get 4-Year Plan Outline

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 13 (AP).—The new four-year program of the Methodist Church, "Advance for Christ and His Church," will be outlined to the Virginia Methodist Conference at its annual sessions, which opened here tonight.

Delegates gave their attention tonight to reelection of secretaries, nomination of committees and general organization. Actual business will begin Thursday with reports of district superintendents.

Various phases of the church's new program will be explained by the conference board of missions and church extension, board of evangelism, board of education, committee for overseas relief and the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

Delegates will be told of a campaign, sponsored by the Virginia conference board of lay activities, to increase the circulation of the Virginia Methodist Advocate from its current 12,000 to 20,000, which would be the largest in the publication's 100-year history. The circulation campaign will be conducted November 14-30.

The conference will be asked to increase its benevolences by one third. It's benevolencies last year totaled $375,856.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13 (AP).—The 576 delegates to the sixteenth biennial convention of the United Lutheran Church in America voted today a $10,051,180 budget for 1950 and 1951 but turned down a proposal to increase the 1949 budget by $1,500,000.

The approved budget of $4,830,900 for 1950 and $5,220,280 for 1951 was the largest in the organization's 30-year history.

The proposal to boost the 1949 budget of three million dollars—approved in the 1946 convention at Cleveland—came from Ernest P. Scott, lay delegate and Cleveland businessman.

But there was immediate argumen against setting a flat increase of $1,500,000 and the Rev. Henry H. Bagger of Lancaster, Pa., offered a substitute amendment asking:

"Permit the three-million-dollar 1949 apportionment to stand but challenge the synods to overpay their apportionment by at least the extent of their 1948 achievement."

After nearly two hours of debate, the delegates accepted Dr. Bagger's proposal.

The delegates wind up their nine-day convention Thursday.

Merger Receptiveness Viewed as Step Forward

Fremont, Ohio, Oct. 13 (AP).—A unified Lutheran Church in America moved closer to reality today when the American Lutheran Church announced it was receptive to merger negotiations with four of the six other major branches.

Church leaders were quick to point out, however, that a Lutheran Church mergere is not just around the corner.

Cleric Quits As Protest

firming the Government's stand against selling, or otherwise providing, sites in the Prince Georges County town for erection of permanent church edifices.

The PHA said the Government could not give or provide land under special concessions to the churches because of Supreme Court decisions outlawing Government aid to religion, and selling them small tracts was out, it added, because of a proposal to sell the town in its entirety.

Since the town was completed in 1937, Protestant and Jewish groups have been using the gymnasium-auditorium of the school, and Catholics the town theater. An interfaith committee has been formed to fight the PHA decision.

Mr. Braund, a former naval chaplain who served with Admiral Halsey's fleet during World War II, asserted the churches were asking no concessions, but only to buy the needed sites from the Government at a reasonable price.

U. S. Campaigning To Curb Mice in Apple Orchards

By The Associated Press

Government men are trying to upset some of the best-laid plans of mice in Virginia and West Virginia apple orchards.

The mice, of the meadow and pine species, have been doing serious damage by girdling and killing apple trees.

Defeating the tree-killing plans of the mice is largely dependent on poisons, said an Interior Department official. Formulas newly developed in the department's Denver laboratory are being applied this week.

Don Spencer, field biologist, has come East to make the poison tests and other studies. He is working out of Charleston, W. Va., in various apple orchards, including some owned by Senator Byrd (D., Va.).

State Aide to Speak

Dr. Alberto H. Vasquez of the State Department's Office of International Information and Cultural Affairs, will discuss "Impression on Europeans by the Discovery of the New World," at a meeting of the Club de las Americas. The group will meet at 8 p. m. today in Room 2631 of the Department of Commerce Building, 14th and E sts. nw.

Another Feat for Monks Seen Possible in Atomic Ruins

That a handful of monks might bring back civilization to an atom-devastated world, just as they did after the fall of the Roman Empire, was suggested last night.

Dr. O'Connor

The possibility was suggested by Dr. John J. O'Connor, professor of history at Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service.

He was one of three speakers at the opening meeting of the Catholic Institute of Washington's adult education course for Catholics in St. Patrick's Hall, 10th and G sts. nw.

After tracing the collapse of the Roman Empire before barbarians, the history of St. Benedict and the rise of monasticism, Prof. O'Connor said "we are living in an age of barbarism today.

"People are a little scared and frightened, just as they were then. But the testimony of history—of St. Benedict—is that a few monks survived.

"It may be that even if Europe and the United States are wiped out, that a handful of Benedictines working in the wilds of East Africa may bring civilization back to the world."

Two hundred persons attended the meeting at which the Very Rev. Francis J. Connell, C.SS.R., S.T.D, professor of moral theology at Catholic University and rector of Holy Redeemer College, and the Rev. Father Sebastian Miklas, O.F.M., Cap., professor of theology Capuchin College, and lecturer in economics, Catholic University, also spoke.

Father Sebastian, Institute director, said the purpose of the course was threefold: to offer moral guidance, church information, and inspiration.

Father Connell, speaking on the problem of good and evil, said "moral theology is a real science, a matter of logic, reason and thought."

Declaring that the first answer to what makes people bad is that "they want to be bad," he said "the whole structure of society is built on the doctrine of freedom of will."

The three educators will speak again at the second meeting of the series at 7:30 p. m. next Wednesday.

Company Loses Suit to Get Arlington Incinerator Job

A suit to force the Arlington County board to change its award of an incinerator construction contract was tossed out of Arlington Circuit Court yesterday.

In dismissing the petition, Judge Walter T. McCarthy observed that "interference of one branch of the Government with the other ought to be exercised only in the clearest, most pertinent cases."

Oren R. Lewis, attorney for the Morse Boulger Construction Co. of New York, which brought the suit, said he would move to have the judgment set aside.

October 19 was set as the date for the court to hear his motion. If it is denied, Lewis said, he will appeal to the Virginia State Supreme Court of Appeals.

Morse Boulger's low bid of $628,843 to build the Arlington incinerator was rejected by the county board in favor of a $646,575 estimate by the Nichols Engineering & Research Corp. of New York.

One point of contention in the long, six-day Circuit Court hearing was the plaintiff's statement that the county board had been "fraudulently" misled on merits of the two bids before it made its award.

Bid specifications were set up by the Alexander Potter Associates of New York, a firm of consulting engineers, which advised the county board to accept the Nichols bid.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

UPWA Is Reported Taking Steps to Leave Federal Employe Field

UPWA: At the "suggestion" of top CIO officials, this left-wing union is reported to be taking definite steps to get out of the Federal employe field. It's a cinch that any new strictly Federal employe union in the CIO would be an aggressive but right-wing group. Every single one of the extreme left-wingers would be purged in the housecleaning.

Since it was formed more than two years ago, the Communist-line United Public Workers has repeatedly embarrassed the CIO and many of its members. The big blow came last week when the Atomic Energy Commission blacklisted the union, and now several other agencies are debating similar action.

The union's Communist-line policies have lost it thousands of Federal members. However, it claims about 15,000 members in the strategic Panama Canal Zone. Now it's reported to be rapidly losing members there because of an expose of its Communist leanings. After the planned split-up, the union apparently would continue to operate among State, county, and city employes.

STORY: The Civil Service Commission has been asked to hold an open competitive examination for rubber stamp maker. It has rejected the suggestion. The commission doesn't always have a good sense of public relations, but its decision here was a wise one indeed.

DECISION: A decision in the United States Court of Appeals here the other day could have the effect of doubling the work of the Government's many administrative agencies if it's upheld by the Supreme Court.

The court held that the Federal Communications Commission should grant a hearing to radio stations when they claim the issuance of other licenses would injure them. The case was brought by WJR, a Detroit station.

In a minority opinion, two of the five justices declared that "extensive revision of the rules of administrative agencies would be required" if the majority opinion is upheld. An FCC official said that considerably more personnel and possibly even more commissioners would be needed if the decision becomes the law. FCC now dismisses such petitions.

LOYALTY: Stories of employes who are the victims of apparent dirty deals under a loyalty program are becoming more numerous.

Today's story concerns a high-placed employe in one of the "sensitive" agencies, which has its own loyalty program. This person had the misfortune to have a name similar to that of another person who deserted the Army during the First World War and who was a Communist dupe.

The original report on the employe's loyalty carried these charges, which ordinarily would have been enough to get him fired with no questions asked. But it was clearly a mix-up since he was only a young kid at the time he was charged with deserting the Army.

The report was returned to the investigators, who leisurely corrected it. You'd think, of course, that the investigators would apologize for their terrible error. Instead, they are hounding the poor guy and his friends and neighbors; they seem determined to get something on him.

NOTES: Dr. Newbern Smith has been appointed chief of the Central Radio Propagation Laboratory at the National Bureau of Standards. He succeeds Dr. J. H. Bellinger, who retired . . . Leo L. Miller is the fair employment officer at Federal Security . . . The AFL's American Federation of Government Employes, gained a net of 3000 new members in August and September . . . Mrs. Grace M. Stewart yesterday was sworn in as the executive assistant to the Attorney General, the first time a woman has held the post.

DEFENSE: An experiment is being tried in the nine Western States that could lead to abolition of both civilian and military jobs in the Army, Navy and Air Force.

The Office of National Defense has ordered the consolidation of the military's administrative operations in those States—activities such as recruiting, public relations, personnel, etc. Several strictly military operations also are being merged.

The plan is expected to bring about efficiency and economy in the three services. If that view proves to be correct, it will be extended to other areas, including this city.

RECLAMATION: Approximately 800 additional employes in Interior's Bureau of Reclamation will be fired, including a few in this city. The agency is in the process of firing 2882 workers on its projects in the Western States. The new cuts will wipe out a total of 3800 jobs.

A comptroller general's decision forces the agency to lay off the additional 800, its official explained. The agency had gone on the assumption that it could use trust funds to pay these workers. However, the comptroller says this would violate a congressional ceiling on salaries. The layoff is sure to become a political issue in the West.

EMPLOYMENT: The Federal payroll increased by 13,500 employes in the month of August. Only 838 of the new employes were hired in this city. The big increases were in Selective Service, Postoffice, Navy, Army, and Air Force. On September 1, Civil Service counted 2,113,777 Federal workers, of whom 208,276 were in this city.

Red Feather Campaigners Report Today

1949 Chest Workers Will Hear Hospital Heads at Second Luncheon Session

Greater Washington's 1949 Community Chest campaigners will hold their second general report meeting at 12:30 p. m. today at the Washington Hotel, to check on progress made to date toward the $4,566,790 Red Feather goal.

Contributions totaling $384,679.87, or 8.42 per cent of the Chest goal, were announced at the first general report meeting held Monday.

Speaker today will be Dr. James A. Gannon, former associate professor at Georgetown University, now a member of the District Board of Education and chairman of the District Medical Society's public relations committee.

Chiefs of fourteen hospitals which benefit from the Red Feather hospitalization fund have been invited to attend the luncheon. The fund, scheduled to get $850,000 from the 1949 Chest, pays the hospital bills of needy patients certified by the Hospital Service Agency.

Yesterday, Film Star Linda Darnell, a volunteer in the USO Veterans Camp Shows, visited Walter Reed Hospital to chat with patients. The Camp Show group is the only branch of the newly reactivated United Service Organization, a Red Feather agency, which has been operating continuously since the war.

Citizens Unit Plans Survey On Bus Need

Members of the Chillum Castle Manor Citizens Association last night considered how they can best convince the Capital Transit Co. it should extend its K-4 bus route on New Hampshire ave. ne.

The association has asked Capital Transit to extend the line at least to Eastern ave. and the District Line. At present, the line terminates at New Hampshire ave. and Kennedy st. nw.

It was voted to conduct a survey in the neighborhood to find how many persons use the extended bus service and also to urge Maryland citizens associations to join in the request. Members of the Maryland associations involved will be invited to attend the next meeting.

The association, meeting at the Eastern Star Masonic Home, New Hampshire ave. and Peabody st. ne., also took up the questions of police protection, school population and the need for more fire boxes.

Rhode Island Avenue

The Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association last night voted $25 to help defray expenses of the community's annual Halloween party to be held this year on October 29.

Dr. R. R. Ashworth, director of the District Health Department's food inspection, discussed improvement of food inspection techniques here during the past 20 years he has been in the department.

The association admitted nine new members at last night's meeting 2004 Rhode Island ave. ne.

Princeton Club to Meet

Members of the Princeton Club, meeting at 12:30 p. m. today in the Congressional Room of the Willard Hotel, will hear David Lawrence, editor of U. S. News and World Report, deliver an off-the-record interpretation of the current political campaigns. The meeting, first of the fall, will be conducted by Judge J. Edgar Murdock, president.

Poliomyelitis Affects Two More Here

Two new cases of poliomyelitis were reported yesterday by the District Health Department, bringing the number so far this year to 208, compared with 47 at the same time last year.

The District so far this year has had 110 cases of poliomyelitis, compared with 19 for the same period of 1947.

Cases reported yesterday were a 15-month-old girl from the 4600 block of Sheriff rd. ne., under treatment at Children's Hospital, and a 14-year-old boy from the 700 block of Kenneth ave., Takoma Park, Md., who is being treated at Gallinger Hospital.

Wright Airplane Due in U. S. From England Nov. 12

London, Oct. 13.—Orville Wright's famous Kitty Hawk plane, which made its historic first flight in 1903, will be shipped to the United States aboard the Mauretania, and is scheduled to arrive in New York November 12, the Ministry of Education announced today.

It was agreed some time ago to return the plane to the United States, in accordance with the wishes of Wright, who died last January.

The Kitty Hawk, first power-driven aircraft to carry man in a free, controlled and sustained flight, has been on view at the Science Museum in London since 1928.

3 Downtown Parking Plans Being Drawn in Philadelphia

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 13.—This city has plans on the drawing boards for three major downtown parking projects to cope with an estimated need for 18,000 additional car spaces.

The three are:

1. Reyburn Plaza—a block of tree-studded park land adjoining the city hall area which has been marked as the site of a two-level underground parking garage with facilities for 1000 cars. The project, whose cost is estimated at three million dollars, was tabled by city officials after declarations that private capital should be used, rather than municipal cash.

2. "The Chinese wall"—a 15-block-long area now connecting the 30th st. railroad station with the Broad st. suburban station and running right through the downtown area. The name is derived from the high stone wall used to support the tracks. Plans call for use of State funds to raze the wall and tracks, but the project has been tabled by State officials in favor of more urgent needs.

National Park Plan

3. Independence Hall Mall — a plan for converting the historic area into a national park using $4,435,000 Federal funds to start. Present proposals include construction of a mammoth garage beneath the mall, but no actual acquisition of property is expected for another year. Several large office buildings in the area must be vacated and razed before the park can be established.

While these parking remedies are still off in the future, the Philadelphia Transportation Co., which operates the streetcar, bus and elevated lines here, is running two successful fringe lots catering to capacity crowds totaling 600 almost daily. The spots were inspected today by Charles T. McGavin, Washington motor vehicle parking agency official, as part of his tour of four Eastern cities.

Both lots are located about 6 miles from the downtown business section and are linked to the area by an elevated line running at three to five minute intervals. The charge is 35 cents for all-day parking with a free ride to and from for the driver of the car. The ride to town takes less than 20 minutes.

Probably Country's First

McGavin, who played an important part in the setting up of the District's two fringe lots, said that the PTC parking areas, opened in 1927, were probably the first in the country. Both are tar-topped, flood-lighted and open from 6 a. m. to midnight. A 20-cent charge is made for evening parking.

The Washington parking engineer also discussed land valuations and assessments in City Hall today. F. W. J. Lyness, member of the Board of Assessors, said that Philadelphia, just as Washington, is seriously concerned about decentralization—the movement of stores to outlying neighborhoods with a consequent loss in tax revenue.

Lyness strongly praised the Girard center project, visited by McGavin yesterday, as an important step in raising tax valuations in the store area in which it is located.

40 Cents a Day Cheapest

McGavin, obviously footsore, today completed a study of more than 100 parking lots and garages in the central city area, for his report on fees anad services offered. The highest rate charged was 40 cents for the first hour and 20 cents for each hour thereafter—a rate schedule topping Washington's highest. An all-day rate of 40 cents was the cheapest encountered.

Philadelphia parking lots operate under different conditions than in Washington. For the past 35 years, they have had to apply for city licenses, ranging in price from $5 to $50, depending on the number of car spaces. In 1939, an ordinance spelling out rules of conduct was enacted, giving the city's bureau of traffic engineering the power to close down uncooperative parking facilities by withdrawing the license.

In addition, parking lot operators began paying a 10 per cent tax on gross revenues about 12 years ago. This tax, which has been passed on to the consumer for the most part, is paid to the receiver of taxes as part of the city's general fund. Neither licensing nor a special tax is used in the District.

Accused of Abnormal Boosts

The operators were in the public eye during 1946 when the city imposed a parking ban on central city streets. Individuals and newspaper articles accused the parking men of "abnormal boosts" in fees as a result of the prohibition, as well as putting cars on sidewalks, and other malpractices. A drive was started by city officials and now complaints average about one to two a month, according to Robbert A. Mitchell, director of Bureau of Traffic Engineering.

Mitchell feels the central parking ban has been successful, particularly in speeding vehicles on Philadelphia's many narrow one-way streets. Other observers have declared that enforcement of no parking regulations is poor with the result that many shoppers attempt "park and run" tactics with a good chance of avoiding a ticket.

Tonight, the downtown area is packed with shoppers as the stores remain open in the evening. This practice of keeping stores open on Wednesdays from 11 a. m. to 9 p. m. has contributed partly to the reduction of the parking problem bringing suburbanites and daytime workers into the shopping area in the evening, rather than during the day. It also has helped the city retain its patronage in the face of neighborhood shopping area competition, officials believe.

Has New Agency

Philadelphia now has a new parking and traffic agency known as the Highway Traffic Board, headed by Walter T. Grosscup, executive vice president of Lit Brothers, large department store here. This group supercedes the former committee for the relief of traffic congestion, headed by Miller, and the mayor's Traffic Safety Board. Miller is secretary of the new group.

One of the group's first projects is the preparation of a report highlighting 13 sites in the downtown area suitable for erection of overhead parking. Under a recently-passed State law, Philadelphia has the power to erect parking facilities on municipally-owned ground and then lease them to private interests.

Man Is Killed As Auto Hits Bridge Base

A 23-year-old Prince Georges County man was killed instantly early yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a bridge abutment on Defense hwy., near the Anne Arundel County line.

Dead was James Coleman of Vista, Md., identified by police as a laborer.

Sergt. E. R. Thompson of the Hyattsville police substation, who came upon the scene shortly after the accident happened at 12:05 a. m., said Coleman apparently died of a fractured skull.

Francis S. Jones, 32, also of Vista, listed as driver of the car, was charged with manslaughter and reckless driving. He was held under $1000 bond for appearance October 25 in Hyattsville Police Court.

Group Seeks Bond Issue For Hospital

Million-Dollar Goal Is Set at Silver Spring; Campaign Slated

Promotion of a one-million-dollar bond issue to build a 200-bed hospital was voted last night by the Board of Construction trustees of the Silver Spring Memorial Hospital Association, Inc.

The State Legislature will be asked to authorize the bond issue, to be liquidated by a tax not to exceed 10 cents a $100 assessed valuation on property in the Thirteenth Election District of Montgomery County, excluding the incorporated towns of Kensington and Takoma Park.

The board also voted to begin a concerted drive in order to get indorsements of the issue from all organizations in the community before the request is made to the State delegation.

It will establish a speakers' bureau to enlighten the various groups on the hospital plan.

Federal funds will be sought under the Hill-Burton Act. It is hoped to obtain an allocation of $800,000. The association already has $200,000 in pledges and owns a 27-acre site at Forest Glen rd. and Sligo Creek pkwy.

Ralph D. Boyd, newly elected president, said: "It is hoped that a consolidation of the Suburban Hospital, Bethesda, and the Silver Spring Hospital can be reached. If not, we're going to proceed with construction of the Silver Spring Memorial Hospital, provided we receive enough public support.

The bond issue plan will not exclude the merger plan, under which the tax would be applied to the Seventh District and the town of Kensington.

Boyd further stated that if Suburban Hospital can produce a site equivalent to "ours," then the merger plan can be agreed upon.

The action was adopted unanimously. The meeting was in Silver Spring's Liquor Control Building.

Alexandria-N. Y. Red Cross Units Will Be Merged

To cut annual expenses approximately $750,000, the American Red Cross announced, yesterday that sometime next spring it will merge the North Atlantic Office in New York with its Eastern area headquarters in Alexandria, Va.

Basil O'Connor, president, said the merger will not affect work of field staffs operating under either of the area headquarters. The Virginia office serves Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia, West Virginia, and the District.

Pending consolidation, O'Connor said Harold B. Nearman, vice president-manager of the Alexandria office, will assume managership of the North Atlantic area Friday.

Drunken Driving on Increase In District, Keneipp Reports

Drunken driving in the District is increasing annually despite the don't-drink-while-driving educational campaigns, George E. Keneipp, District director of vehicles and traffic, said last night.

Keneipp spoke at a meeting of the Washington Chapter No. 3, National Sojourners, at the Masonic Temple, 801 13th st. nw.

Pointing out that 567 driver permits were revoked for drunken driving during the past fiscal year—approximately 20 per cent more than during the previous year—Keneipp said he is recommending the District Commissioners resubmit to Congress proposed legislation for blood and other tests in drunk driving cases.

Keneipp said, however, he proposes to eliminate a controversial provision making the tests compulsory, which helped block such a law in the last Congress. The proposed legislation, however, would enable courts to accept such tests in evidence without the necessity of establishing their reliability in each case, he said.

He also is recommending, he said, legislation to require District physicians to report epilepsy cases to the health department, which in turn would be required to report them to the traffic department for action in connection with driver license applications.

Rule on Parking Area With New Buildings Fought

1946 Numbers Case

High Court Looks Into 'Peek' Appeal

One of Washington's numbers cases, a two-year-old number, reached the august chambers of the Supreme Court yesterday.

The issue: whether a policeman is allowed to make an arrest after first getting evidence by peeking through a transom.

The case dates back to June 22, 1946, on which date Earl Hunter McDonald, 40, and Joseph F. Washington, 52, were arrested as numbers operators in a room at 1603 3d st. nw.

The case would have been no different than a hundred other numbers cases except that after their conviction McDonald and Washington appealed, alleging that their constitutional rights had been violated.

Not Very Gentlemanly

The United States Court of Appeals ruled against this argument, 2 to 1, although conceding the transom peeking wasn't very gentlemanly. So the appeal was carried to the Supreme Court with Defense Attorney Charles E. Ford arguing yesterday that:

1. The arresting officers had neither arrest nor search warrants and had been refused warrants by the United States Commissioner.

2. The officers forced their way into McDonald's rooming house without legal authority.

3. The arrests were based on unreasonable search and seizure.

The Government attorney, Frederick B. Wiener, conceded that the officers had trespassed in crawling through a bedroom window of the house, but he argued:

1. McDonald did not own the rooming house, so the trespass was not committeed against him.

Couldn't Protest Seizure

2. Washington could not protest the seizure of money, gambling slips and equipment since he did not own them.

3. The officers were entitled to seize criminal "instrumentalities" in plain view of a policeman who stood on a chair and looked through a transom into McDonald's locked room.

4. The seizure was incidental to the arrest of the men who were committing a crime in view of a law officer.

Ford, in his closing arguments for Washington and McDonald, said:

"To condone this conduct is to permit a police state. We ask officers to live under the law—please do not set yourself up as the law."

He argued that allowing police officers to make illegal entries into homes and then calling the subsequent arrests legal undermines the laws of the country.

Wiener maintained that looking through the transom was the same legally as looking from a window across the street.

He said no prespass is committed through the sense of sight.

Real Estate Men And Gen. Grant Ask Zoning Group to Reject Regulation

The District Zoning Commission yesterday was asked not to adopt a proposed regulation requiring off-street parking facilities for new construction.

The request came from representatives of real estate interests, and from Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant 3d, chairman of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and vice president of George Washington University.

The commission took the proposal under advisement, and announced that interested parties have two weeks in which to file briefs on the off-street parking and other zoning changes it considered yesterday.

Cost Increase Cited

Principal objection to the proposed parking regulation was that it would increase building costs, and might force real estate interests to shift operations out of the District.

Another type of objection was voiced by Alvin Aubinoe, representing the Home Builders of Metropolitan Washington. He said that patrons did not use parking accommodations he had provided at the Congressional Hotel.

General Grant asked the commission not to pass a regulation "that practically prohibits us from building any more buildings (at George Washington University) and doesn't solve the problem."

General Grant also objected to the regulation on the grounds that the scale it sets for number of parking spaces to a building is not accurate.

"The only people in hospitals who don't need parking spaces are the people in the beds," he said, adding that the proposal calls for one parking space for every three beds.

General Grant asked that action on the matter be postponed pending conferences with representatives of the Motor Vehicle Parking Agency.

The commission also heard a number of residents protest the proposal to end a wartime practice of permitting roomers and boarders in restricted "A" areas of the city. Most of those who testified yesterday said they felt that the housing shortage still exists to an extent that the approximately 4000 homes affected are needed for Washingtonians. Witnesses also said they believed the uncertain international situation made it unwise to change the regulatio nat the present time.

A letter from Representative Charles B. Deane (D., N. C.) urged that the rooming privileges be extended. The letter pointed out that many Government agencies are returning their offices to Washington, thus creating extra demands for housing.

L. A. Dorland Dies; Found Wounded In Parked Auto

Leslie A. Dorland, 53, of 2500 Ives st., S. Arlington, died yesterday at Emergency Hospital, nearly six days after he was found critically wounded in the head and abdomen in his car parked in a lot in the 1300 block of Maine ave. sw.

Dorland, who was head of the veal and lamb department of Armour & Co., 501 12th st. sw., was found at 8 a. m. last Friday by Comdr. Brewster Marshall, former assistant United States attorney of Franconia, Va.

According to police, Dorland was found with a .45-caliber gun on the car seat beside him.

Area News in Brief

Ex-Fireman Fined For Fire Alarm

Keith L. Bell, 36, a former fireman, was fined $100 in Municipal Court for turning in a false fire alarm early yesterday.

District firemen reported that during the night eight false alarms were made. A witness identified Bell as having turned in a box at 9th and G sts. nw. while engines were on their way to another false fire report at 6th and E sts. nw.

In another case, Alvin B. Fisher, 21-year-old deaf mute of 415 1st st. sw., was sent to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation after he was charged with turning in a false alarm at 11th st. and Maine ave. sw.

Bell, who resides at 321 13th st. ne., was identified by Charlie Goldie, a comedian at the Gayety Theater. Judge Gallagher dismissed a charge of drunkenness against Bell.

Bell was a fireman between 1936 and 1941, when he was inducted into the armed forces.

Upon his return from the service, he was denied reappointment in the Fire Department for "physical disability incurred not in the line of duty," it was said.

Guilty Plea Entered

George M. Brown, 26, of 1312 Corbin pl. ne., pleaded guilty yesterday to assault with intent to rape a 30-year-old feeble-minded woman. Judge Richmond B. Keech of District Court took the plea and ordered a probation office report in the case. Assistant United States Attorney John C. Conliff said there was no evidence of violence in the rape attempt.

Fire Drill Stirs Ire

Relations were not of the friendliest character for a few minutes yesterday between the Bethesda and Chevy Chase Fire Department as a result of a boner by a Bethesda firefighter.

At Chevy Chase Junior College, 6410 Connecticut ave., a fire drill was staged about 11 a. m.—purely routine. But bells started clanging in the Chevy Chase Fire Department and the smokeeaters were on their way.

When they arrived and were confronted with the facts, Chief Edwin J. Sackett of the Chevy Chase department, was muttering unprintables under his breath.

The college officials had notified Bethesda it was only a fire drill, but someone at Bethesda had forgot to notify Chevy Chase.

Two Held in Holdup

Charged with a $167 holdup of a liquor store here, two men were ordered held yesterday in Municipal Court for grand jury action. They are Jesse R. McDonald, 36, 2018 M st. nw., and Benny Duke Pleyer, 27, of the Dunbar Hotel. According to police, they robbed the establishment at 1711 17th st. nw. Bond for the defendants was set at $10,000 each.

McCrory's Fined $100

McCrory's, a 5-and-10 cent store at 826 7th st. nw., was fined $100 yesterday in Municipal Court as a third offender of sanitary laws.

According to health inspectors, they found webbing and weevils in peanuts and worms and mice and roaches near other foodstuffs. Also waitresses did not wear hairnets as required by law, according to testimony.

In another case, Miss Grace Caruso of the Catania Bakery, 1404 N. Capitol st., forfeited $50 on a charge of having weevils in her flour and ants in cornmeal.

Memorial Bridge Work

Two traffic lanes on Memorial Bridge will be closed today and Friday while the center spans are resurfaced, Park Police announced last night.

Lieut. William Lutes said one eastbound and one westbound traffic lane would be closed at least two days.

Mrs. Hudson, Wife of U. S. Attorney, Dies

Mrs. Georgia Katherine Hudson of the General Scott Apartments, Scott Circle, wife of Hurd Hudson, an attorney with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, died last night at Emergency Hospital, where she had been recuperating from an operation.

Mrs. Hudson was born in Washington about 60 years ago, and made her debut here. She was the daughter of Mrs. William S. Knox and the late Mr. Knox, head of the Knox Transfer & Storage Co.

Mrs. Hudson, who had previously been married to Col. Harry Berry, USA, of Nashville, Tenn., was married to Mr. Hudson in March, 1937.

She was a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution and of the Newspaper Women's Club, and was a former society correspondent for the Nashville Tennessean.

In addition to her husband and mother, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Myron Davy and Mrs. Berry Coleman; two grandchildren, and a brother, W. Hamilton Knox, all of Washington.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Col. L. Hoffman

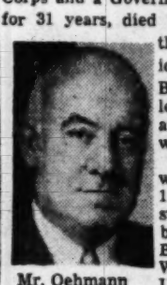
Col. William L. Hoffman, USA, retired, veteran of both World Wars and a Medical Corps officer since 1917, died Monday at Walter Reed General Hospital. He was 69.

Graveside funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. today at Arlington Cemetery.

A native of Emmetsburg, Iowa, Colonel Hoffman took a Ph.B. degree from the University of Iowa in 1900 and his M.D. four years later at the University of Minnesota. He began his military career in June, 1917, and retired January 31, 1944.

A.L. Oehmann, Government Veteran, Dies

Andrew L. Oehmann, 60, records administrator fo rthe Army Signal Corps and a Government employe for 31 years, died Wednesday at the Naval Medical Center in Bethesda following a heart attack suffered when at work.



Mr. Oehmann

Mr. Oehmann, who lived at 1924 Varnum st. ne., was a brother of Brig. Gen. John W. Oehmann, USA, retired, a former District Building inspector of 1253 Lawrence st. ne. His son, Andrew F. Oehmann, is an assistant United States attorney for the District.

Born in Washington, Mr. Oehmann attended public and parochial schoolse here, and went to work in his father's confectionery shop.

Government Veteran

In 1908 he married Frances Kiely of the District and in 1917 entered Government service in the office of the Judge Advocate General of the Army. When World War I began he enlisted as an Army field clerk, served two years overseas, and returned in 1919 to the Adjutant General's office.

In 1923 he transferred to the Signal Corps, serving in that office for 25 years until his death.

An excellent pianist, according to his family, Mr. Oehmann was a band leader in his spare time at Glen Echo Park from about 1920 to 1930.

K. of C., Legion Member

He was past faithful navigator of the fourth degree, Washington General Assembly of the Knights of Columbus, and a member of its Washington Council No. 224. He also belonged to Fort Stevens Post No. 32, American Legion; the Father Francis J. Hurney Post No. 112, Catholic War Veterans, and to the Holy Name Society of St. Fransis de Sales Church.

Besides his wife, son and brother, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. John K. Bottomley of Boston; a sister, Mrs. Florence M. Kennedy of Tampa, Fla., and two grandchildren.

Mary Eaton Services Set In Hollywood

Funeral services will be held in Hollywood today for Mary Eaton, stage and screen star of yesteryear, who began her long, international career in Washington in 1913.

The 46-year-old Virginia-born actress died Sunday.

As a girl of 11, a year after she came to the District with her family, she made her stage debut here with the Poli stock company, appearing in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

Associated Press WIREPHOTO
As she appeared in 1929

From that, Mary Eaton went up in the entertainment world, reaching her zenith in the 1920's. From 1923 to 1930, she was starred in the Ziegfeld "Follies." She also co-starred with Eddie Cantor in "Kid Boots."

In 1931, she appeared in London in "Folly To Be Wise." She was also seen in "His Children's Children," and "Glorifying the American Girl," both movies.

Miss Eaton married Millard Webb, film director, in 1929 in Los Angeles. Two years after his death in 1935 she became the wife of Charles A Emery, a Los Angeles ranch owner. At the time of her death she was married to Ed Laughton a movie actor.

She was the daughter of C. H. S. Eaton of Norfolk, who was a printer for The Washington Post. She went to high school here and began her stage training as a member of St. Patrick's Players, a group founded by the late Rev. Francis Hurney.

After her success here in "Mrs. Wiggs," she spent the 1914 season with the Poli Co., appearing as with the Poli company, appearing as Tyltyl, the boy, in "The Blue Bird." Her younger sister, Doris, played Mytyl. During the 1914-15 season, they toured the country in the play.

Besides her husband, she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Mary Eaton of Detroit.

Lee Estelle, Swimming Expert, Dies

Lee Estelle, 45, of 1430 Rhode Island ave. nw., for many years active in directing special events for clubs and organizations in the Washington area, died yesterday at Doctors Hospital of bacterial carditis.

Mr. Estelle

Mr. Estelle, who served during the war years in the Copper division of the War Production Board, was particularly interested in swimming and diving competitions and in training children in these activities. During the summer months he was director of the swimming pool at the Indian Springs Club, and during the recent President's Cup Regatta, he had an active part in the swimming and diving events which brought a number of Olympic stars to Washington.

Mr. Estelle, a member of the board of managers of the Amateur Athletic Union, was a native of Omaha, Nebr., and the son of Mrs. Christy B. Estelle and the late Judge Lee S. Estelle of Omaha, a well known lecturer on child welfare and juvenile delinquency.

This early emphasis on children's activities made an indelible impression on Mr. Estelle as a boy and guided his interests through life to devoting his efforts to the welfare of children.

Mr. Estelle was an alumnus of Creighton University, Omaha.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Helen F. Estelle of Washington, and his mother, now living at Pine Bluff, Ark. Two sisters and a brother also survive: Miss Mary Lee Estelle of Washington; Mrs. John De Jarnett, Houston, Tex., and A. Murray Estelle, Hollywood.

Requiem mass will be celebrated at 10:15 a. m. Saturday at St. Matthew's Cathedral by the Rev. John B. Argaut. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Col. Herron Services Set For Friday

Col. Leroy W. Herron, 70, retired advertising director of The Evening Star and Sunday Star, died yesterday on a train returning to Washington from Columbus, Ohio.

Col. Herron

Colonel Herron, of 3111 Garfield st. nw., had attended an advertising round-table discussion sponsored by the Columbus Dispatch, and apparently suffered a heart attack. His body was removed at Altoona, Pa., where he was pronounced dead, and was returned to the District last night. He had been in ill health for about a year.

Born in Washington, Colonel Herron attended Central High School, then went to work for The Star in 1896. Except for military service in the Spanish-American War and World War I, he devoted his career to the paper, and retired last July 1 as advertising director with a record of 52 years of service.

Made Manager in 1911

In 1911 he was appointed advertising manager, and in 1937 advertising director. In 1937 and 1938 he served two terms as president of the Newspaper Advertising Executives Association, a national organization which traditionally does not reelect its officers.

Aside from advertising, Colonel Herron's major interest was military service.

Beginning as a high school cadet, he served in Cuba during the Spanish-American War as a second lieutenant in the First District of Columbia Volunteers, watched the surrender of the Spanish army at Santiago, Cuba, and returned to the United States with yellow fever.

With Twenty-Ninth in France

Following the war, he served 16 years in the National Guard, retiring about 1914, and reenlisting in 1916 as a captain. He commanded the First Battalion, 110th Field Artillery Regiment, of the Twenty-Ninth Division in France during World War I.

After this, Colonel Herron organized the 313th Field Artillery Regiment, upon the request of the War Department, and continued as its commander for 20 years. In 1940 that unit resolved unanimously that he be made an "honorary colonel . . . forever."

During World War II, he was chairman of a committee of newspaper advertising men who worked with the Treasury on the war bond selling program.

He was a past commander of the District Commandery, Military Order of Foreign Wars; past director of the Rotary Club; past master of Temple Noyes Lodge, No. 32, FAAM; past commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post No. 127; past president of the District Reserve Officers Association, and a member of the board of the Field Artillery Association.

Other Affiliations

He was also a charter member of the Advertising Club of Washington, a member of the Advertising Club of New York and of the Washington Board of Trade, and a director of the Lincoln National Bank.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mabel Hughes Herron, and two daughters, Mrs. Mabel Audrey Lane of the Garfield st. address, and Mrs. Charlotte Virginia Zimmerman of White Plains, N. Y. A sister, Mrs. James H. Butler of Atlanta, Ga. also survives.

Services will be held at 10 a. m. Friday at Fort Myer Chapel, with burial following in Arlington Cemetery.

Dr. Mitchel Carroll

Lancaster, Pa., Oct. 13 (AP).—Dr. Mitchel Carroll, 63, head of the department of biology of Franklin and Marshall College and author on biology and allied sciences, died today.

A native of Philadelphia, Dr. Carroll taught in Philadelphia public schools and at the University of Pennsylvania.

Henry Harrison Hites

Henry Harrison Hites, father of Harry Hites, of 2701 14th st. nw., died yesterday at his home in Johnson City, Tenn. He would have been 92 years old next Tuesday.

Mr. Hites was born in Middlesex, Pa., son of a veteran of the Union Army.

He was engaged in making pig iron for more than 50 years, and had been superintendent of the largest blast furnaces. He was a life member of the Masonic order.

Australian Ambassador Honors R. G. Menzies

By Marie McNair

THE RIGHT HON. R. G. MENZIES, former Prime Minister of Australia, is typical of his fit and hardy people. Well over 6 feet with ruddy cheeks and iron gray hair, the visitor is leader of the opposition or liberal party of his country, has had a long career in law and held half a dozen Cabinet posts.

He has been on a European tour, is stopping in the Capital briefly and yesterday was guest of honor at a reception given by the Australian Ambassador and Mrs. Makin. Earlier yesterday he met the press, was entertained at a stag luncheon by the Ambassador, and on Friday will be off to Indianapolis to hear the President speak.

Driving up in the dusk to the embassy doorway yesterday, it was pleasant to see the glow of lights, and hear the hum of voices and the strains of a Viennese waltz coming from a stringed trio stationed at the end of the hallway.

Once inside you were greeted by the friendly hosts, Mrs. Makin wearing a long black gown with cut work embroidery about the square neck and an orchid on her shoulder.

Among early guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Souby and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vennell, Mrs. Souby in black with a becoming hat to match and Mrs. Vennell, wearing a full skirted jacket suit of navy blue bengaline and a hat of the same color.

Justice Roberts Attends

Not often to be found among the regular party set, but usually showing up at the Australian Embassy were Justice Robert Jackson, and Mrs. Jackson whose tiny black hat was covered with a veil bordered in rhinestones, and Miss Frances Perkins, former Secretary of Labor, her now famous tricorne having been displaced by a beret type hat with but a suggestion of the lines made famous by the lady in her Cabinet days.

The New Zealand Minister and Lady Berendsen had come on from the cocktail party given by Vice Admiral and Mrs. Calvin Cobb for Gen. and Mrs. Ralph Wooten who are back in town, and just back from Cuba were the Indian Ambassador and Lady Rama Rau, who brought their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mme. Wagle, a charming young pair visiting here from London.

Saris Add Color

Naturally it was the Indian saris that provided the brightest splash of color in a room filled with somber colored frocks. Lady Rama Rau's costume was of deep saffron bordered in black and gold; her daughter wore white with a wide edge of maroon and gold and Mme. Nehru, wife of the Indian Minister, had chosen a delicate blue, and print in delicate shades banded the skirt and the throw across the shoulder.

I saw Justice Felix Frankfurter in deep conversation with Camille Gutt at the drawing room doorway; Justice Harold Burton, with Mrs. Burton in a striking profile hat of ruby red velvet with high flange brim to show her silver hair.

Then there were the Chief of Naval Operations and Mrs. Louis Denfeld, and Ray Muir, Assistant Chief of Protocol, and I heard the disturbing news that his chief, Stanley Woodward, is in the hospital with a ruptured appendix.

Lady Wilson slipped in and soon found friends; Miss Dorothy Stirling, whose brother, Alfred, was former Australian Minister here, wore a nosegay of lilies of the valley tucked in her lapel, and tall and pretty Mrs. S. H. K. Spurgeon, wife of the Naval Attache of the Australian Embassy, in a long turquoise dinner gown, had been asked to assist.

Said "how-de-do" to the Lothrop Stoddards, Col. and Mrs. Robert Guggenheim, and Col. and Mrs. Charles Martin. Chatted briefly with Nan Garcia, who was with Parr Johnson, and waved to Walter and Bonnie Wilds across the room. Saw Mrs. Ernest Norris exchanging pleasantries with the Irish Minister and Mrs. Nunan, and glimpsed Mr. and Mrs. Auguste Boas, Miss Irene Boyle, Mrs. Leslie Biffle, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Folger and Sir Willmott and Lady Lewis.

GEN. THOMAS HOLCOMB, former Commandant of the Marine Corps, and Mrs. Holcomb are spending several days in Washington from Rosecroft, their home in St. Marys County, Md., and are guests of Gen. W. P. T. Hill, USMC, and Mrs. Hill.

General and Mrs. Holcomb entertained at a Chinese dinner last evening as a birthday celebration for Mrs. DeWitt Peck, Mrs. Frank Slingluff and Frank Holcomb, son of the hosts. General and Mrs. Peck and General and Mrs. Holcomb were in Peking together a number of years ago. In addition to General and Mrs. Hill and the guests of honor other guests were Mrs. Frank Holcomb, the former Miss Suzanne Slingluff and General Peck.

THE Czechoslovak Ambassador and Mme. Outrata have issued invitations for a reception on Thursday afternoon, October 28, in celebration of Czechoslovakian Independence Day.

Mary Haworth's Mail

A Bachelor Officer During the War, Man Is Married Now and On the Defensive as Bride Upbraids Him About Foreign Amours

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Until last year, when I married Susan, I was a bachelor officer with a congenial group of friends and a good assignment in a stimulating environment.

Previously I had served some 40 months overseas, where I sampled the hazards and discomforts of modern war, achieved a good combat record with an infantry outfit and led a social life of sorts that seemed commensurate with the situation.

With my fellows, I sought wine, women and song as the antidote to danger, monotony and isolation; but in my opinion, we were not vicious or utterly sinful.

Home again last year, I fell in love with Susan and married her, after first confessing that there had been sweethearts in my past, that I had been rowdy on occasion; that I was, in effect, a repentant minor-league sinner, now in a mood to put these transgressions behind me and henceforth live circumspectly, as decreed in the marriage vows.

Man Claims Past is Private Affair

SUSAN is a fine girl; she has had a strict religious upbringing and a past unmarred by any transgressions, and on many occasions she has upbraided and humiliated me with caustic references to my bachelor life, as she visualizes it. I wouldn't mind humorous chiding, but I can't stand her retrospective nagging lectures about events (often imaginary) that belong to the past.

I have retaliated by stating that my premarital life is a personal affair, and that inasmuch as I outlined my past prior to marriage, she had a choice of rejecting me if she so desired; but having decided to marry me, she should forget bygones and concentrate on a happy future attuned to the folkways of normal American life.

Unless she is willing to abide by the logical attitudes I have delineated, I fear that a happy marriage is impossible; that our relations will be riddled by suspicion and discord. What do you think? G. R.

Case of Coxcomb Talking Too Much

DEAR G. R.: I think that nobody could be more illogical than you are here, and that you have a sophomoric tendency to regard bachelor sin on foreign soil as glamorous.

Having gratuitously disturbed Susan with a nonchalant flashback of your bush-league deviltry abroad, does it make sense to huffily proclaim, when her bothered reactions boil up, that your premarital life is a personal affair? You introduced the subject, didn't you? And not in a contrite spirit, obviously, if "humorous chiding" is the most you feel should be said against it.

Not the least of the evils of war is the licentious revelry it spawns; and many essentially decent naive young men get involved in such goings-on. But if their decency survives the experience and they return to normal folkways with sane perspective, resolved to put such transgressions behind them, and inherently convinced (as you profess to be) that a man's sins of the sort are a closed book, not relevant to the good life that true

Keep in Trim

Streamlines Hinge on Waistline

By Ida Jean Kain

To have a fair-to-middlin' figure, you must have a fairly small waist. A neat waist measures 8 inches less than the bust, with weight, of course, at healthy normal. By the by, how many inches have you annexed to your waistline since you both were 25? Over plus three! What can the matter be . . . Here's a neat trick that puts a finger on the cause of waistline duffel. Take a sturdy tape measure and a stout safety pin and fasten the tape around your waist. Draw the tape comfortably snug but don't squeeze. Pin there.

Now, try to make your waistline slimmer by pulling your waist up away from your hips and the ribs away from the waist. Center all the pull through the middle of your figure—shoulders should be relaxed and easy. How much slack in the tape can you take up? If it's a full inch, then part of your waistline overlap is due to slumping and the antidote is exercise and a lovelier posture.

If you can't make much of a dent in the waistline by stretching, then the trouble is excess calories settled compactly in the waist region. But it's only excess calories that go to waist. Leaving off second helpings and deleting rich desserts and fattening trimmings will cut the calories—and the waistline—down to size.

A Little Exercise

Whatever is wrong with the middle measurement, a little exercise is all to the good. Stretching tones the muscles that wrap around the midsection, slimming the waist and the midriff . . .

Position: Standing on knees on floor, knees apart, arms overhead with hands clasped.

Movement: Stretch upward through the midriff, then increase the stretch by going into a side-bend and pulling thoroughly all along the other side. Come back to center and repeat to other side. There are two ways to go wrong on this exercise: One is to hunch your shoulders—that cuts down the stretch at the midriff. The other is to let the hips jut out in back as you bend sideward—that way you miss the mark.

Position: Sitting on floor legs straight down and wide apart, arms out at sides, shoulder level.

Movement: Using the waist as a pivot, whirl to the right and touch left fingers to right toes. Then around to the left—whirl away! Be sure to maintain a firm up-pull through the midriff—that's what makes the exercise slimming.

Ask Anne — About Bleaching Tablecloth

I should appreciate your opinion as to the best way to bleach a white hand-crocheted tablecloth which has been several years in the making and parts of which are consequently discolored. L. G. M.

A mild safe bleach suitable for use on the cloth, is powdered sodium perborate, obtainable at drug stores. Mix with soapy water (4 tablespoons perborate to each pint of soapy water) and soak the cloth in it for a half hour or longer. Then wash thoroughly in suds and rinse well. It seems to me that this should clear the cloth nicely. However if you feel such a bleach is too mild, you could use one of the dye stripping compounds sold through drug stores by manufacturers of home dyes.

The knotted cord of my string of pearls has become very soiled. Do you know of a way in which this cord may be cleansed without damage to the pearls? L. G. M.

Usually, when the string is very soiled, it has also begun to weaken from wear. Having the pearls restrung by a jeweler is therefore advisable. However, as a temporary measure, you can clean the string with white talcum powder. Sift on the powder, work it in a bit, leave on for a short while, then brush out with a soft brush. Repeat if necessary. The string will probably not be thoroughly whitened by this method, but its appearance will be improved.

In response to F. S. M.'s request for a banana-nut cake recipe, I am sending you one of my favorites. This cake is delicious and we like it even better when grated maple sugar is substituted for brown sugar and pecans for the cherries.

Banana Ring Upside Down Cake

Preparation of pan: Grease sides of ring pan well. Cream together 1/3 cup butter and 1 cup brown sugar and spread on bottom of pan. Place sliced bananas on this mixture, dotted with maraschino cherries (or nuts).

Cake batter:
1-3 cup shortening
1¼ cups sugar
1/3 cup shortening
2 beaten eggs
1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¾ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup mashed bananas
½ cup sour milk

Cream shortening, add sugar, and beaten eggs. Sift dry ingredients together and stir bananas into sour milk. Add these two mixtures alternately to the creamed ingredients. Beat well. Pour into pans lined with sugar and bananas. Bake 45 minutes in 375-degree oven When done, turn out immediately on plate. Serve cool with whipped cream. (To make sour milk, if none is available, add 1 tablespoon vinegar to ½ cup sweet milk and let it stand a few seconds.) H. T.

Thank you so much for this recipe and the others you sent in. Thanks also to F. S. M., who sent in a banana-nut cake recipe similar to another recently printed.

Will you tell me how to gold-leaf a Louis XV mirror which originally had gold leaf applied to the frame? As the gold leaf was well worn away when I acquired the mirror, I used gilt all over and now would like to apply gold leaf, as the mirror is so beautiful with the shell motif of the Louis XV period. R. P. L.

Because the successful application of gold leaf requires such a high degree of skill and special equipment, it really should not be undertaken by the inexperienced. Therefore, I would suggest you turn the job over to a professional. A firm on Connecticut ave., which restores picture frames and does gold leaf work, can be reached by calling Hobart 3400.

Is there anyway a hand-knit sweater can be made smaller without being reknit? My husband has a coat sweater that is much too large across the shoulders. It is knit tightly so will shrink very little if at all when washed. F. V. W.

I'm sorry, I know of no way other than re-knitting to make a sweater smaller without also harming the wool.

Could you tell me where I could find "Dri-Dux," which is used as a soil repellent finisher after slipcovers have been cleaned, and "Drax," a permanizer rinse for slipcovers? These were recently advertised in a nationally known home magazine and I have been unable to find a store that carries either. Since I am living outside of Washington I would appreciate an address that I may write to, rather than a phone number. B. G. R.

A check with the Department of Commerce and the Patent Office fails to find a product called "Dri-Dux." However, the Patent Office lists a product called "Dri-Duk," which is made by Ira Sloman Co., 31-27 Thomson ave., Long Island City, N. Y. According to the Department of Commerce, "Drax" is made by the Ciba Chemical Co., Lafayette Park, Summit, N. J.

Attention F. S. P.: Other readers have advised us that slipcovers for maple furniture can be purchased in the basement stores of at least two local department stores. Another reader also tells us they are shown in the catalogue of one of the large mail order houses. Thanks for the information, readers.

A Line on Laundry

When hanging the family wash, hang the articles straight and by their strongest parts to make them last longer.

Pin dresses to the washline by seams or waistbands unless they are dried on hangers.

Always remove wash from the line as soon as it is dry to save unnecessary flapping in the wind.

If you fold straight pieces straight as they come from the washline and place them flat and smooth in the basket to keep them in shape and as unwrinkled as possible, you will save extra work in ironing.

Friday's Plushy Events

'Red Shoes', Champagne And Orchids All Featured In Night of Premieres

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

NIGHT LIFE addicts and ladies enjoying showing off their fancier habiliments to larger than dinner party sized audiences find Washington slim pickings. So when a double-headed premiere bobs up there is considerable shaking out of mothballs and primping of tippets and farthingales.

Friday's the night of nights. First, the Women's Advertising Club of Washington is sponsoring the reopening of the revamped National Theater with J. Arthur Rank's Technicolor production "Red Shoes" and the Mayflower is officially signaling winter's approach with its annual champagne and orchids evening in the lounge.

As everyone knows the C and O affair includes a corsage to the ladies, bubbly water to both sexes. And, as we've said before, anything free is always welcome so on this occasion few females hesitate to make pinholes in their best gowns and drinks are downed with gay abandon found only when they're on the house.

At the National, the Advertising Women have coaxed a number of small girls into ballet dresses, will have them distribute red carnations. And such high-powered executives as Jean Ambrose, Ruth Crane, Nancy Osgood, Hazel Markel will broadcast the goings on. Byron Foy, who has a finger in Eagle-Lion, which distributes the picture, will come down from New York for its debut. Byron, who branched from automobiles to movies, is the Texas-born husband of the former Thelma Chrysler, whose wardrobe and beauty are a continual wonder in Gotham's more expensive circles.

The National, incidentally, boasts a new marble floor in the lobby, has had boxes and badly placed seats blocked out, otherwise it's the same familiar hangout. The box office is open for opening-night tickets.

Let's Play Games

IN NEW YORK'S plushy postdepression years there was a small group of upper stratum intellectuals fondly nicknamed The Charade and Anagram Set. It included Alice Duer Miller, Neysa McMein, Dorothy Parker, with Alexander Woollcott as chief poohbah. Right here a nucleus of pen-and-pencil-game fans (luckily charades and THE GAME seem slightly passe) have set up shop scarcely waiting for after-dinner coffee to cool before tensing for an evening of exhausting mental gyrations.

Two numbers are most popular. 1, a drawing game. Guests are divided into two or more teams. In rotation one person on each is assigned a slogan, saying, or what-have-you to draw; the others, who may ask any amount of questions, have to guess what the pencil scratches represent. The team guessing quickest, of course, wins.

Here's a sample of subjects this department had to draw—or try to draw—the other evening: (a) Gone With the Wind. (b) Othello. (c) Tale of Two Cities! The worse the artist, the more the fun!

Second game. A paper is blocked into squares, five down and five across. Any five-letter word is filled in, a letter in each square, perpendicularly, next to the edge. Then, five categories, such as animals, minerals, are written in each top square. The idea is to fill in snappily as possible a variety of things from each category commencing with each letter of the perpendicularly placed five-letter word. For instance, the word TOWER is placed down the side; along the top, in separate squares are TREE, BUGS, BIRDS, NEWSPAPERS, AUTOMOBILES. Victims have to think of any tree, bird, bug, newspaper, automobile, starting with t, o, w, e, and r.

The nice part is there's such wide variety of cheating possible—especially on newspaper names! The other evening it was fun to see Denver newspaper tycoon Palmer Hoyt bogged down on bugs—all he could think of was "worm" and "tick," more fun to see how quick-witted Dorothy Morin, the bride of Associated Press Washington Bureau Chief "Pat" Morin, make up polysyllabic names of nonexistent trees, birds, and almost get away with it, to see Assistant Secretary of the Navy Andrews resuscitate ancient auto makes, Winton, Rambler and such.

Peter Hoguet, Newcomer

PETER HOGUET, the smart young lawyer who made headlines and created international turmoil by obtaining a habeas corpus writ for the Russian school teacher, Mme. Kasenkina, has changed his locale of operations. He has left New York to become one of Paul Hoffman's ECA staff here in Washington, where, specifically, he'll act as staff assistant to Deputy Administrator Richard Bissell, jr., and Chief of the United Kingdom Section of the Program Coordination Division. During the war he was an assistant to United States Minister W. W. Rieffler, who was in charge of Economic Warfare under Ambassador Winant in London, after a spell of duty in our Navy. As a mere babe he was an assistant on Dewey's staff when the latter was busy busting gangster mobs and lately he has been battling against Leftist Congressman Vito Marcantonio with relish and delightful vigor. Right now what energetic Mr. Hoguet needs most is a moderate-size apartment. This department will be pleased to pass on any suggestions. One of eight children, he's not too fussy.

Mrs. de Vries Visits Sister, Mrs. Hoyem

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Hoyem of Connecticut ave. have as their guest Mrs. Hoyem's sister, Mrs. Clemens Lambertus de Vries of Wassenaar, Holland. Mrs. De Vries is the former Miss Edna Merton of this city, daughter of Mrs. James Millar Merton.

After a brief visit Mrs. De Vries will sail for Pontianak, Borneo, to join her husband, Lieut. Comdr. De Vries, formerly of the Royal Netherlands navy.

MARRY ME

Marry me, Jane, and we'll live happily ever after. I've found the answer to all our problems. It's Cody's Servicenter, the most unusual place in town. They'll repair everything but a broken heart—shoes, umbrellas, fountain pens, nylons, shirts, zippers, luggage and handbags. They offer real custom dry cleaning, too, and will make alterations. ONLY

AN ACTRESS

CAN DO WITHOUT

THE "YOU" LOOK

An actress can make a living and a reputation by looking like someone else, but success for the average woman consists in playing an authentic rather than a fictitious part.

Socially or in business she must dramatize her appearance through the medium of clothes that fit the role of her own personality.

She is the star of her own drama and the only way she can succeed is by being Herself.

Yours, for the
You-ness of "YOU"

Truman Is Praised for Rights Stand

By Genevieve Reynolds

Delegates to the National Council of Negro Women's 13th annual convention yesterday indorsed unanimously a resolution commending President Truman for his enunciation and promulgation of the Civil Rights Program. In another motion they took an unnamed but obvious crack at GOP Presidential Candidate Thomas E. Dewey's stand on Italian colonies.

Specifically the resolution praising Truman stated that it was prompted "for his support of full Civil Rights for all citizens without regard to race, creed or national origin."

It reads as follows "Whereas the denial of the right to participate freely in the election machinery of the various States, the denial of the right to purchase, occupy and enjoy housing accommodations in desirable communities and the denial of the right to work in our chosen fields or to follow avenues of endeavor for which our abilities or peculiar talents fit us, solely because of our race and whereas, the President of the United States has in view of the foregoing made an unprecedented effort to formulate a program designed to integrate into full citizenship the black people of America in that he has issued two executive orders, viz:, (1) to provide a committee whose objective is to eliminate discrimination and segregation in the armed forces and the (2) other for full integration of Negroes into the Federal employment service.

An amendment was added citing members of the President's Civil Rights Committee for their contribution.

While Governor Dewey was not mentioned by name, the council delegates speaking for its 850,000 membership in a resolution contended that statesmen of certain countries, "in an effort to maneuver political pressures, initiated efforts to have the African colonies returned to Italy for the possibility of further maltreatment." The council's motion strongly and unequivocally opposed the return of former African colonies to Italian sovereignty.

A Resolution on Human Rights also passed without dissent, the gist of which points out that a covenant covering economic and social rights plus an organization to implement them are essential to Human Rights.

10-Point Program

In keeping with a previously indorsed 10-point program, council delegates reaffirmed the following motions: (1) Abolition of lynching; (2) replacement of mob rule with equal protection for all citizens under the law and order in a free society; (3) end of segregation and discrimination in the Armed Forces; (4) elimination of poll tax and other similar devices as a prerequisite for voting; (5) writing of the principle of the Fair Employment Practice into a national law with adequate sanctions; (6) to guard the physical, mental and moral welfare of youth in a concentrated youth conservation program; (7) emphasized casting ballots for candidates in sympathy with the council's aims.

At the morning session, Dr. Mary McLeod Bethune, founder and president of the organization, told delegates: "No country in the world can give us what the United States does. Be sure that you conduct yourselves so as to prevent intrusion of any foreign influence that will make you anything but loyal, good Americans in the highest sense of the word."

Legislation Asked

Strongly worded resolutions called upon the Eighty first Congress to pass legislation giving Federal aid to education carrying the provision which will prohibit discrimination and segregation in its administration; urged racial minority groups to seek for nondiscriminatory jobs during the peak employment of about 62 million persons; for persons of good will to create public opinion which will create a climate in which persons have equal access to public housing market and enjoy the privilege of moving freely throughout the community without restrictions on race, color or creeds.

Mrs Venice T. Spraggs, former chief of the Washington Bureau of the Chicago Defender, now on leave to serve as vice chairman, Women's Division, National Democratic Committee, urged council members to encourage their people to register and cast a vote in the election next month. "A ballot must be cast on issues which will affect the greatest number of people," she declared. "You have a responsibility to study the platforms of both the Democratic and Republican parties—and Progressives, too."

A South Carolina delegate immediately pointed out that she had failed to state the address of the "Dixiecrats" headquarters and asked that it be included.

Reports of various committees last night ended the four-day conclave sessions held in the Interdepartmental Auditorium, Department of Labor.

Fashions were by Julius Garfinckel & Co., and proceeds were for the benefit of the social welfare fund of the local Business and Professional Women's Club. Among those responsible for the success of the show were, from left to right, Miss Marjorie Webster, program chairman; Miss Genevieve Rogers, president, and Mrs. Robert E. Freer, commentator

Korean Plight Described for Club Women

Korea is today the crossroads of the armed might of the Soviet Union and the United Nations, Col. B. C. Limb, chairman of the Korean Commission to the United States, told members of the Woman's Club of Lyon Village last night.

"The Paris representatives are faced with the problem of deciding whether to accept the challenge of Russia or to permit this great international organization, the U. N., to disintegrate," he said.

All of Asia, he told club members, is watching the decision in Korea weighing the ability of the democratic powers to protect their friends from aggressors. The Korean decision at Paris will greatly affect the political and military climate of the biggest continent in the world, he added.

"We want to see the United Nations resolution for Korean independence carried without the interference of a self-seeking foreign power. We want unification of our country and the recognition of Korean sovereignty by all nations," he declared.

Mme. Koo Receives Guests at Showing Of Chinese Art

"Five to Seven" at the United Nations Club yesterday afternoon found Mme. Wellington Koo, wife of the Chinese Ambassador, greeting guests at the opening of the exhibitions of paintings by her fellow countryman, Chen Chi. The distinguished exponent of modern Chinese art is showing lovely panels and pictures in water color, some of the scenes done in China and others in the United States.

Assisting Mme. Koo in receiving was Mrs. Grace Yaukey, who came from New York for the occasion. Mrs. Yaukey, well-known in the Capital where she has visited at the Chinese Embassy, is a sister of author Pearl Buck and is an author herself under the pen name Cornelia Spencer.

Zonta Club Hears Dr. Snyder Speak On World Relations

International relations can only partly be regarded as political, Dr. Harold E. Snyder, director of the Commission for International Educational Reconstruction, told Zonta Club members at a luncheon in the Dodge Hotel yesterday.

Equally important, he said, are the ways in which groups and individuals get into direct contact with people abroad. There are now 400 national organizations sending aid to foreign countries, with UNESCO advising them of the particular needs of a country, he added.

Dr. Snyder said that the American Council of Education sponsored the establishment of an Advisory Committee on Cultural Relations with the occupied countries last month.

This committee, whose function will be to assist the military government in providing aid for the occupied countries, is now in the process of being established. Dr. Snyder is the director of the committee.

Following the talk by Dr. Snyder, a Canadian film, "Hungry Minds," was shown to the club members.

Club Women Protest Tax Assessment

The Woman's Clubs of Chevy Chase and the Woman's Club of Bethesda are planning to go to the State Tax Commission with their fight against a county commissioner's ruling that they should be taxed.

The Chevy Chase group has been exempt since 1939 and the Bethesda organization since 1926. About $1200 in real estate taxes is involved for the former and $500 for the latter.

Officials of the clubs contend they are entitled to exemption under a State law providing for nonpayment of taxes by organizations chartered for educational and charitable purposes.

County Assessment Supervisor William T. Allen said, however, that the purpose of the clubs "seems to be primarily social and civic."

love and marriage ushers in, they certainly don't banter the theme reminiscently in courting the hand of a sheltered girl.

So why did you open your mouth and put your foot in it, in courting Susan? Because the braggart and coxcomb in your nature had to sound off, I think; and because your skirmishes with the sportive aspects of total war have coarsened your sensibilities more than you realize.

Pair Doesn't Speak the Same Language

I BELIEVE that Susan's caustic nagging about your bachelor sins, alleged, is really an emotional protest of your inability to speak, or even comprehend, her language of heart and spirit. She suffers rather inexpressibly from stymied awareness of basic incompatibility on that score; and you must accept considerable responsibility for the mutual block.

You can't just say, "She accepted me, knowing the gist of my past," for I assume you initiated the courtship; and it's a pretty safe bet that you married her largely in response to the fact that she is "a fine girl with a strict religious upbringing, and a past unmarred by any transgressions," so you can't logically expect her to bring a king's-mistress insouciance of mind to the so-called facts of life. And if you were half as worldly-wise as you think you are, you'd know that without my telling you.

For advice, come off your high horse and try to "get understanding," as the Bible says, by harkening sympathetically to her sentiments, which by God's grace might rekindle in you a redemptive sensitivity to the higher values in love relationship. M. H.

Needlepoint Goes Modern

By Elizabeth Toomey

New York, (U.P.).—Austrian-born Mrs. Ida Jolles has some strictly modern impressionistic designs for needlepoint chair upholstery which she hopes will lift needlepoint out of the tapestry niche and put it into modern American homes.

"Old heavy needlepoint colors and patterns don't fit into modern settings," she claims. "But needlepoint in modern version on light wood is gorgeous—nothing can compare."

Mrs. Jolles once employed 20,000 Austrians in her needlework business in that country. There she says women grow up knowing how to do intricate needlepoint tapestries. But she believes American women haven't the patience or the incentive to complete one of the old-fashioned tapestry patterns.

Surrealist Sport

"It's boring just to fill in the background color on a piece of needlepoint," the charming white-haired expert said in her New York showroom. As she talked she was seated in a chair upholstered in one of her new designs. It was a sort of surrealistic impression of a golf game, taken from her "hobby series." An irregular splash of vivid green was centered in a creamy background, and superimposed on it were golf balls, tees, a humorous flag marking the famous "19th hole," and a cocktail glass complete with an olive in the bottom.

"My new method of stamping the design right on the canvas and including matching colors of yarn in the complete package makes it possible for a woman to work in the design as well as the background," she explained.

The upholstery pieces are rather complicated for a beginner, so as a sort of feeler Mrs. Jolles' factory has been turning out jewelry boxes, scruff bedroom slippers, vanity cases and other useful but small feminine items to be worked in needlepoint. The upholstery will go on the market in a few months.

Refugee From Hitler

Mrs. Jolles fled Austria when Hitler invaded, and later fled Belgium for the same reason. Her next stop was Shanghai, where she set up a needlework shop with Chinese women employes. The first Chinese words she learned were, "please do it my way." But before the Oriental women could learn, Pearl Harbor forced her to close that workroom.

To talk to her now you would have no idea that she had fled almost around the world to start her life anew. Only an occasional flash of sadness in her sparkling eyes when she speaks of her former home in Vienna gives her away.

The rest of the time she's vitally interested in her new project.

"It's great fun to teach American women the art of beautiful needlepoint," she said enthusiastically. "In Austria the women already know everything about it. But here, in America, I have a field as wide open as the world."

Banquet Marks Founders' Day

The seventy-eighth Founders Day of Kappa Kappa Gamma was celebrated at a banquet last evening in the National Press Club auditorium.

Miss Ruth M. Leach, vice president of the International Business Machines Corp. and one of the country's outstanding business women, was the guest speaker. She told the Kappa Kappa Gammas that in fraternity comradeship they have found a true meaning of good human relations. This spirit, she said, can support our national leaders as well as the United Nations to make this a better world in which to live.

Among the chapters that were at the banquet were the Gamma Chi Chapter from George Washington University, which presented a musical program during dinner; the Gamma Psi Chapter from Maryland University, which presented a Lily Dache hat skit; the Washington Alumnae, Washington Junior Alumnae and the Arlington Alumnae.

To Hold Memorial For Pakistan Leader

The Ambassador to Pakistan, M. A. H. Ispahana, has announced that a memorial fortieth day service will be held for the late ruler of Pakistan, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, on Wednesday, October 20, at the Department of Interior Auditorium, from 6 to 6:30 p. m.

Together

It is not often that my friends
... Bestow their praise on me ...
But when they do I have a sense
... Of deep humility ... I cannot understand that I ... Deserve a single toast ... For I have never done a deed ... Of which I want to boast ... I may have helped a friend of two ...
And played a little part ... In guiding worthy projects to ... a more important start ... But these are things that everyone ... Should gladly undertake ...
To do his share unselfishly ...
For someone else's sake ... Because we live together in ... a world that is our own ... And nobody however great ... Can do the job alone.

Patrons Continue Price Debate With Barbers

Now that the barbers have abandoned (at least temporarily) their plan to raise prices on men's haircuts to $1.25, maybe it's safe to return to our original debate on the question.

Without comment, Alvera Miller of 3922 3d st. nw. sends in the picture of the Lowell (Ohio) barber who is still charging 15 cents for a haircut and a dime for a shave.

His explanation is that he has "never gotten around to raising his prices."

Of course he wouldn't last very long in Washington on that kind of income. So the argument boils down to:

What should be the proper price for a haircut, so that neither the barber nor the customer gets "trimmed"?

J. C. Runyon of 503 N. West st., Falls Church, Va., says even the present $1 is too much.

Hand clippers, shears and a comb are all you need to beat the high cost of haircuts, and even your first attempt at home barbering (it says here in his letter) will be better than 90 per cent of the work being turned out by today's barbers.

And F. J. K. of 1126 16th st. nw. also wonders whether it wouldn't be a good idea to invest in one of those "cut it yourself" gadgets. "At least I wouldn't be expected to give myself a tip," he muses. And he adds:

"I still maintain that most barbers give their customers a very light going over, in order to stimulate business and force the patron to return in a week or so for another trim—and I do mean trim."

And Mrs. Annie Stein of 3530 Quebec st. nw. chimes in with the woman's angle, to tell me that the ladies pay $1.50 for a haircut (not "around $3") and even so, they think long and hard before parting with the dough.

But "A Barber's Wife" of 4115 5th st. nw. reminds us that barbering is now a profession. And she wonders how men in the other professions would like to try to raise a family on an average of $65 a week—with no sick leave, no paid vacations, or other modern employe benefits.

Vincent Pizzi, who is opening a new shop at New Hampshire ave. and East-West hwy., strikes much the same note.

He points out that a barber must spend 1000 hours in school, pass an examination to become an apprentice, serve two years' apprenticeship, and then pass another "strict examination" to become a full-fledged barber.

Then he has the privilege of going to work in a shop where a $1 haircut yields 65 cents to the barber and 35 cents to the owner (for rent, towels, utilities, supplies, etc., and maybe a little profit).

Vincent says it works out to a point where the average barber makes $1.15 per hour, and has to work 65 hours (6 days) per week to make a passable income.

Incidentally, Vincent tells me that one of a barber's biggest problems is handling children. They just won't sit still.

His own solution, says Vince, is to buy a surplus merry-go-round horse, and let the kids play Roy Rogers while their hair is being cut.

"Imagine," he sighs, "cutting Roy Rogers' hair while he's going buckety-buck at 40 miles an hour, and shooting down a rustler at every buck."

At this point, I have a greater sympathy for barbers. I think I'd rather see than be one.

I CAN'T TIE A BUNDLE

I think I've got just gobs of string;
It looks like 16 feet.
But half-way through, I realize
That never the twine shall PERSONAL NOTES

Maj. Charles S. Coulter, 4212 37th st. nw.: You make an excellent point. I used the term "accidentally" to indicate that there was no premeditation, or intent to shoot the girl. But, as you say, such "accidents with lethal machines" can be minimized by remembering that they are supposed to go off when the firing pin strikes the bullet.

I quite agree with you that men entrusted with weapons should be constantly aware of the caution demanded by such responsibility. It was the lack of that awareness that put Dorothy Kilmer in a wheelchair.

NO DICE

Overheard: "Excuse me for interrupting, but it seems to me you're trying to make your point the hard way."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Four kittens, part Maltese, 6 weeks old." (Oliver 8194.)

10-CENT QUARTERS

W. M. Devine of 234 F st. nw. is pretty well reconciled to the devaluation of the dollar; but he contends that devaluation of the quarter is something else again.

A few days ago a local housemaid pleaded guilty to stealing 400 quarters from an employer's piggy bank. District Liner Devine questions the propriety of the headline which appeared in one of our afternoon contemporaries:

"Girl Admits Taking $40 in Quarters."

"It probably has something to do with inflation," muses our correspondent.

THE REAL NEED

The Supreme Court has upheld the right of States to ban slot machines. Unfortunately, it took no action to force the darn things to pay off occasionally.

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH

The other day I made a bad joke about the new credit regulations increasing the demand for new cars. W. M. O'C. cracks back: "Yeah, there'll be a greater demand for new cars—new street cars."

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—One of the recording companies, anxious to effect a settlement with the Musicians Union, offered to set up a $500,000 fund for the education of musicians. "I am not interested in future musicians," Petrillo replied, "I'm interested in present musicians—especially those who first started losing their jobs in 1928" . . . The ILGWU is paying for the coast-to-coast broadcast by President Truman, at the Liberal Party's Madison Square Garden meeting October 28 . . . Ingrid Bergman returns from Europe this week.

Francis Hitchcock, the socialite who married the miner's daughter, has written two songs for her and gave them to Andre Bodo and Karl Inwald, of El Morocco's Champagne Room, to play whenever they arrive. The songs are called "Confidentially I'm Crazy. Period." and "Men Have Died and Worms Have Eaten Them, but Not for Love" . . . Salvador Dali will return from Europe next month with the completed manuscript of a new novel—about a mad fisherwoman and her two mad children.

William Remington, suing Elizabeth Bentley for her statements about him on the "Meet The Press" program, will have a difficult time proving his case. Cecil Brown, who did the questioning of Miss Bentley, asked whether, without Congressional immunity, she'd repeat that Remington is a Red. Brown asked it three times, because each time Miss Bentley ducked it.

George Sokolsky will become a commentator for the American Broadcasting Co. next month . . . Field Marshal Smuts is raising a 2-million-dollar fund with which to campaign against the Nationalist regime in the next election in South Africa . . . Leo Durocher left for Hollywood Sunday. He'll return to N. Y. in 30 days to map his player-trades.

The fascinating movie short about Matisse, now being shown at the Paris Theater in N. Y., was suggested by Picasso, who was the first artist approached. Other such shorts, with Picasso and Roualt, showing them at work in their studios, will be made . . . Paramount bought the movie rights to "Little Boy Blue" . . . Ernest Hemingway, now in Paris, carries a goatskin bag slung across his shoulder, and at dinner squirts wine from it at the proper course.

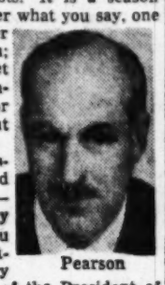
Merry-Go-Round

Gov. Dewey Is Picked as Sure Victor

By Drew Pearson

Election year always brings gray hairs and stomach ulcers to newspaper columnists. It is a season when, no matter what you say, one side or the other jumps on you; when editors get sore, blue-pencil columns or throw you out of the paper.



Pearson

Most newspapers — and their readers — are quite happy to have you turn the spotlight on every act and habit of the President of the United States during every minute of his term of office.

He is considered fair game, with a year-round open season. And the result is that the American public now knows what kind of garters Mr. Truman wears, how much money he has saved in office, his favorite cusswords, what kind of poker he plays, and how many shots he fired as an artillery captain in World War I. In fact, there is almost nothing—good or bad—that we don't know about him.

But, as election time rolls round; you will note that a kindly generous film diffuses most of the newspaper spotlights that focus upon Truman's rival, Governor Dewey. The tendency is to give him kid-glove consideration.

Dewey Sure to Win

There are two reasons for this:

1. About 75 per cent of the newspapers have announced for Dewey.

2. Dewey is certain to win, and it's only natural to want to be on the side of the winner.

My own feelings about Dewey have been a matter of public record for a long time. As early as October, 1946, when most Republicans were claiming he could never overcome the GOP jinx of having been defeated once, I categorically predicted that he would be the next Republican nominee. I also appraised him, on the eve of the Philadelphia Convention, as the ablest of all the Republican candidates next to Governor Warren.

I also predicted in May, 1948, that Harry Truman would not carry one State north of the Mason-Dixon line and would lose two States below it. (Since then I have revised his Southern loss to four.)

Truman's Uphill Fight

Nevertheless, I can't help but admire the spunky uphill fight Truman is putting up; and I can't help but think also that the American public has a right to know the issues on the Republican side much more fully than it is getting them today.

We already know pretty much all there is to know about Harry Truman. We know that he is inept, warm-hearted, impulsive, sincere, courageous, human, likable, a poor picker of men, inclined to lose his temper, shoots from the hip, has a fine set of principles, but is tragically inefficient at carrying them out.

Dewey's Unknown Record

We also know that Dewey is a cool, calculating, careful, highly efficient, has an excellent record in New York, a temper like Truman's, though he's learned to keep it under control; is vain, and for that reason will take great pride in making a good record as President.

But we do not know a lot of other things about Dewey that we already know about Truman and that we ought to know about the next President of the United States.

For instance, a great many people are asking what Dewey's war record is. Dewey was not Governor of New York or even district attorney when war broke with Japan. But for some strange reason you will find not one word in the press about his record.

I for one do not consider it necessary for a man to have served in the war to become President. Perhaps we have placed too much emphasis on the idea that a candidate must be a veteran before he can hold public office. But I do think it's important that the public have a right to know what the record is, and if you ask the head of Governor Dewey's draft board, he will tell you that the record is confidential.

Furthermore, it's important that the public know who the big contributors are on both sides, that they understand what big business expects to get out of this election, and that they force a full discussion on the basic issues.

In future columns I shall attempt to discuss some of the issues. And I predict that, by the time I'm finished, both sides will be sore as blazes and my editors ready to chuck me out of the paper.
